Expect Low Voter Turnout

He Gets Election Support

A flurry of election eve support for William H. Rentschler's bid for the Republican nomination for United States Senator has added a touch of excitement to today's Republican primary race.

Activity on Rentschler's behalf developed in Palatine and Wheeling Townships but Rentschler's opponent, Sen. Ralph T. Smith, is still considered a heavy favorite both statewide and in this predominantly Republican suburban area.

In Palatine Township, Rentschler received an endorsement by Palatine Mayor Jack Moodie. Palatine Township's Republican Organization has endorsed Smith but Moodie and several other top Republicans are known to prefer Rentschler.

"I think he's (Rentschler) our best candidate," Moodie said. "I agree with him on many things, including his insistence that the Republican Party maintain open primary elections. I also agree with his views against high interest rates as a means of curbing inflation and would prefer, as he does, that government spending be cut."

Moodie, who was elected mayor on a Republican ticket, also said he agrees with Rentschler's support of President Nixon's plan to Vietnamize the war.

Moodie was active in last fall's campaign to elect U.S. Rep. Philip Crane.

The Wheeling Township movement for Rentschler is not as open but may have more results.

Like Palatine Township, Wheeling's GOP has endorsed Smith but this weekend, campaign literature for Rentschler was being widely distributed through the township.

In both Wheeling and Palatine Townships, Smith's endorsement followed lengthy discussion and many party members who voted for the senator were known to favor Rentschler.

Local Man Fined $500

Robert J. Fischer, 22, of 1988 W. Algonquin Road, Mount Prospect, recently was fined $500 and put on one-year probation after having been found guilty by a Circuit Court jury to charges of driving while under the influence of alcohol and failure to reduce speed to avoid an accident.

Fischer, one of three persons injured in an accident between a truck and two cars last fall in Elk Grove Township, pleaded guilty.

Street Improvement Program Eyed

A residential street improvement program in Elk Grove Village will get underway in the next two months.

The project involves 14 streets north of Elk Grove Boulevard and south of Oakton Street that will undergo base repair or repaving.

Last week the village board approved the use of a new paving process, the Cutler repaver, which capital improvements committee chairman Ronald Chernick said would repave six streets for the cost of two over an old method.

The eight streets to be repaved are Elk Grove Boulevard, Blaine Drive, Bonita Avenue, Delphia Avenue, Corinthia

Drive, Love Street, Lilac Lane and Tonne Road.

THE COST of this project would be approximately $49,000 according to Chernick.

Six other streets are to be brought back up to grade in the next two months, for possible repaving by the Cutler method.

These streets, involved in a project which was postponed from last fall, are Ridgewood Road, Charing Cross Road, Tower Lane, Edgewood Lane, Holly Lane and Greenbrier Street.

Base work on Edgewood Road, planned under the original program, was excluded because damage to the base was not bad enough to warrant it, Chernick explained.

The village board approved Elk Grove Engineering to put the base repair and drainage correction work out for bids on the other six streets.

IF THE CUTLER repaving method is considered successful on the first eight streets it will be used for those undergoing base repair, Chernick said. He explained that Arlington Heights has used this method and it has proven satisfactory.

"These streets haven't had much preventive maintenance. That's what we are trying to do now," he said.

He added, "We're real optimistic about it. If it works it will save us a lot of money," Chernick said.

He said that the village will no longer use the same base when constructing new streets and that the newer bases had higher standards to make them firmer.

Repairs this spring are being financed under the general corporate fund, but Chernick said that the village is seeking to use motor fuel tax funds for possible street work in the future.

Polls will be open until 6 p.m. today for Illinois Republicans to nominate a United States Senate candidate and for Democrats in the Northwest suburbs to select a congressional candidate and local township committeemen.

A low vote turnout is forecast for the primary, due primarily to the lack of competition on the Republican side of the ballot.

Only one GOP race exists in this area as local candidates for state office and for township committeemen positions are unchallenged.

THE MAIN EVENT is between Sen. Ralph T. Smith and William Rentschler, the opponents for the GOP Senate nomination.

Smith was appointed to the position by Gov. Richard Ogilvie last fall following the death of Sen. Everett M. Dirksen.

Rentschler, who disagreed with Ogilvie's choice last fall, is the only Republican who chose to challenge Smith although perennial candidate Lar "America First" Daly is on the ballot.

The winner of the Smith-Rentschler fight will oppose Democrat Adlai E. Stevenson III in the general election in November.

Locally, the only contested races are on the Democratic side of the ballot.

OF FOREMOST interest is the race between State Rep. Edward Warman, D-Skokie, and Prof. Curtis MacDougall of Northwestern University for the Democratic nomination for Congress.

This is the second time around for Warman, who was defeated last fall by Republican Philip M. Crane in the special election called to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of Donald Rumsfeld.

Crane beat Warman by 20,000 votes in a low turnout election and the winner of today's primary gets the questionable honor of taking on Crane in the fall.

Another district-wide race for Democrats pits Raymond Krier of Niles Township against Lynn Williams of New Trier Township for the post of Democratic state central committeeman.

WILLIAMS IS AN anti-machine, anti-Mayor Daley candidate while Krier, the incumbent, is an admitted supporter of the Chicago mayor and his way of running ning the party in Cook County.

There is a "mini" Daley supporter vs. anti-Daley candidate battle in Palatine Township where Committeeman Peter Gerling is being challenged by Richard Mugalian.

Two other township committeeman races where the incumbents are heavy favorites are in Wheeling Township, where Committeeman James L. McCabe is challenged by Herman Koeneman, and in Schaumburg Township, where Committeeman John F. Morrissey is being tested by Charles DePaul.

THE COMMITTEEMAN terms are all for four years.

Voters today must declare a party preference and may not change their party unless they have not participated in a primary election within the past two years.

The book fair is the first fund-raising event of the PTC this year.

Hours for the fair Wednesday are 9 to 11 a.m., 1 to 5 p.m. and 6:30 to 9 p.m. Thursday it will be open from 9 to 11 a.m. and 1 to 5 p.m.

Smiley Is Seeking Dist. 59 Position

Jerry Smiley, 1156 Cheltenham Lane in Elk Grove Village, has become the eighth announced candidate for a seat on the School Dist. 59 board of education.

On Friday he announced that he plans to file the necessary nominating petitions this week.

Smiley is the second candidate to seek the lone two-year seat. Paul Neuhauser, the incumbent, filed his petition Feb. 25. All the other candidates have filed for the other three openings which are three-year terms.

Smiley is a staff industrial engineer for Continental Can Co. located in Centex Industrial Park. There are several reasons why Smiley is seeking a board seat. He said he has a desire to contribute something to the area in which he lives. He will have two of his four children attending Dist. 59 schools this fall.

Secondly, he said he was concerned with the relatively small number of candidates who had filed for the election, especially the two-year term since the incumbent was running unopposed.

He said his background in education and industry had given him the tools to cope with some of education's most pressing problems.

Oh, For A Million!

Some 92,000 bottlecaps isn't quite a million but it's getting there.

Fifth grade students at Grant Wood School in Elk Grove Village have collected another 30,000 bottlecaps in the last month in efforts to see what a million looks like. Their grand total is now 92,000.

"They're still coming in pretty good. We're always seeking new sources of supply," said Mrs. Judith Ward, fifth grade teacher.

Plan Easter Sunrise Service In Community

The first community Easter sunrise service in Elk Grove Village is being planned by the clergy.

Several churches are planning to unite and meet for one hour beginning at 7 a.m. to celebrate the resurrection of Christ. All the participating churches will be sharing in the program, according to Rev. Schuyler Butler, Elk Grove Baptist Church pastor.

REV. JOHN MARRS, missionary to Brazil, has been scheduled as guest speaker.

Tollway Interchange Clears Hurdle

The Northwest Tollway-Arlington Heights Road interchange cleared another paper hurdle Monday when the Cook County Board agreed to negotiate an easement on forest preserve district property for a cloverleaf.

Acting as a forest preserve district board, county commissioners agreed to give up 10.2 acres of land at the southwest corner of the two major roadways intersection between Arlington Heights and Elk Grove Village.

The Illinois Toll Highway Commission awarded Feb. 26 a construction contract for an on-off interchange to the Tollway. Work has been delayed until the commission holds title to all land needed in four quadrants necessary for a cloverleaf.

THE $1,348,563 CONTRACT will provide a half interchange accommodating all traffic to and from Chicago. No date has been set for another two ramps to accommodate traffic to the west.

Arthur Janura, superintendent of the Cook County Forest Preserve District, recommended granting the easement Monday, stating the commission had first asked for 15 acres. He noted his office had once recommended the entire interchange be put on private property east of Arlington Heights Road but was talked out of this because of the design necessity to turn left across Arlington Heights Road.

The Toll Highway Commission is negotiating for a total 35 acres on land around the intersection. Acquisition is expected by the end of this month and the tollway ramps are expected to be completed by late December.

Of all the parcels the commission is bargaining for, the forest preserve district, with its hard noed policy of refusing to give up land even for public purposes, had the commission most worried.

COOK COUNTY Commissioner Floyd Fuile told the county board Monday that to refuse to give up the land would nullify the entire interchange. He said the connections are vital for traffic flow in the fast-growing northwest suburban area.

Forest Preserve District attorneys are to negotiate the price for relinquishing the land for the Tollway. Money from this sale will be used to buy comparable acreage elsewhere, County Board Pres. George Dunne said.

The Arlington Heights Road toll access will primarily benefit Arlington Heights and Elk Grove Village drivers who must now drive out of the way for tollway access. An interchange will also benefit Northwest suburban industries that rely on Chicago labor.

To Rule On Measles Plan

A decision is expected today on who will be responsible for the German measles immunization program in the northwest suburban area this spring.

State officials will attend a meeting at the Cook County Public Health Department to discuss details and financing of the project. The Health Department has told Northwest Community Hospital that a firm decision should be made during the conference.

With the prospect of a measles epidemic this spring, the hospital had made plans with school districts in the area to immunize 50,000 children in late April. By making the children immune, it is hoped that expectant mothers will no longer catch the disease.

WHEN A WOMAN has German measles early in pregnancy, there is a good chance that her child will be born with a severe birth defect. Cost to parents for the injection, which will be done at the schools, was projected at $2.

After preliminary plans were made, the Health Department learned that the state may make funds available for a similar immunization project.

Hospital officials hope to learn today whether state funding is a certainty and what date would be set for the immunizations. If the county-state program does not materialize, Northwest Community will continue to make plans for the late April injections.

Huddleston Seeks Post

James Huddleston

James Huddleston, Rolling Meadows alderman, is seeking election to the Cook County Board of School Trustees in today's election.

Huddleston, one of 12 candidates running for 3 openings, is an inspector with the State Highway Department.

In deciding to run for the county office, Huddleston says there is no representation on the board from the northwest area. The board's sole duty is to hear petitions from citizens and boards of education on school boundary lines. Only one person from a Congressional Township District can serve on the board.

LAST YEAR the seven-member non-partisan board heard 10 petitions. One which is being filed this spring is from a group of Rolling Meadows residents seeking to detach from Dist. 211 and join Dist. 214 so their high school students can attend the high school being built in Rolling Meadows by Dist. 214.

Huddleston and his wife Verna live at 2306 Full St. in Rolling Meadows with their three children.

He attended Chicago YMCA Junior College and Northwestern University. The 39-year-old alderman studied through the Insurance Institute courses in business law, real estate appraisal and real estate law.

Raise $19,000 In 'Y' Membership Campaign

The Twinbrook YMCA has raised $19,000 or half its goal in its 1970 Sustaining Membership Campaign, which recently concluded. The drive goal was $38,000.

Over 200 campaign workers participated in the 1970 membership campaign, and 62 workers exceeded a campaign quota of $125, according to Bob Williams, Twinbrook director.

"There are still about a thousand prospect cards that haven't come in yet, so it is still possible that the $38,000 goal could be reached. Realistically, however, this is not likely to happen," Williams said.

Twinbrook serves the youth of Bloomington, Hanover Park, Hoffman Estates, Medinah, Roselle and Schaumburg.

RAISING OF $19,000 in the membership drive will enable the Twinbrook YMCA to continue all of its present programs during the coming year, stated the Twinbrook director. The budget for Twinbrook during the coming year is $55,000.

Twinbrook will receive $5,700 from the Schaumburg-Hanover Park United Fund this year.

Twinbrook has more than 1,100 persons presently participating in YMCA programs. In 1968, for instance, Twinbrook nearly doubled the Y-Indian Guide program for boys in grades 1 through 3 and their dads; started Gray-Y clubs for boys in grades 4 through 6; started a Y's Men's Club, ran three sessions of Y-Day camp, plus a residence camp and junior high caravan camp.

THE TWINBROOK YMCA has also raised approximately $15,000 to date for purchasing a 15-acre site on Wise Road, near Frost Junior High.

Richard Rathe, Twinbrook YMCA's current president, personally raised $1,235 in the 1970 membership campaign. He was the drive's top fund-raiser. Other leading campaign workers were Greg Hayes, who raised $775; and Lou Decker, campaign chairman, who raised $560.

If the Twinbrook membership drive had raised the entire $38,000 goal, then the YMCA would be able to hire an additional staff member, according to Williams.

EXPANSION OF Twinbrook's programs to include YMCA activities for junior high boys and to begin a program for girls in grades 1 through 3 may not be possible during the coming year, Williams said.

"Because we didn't reach our goal, we may not be able to increase our staff and increase our program this year," said the Twinbrook director. This will have to be determined in the near future. It was planned to add a new staff member at mid-year.

A meeting of Twinbrook's sustaining membership and finance committees is tentatively scheduled next Tuesday to evaluate the past membership campaign.

"The critical point is hiring an additional staff worker. If we are going to expand our program, it will take another worker," Williams asserted.

TWINBROOK YMCA officers for the coming year are to be elected at tomorrow night's board of directors meeting at 8 p.m. in the Y office, 11 East Schaumburg Road, Schaumburg.

Vernon Laubenstein, Schaumburg Township Supervisor, who resides at 125 S. Westover Lane, Schaumburg, is the nominating committee's choice for president. The outgoing president is Richard Rathe.

The six candidates nominated for three vice president posts are: Phillip Southworth, Hoffman Estates; Jack Dau, Roselle; Tom Alston, Hoffman Estates; Mrs. Janet Herman, Schaumburg; Ralph Bielick, Schaumburg; and Erich Schuster, Hoffman Estates.

Nominated for secretary-treasurer of Twinbrook YMCA are Glen Short of Schaumburg and Bernard Swiontek of Roselle.

Nine persons will be nominated tomorrow night for vacancies on Twinbrook's board of directors, including two youth directors. An election will be held by mail.

THE LONG-RANGE plans of Twinbrook, according to Williams, include

Health Survey Is Contemplated

Elk Grove Village may again live up to its reputation as a model community if a tentative health survey is undertaken.

The village board of health has been investigating the possibilities of a complete health survey to determine the needs of the community in efforts to plan for the future.

"Jack Pahl, (village president), has asked us to investigate the idea and is looking for us to set the way for other communities to look at the complete health situation," Brother Ferdinand Leyva, board chairman, said.

"The delivery of health care services has got to change in the 70s. The cost now is monumental," Brother Ferdinand, who also is a St. Alexius Hospital administrator, explained.

Mrs. Charles Brock, board member, said. "We decided we need to clarify our thinking as to exactly what we hope to accomplish and how to go about it before making a recommendation to the village board."

She added, "No other community has done such a survey to our knowledge."

While clarification is being made, expenses are also being studied.

Mrs. Brock said the University of Chicago would conduct a survey through its Human Equations Institute, a not-for-profit organization, but that it would take $30,000 to meet expenses.

"If they trained and used housewives to conduct the survey it might cut the cost in half," she added.

According to Brother Ferdinand, other sources are being investigated along with the possibility of a public health grant.

Stop Poisonings — Stress Care

Children who have raided the medicine cabinet and stuffed themselves full of aspirin, birth control pills or penicillin tablets are rushed to Northwest Community Hospital every week.

March 15 to 21 has been named Poison Prevention Week throughout the country. Statistics at Northwest Community alone show that 69 ingested poison victims arrived at the emergency room since Jan. 1.

Children, ages one to four, make up the majority of cases and the top favorite is aspirin. It is preferred three to one over all other types of materials which may be poisonous to children.

Other substances taken include fuel oil, furniture polish, paint thinner and car cleaner. Honorable mention for trying the most unpalatable substance could go to the child who ate concrete RediMix in a store.

ONLY ONE PATIENT between the ages of 4 and 13 was admitted to the emergency room, a 9-year-old who, in the company of teenagers, drank a toxic poison.

A few poisoning cases in the teen and adult bracket were accidental, such as food poisoning. The majority, however, are listed as overdoses. Hospital officials said that teenagers often discover they are poisoned when they "only intended an experience."

The two-month record at the emergency room shows that 22 small boys and 11 small girls, seven male teens and four female teens, and five male adults and 20 female adults were admitted.

"At least half could have been prevented with a small degree of care on the part of the parents and the rest prevented with a little understanding and compassion," a hospital official pointed out.

Who Will Squeeze Them?

Designs are being drawn for machines that will pick, wash and can tomatoes right in the fields.

Multicon: We'll Return Plats

Multicon, a Hoffman Estates apartment builder, assured village officials Friday that two plats which show layout plans for the development, will be returned soon.

Trustee James Kopp last Monday requested action to get Multicon to return the plat of open spaces for their development and the plat of dedication for the Hassel Road's expansion.

Irregularities in the plats put them back in Multicon's hands for corrections to be made. Multicon is developing 580 apartments between Higgins and Hassel roads on the former Fieldale Gun Club property.

Kopp claimed "slowness" on the part of Multicon in getting the plats re-entered in the county recorder's office.

sions. "We see ourselves quadrupling our program in the next four years," Williams said.

Friday, Richard Regan, plan commission chairman met with officials from Metropolitan Life Insurance Co., mortgage holders on the Multicon development.

"THEY SAID THEY'LL have the corrected plats in my hands Monday morning," Regan said Friday.

Corrections needed involved a torrence deed filed with Cook County that has to be resigned by Metropolitan Life official in New York.

Complaints of dirt on Higgins Road, and other incidents have also been cleared up, Regan added. A meeting between Regan, Trustee Virginia Hayter and Multicon's construction superintendent over the weekend was scheduled to reclarify village expectations for construction site maintenance in Hoffman Estates.

Engineering plans for the Century Towers apartments were approved in other plan commission action last week. Located west of the Bode Road Vavrus Apartments, Century Towers plans 249 units in their first phase development.

ONCE COMPLETED, Century Towers will have 1,700 units.

A study on mosquito abatement is being made by Arthur Nikula, plan commissioner, as a standards guide to Ring Brothers who is planning 831 apartments in a joint venture with Kaufman & Broad northeast of Hassel and Barrington roads.

The Ring Brothers proposal is to be built around a 12-acre lake. Nikula's study will provide standards to avoid water stagnation and mosquito breeding grounds.

William Kennicott, representative of Kaufman & Broad is stimulating action between area developers and the village to provide additional water storage facilities, Regan said. Water storage is needed in the area bound by the Tollway, Barrington Road, and Golf Road west of Highpoint Subdivision.

ON ADVICE FROM Village Atty. Edward Hofert, no approval of development plans in that area will be granted by the village board until water storage arrangements are made.

The storage is needed to assure adequate fire protection in Hoffman Estates.

ONE OF CLEARMONT School's models steps to the "Swing into Spring" theme at the PTO's third annual fashion show Saturday in Lively Junior High School. The fashion show is a mother and daughter event. Fashions were from stores in Arlington Heights, Elk Grove Village and Des Plaines.

She's 'Obligated' to Volunteer Projects

by SANDRA BROWNING

"There's something beautiful about doing something because you want to and not because you have to," the woman said.

And there's something beautiful about Esther Rabchuk's dedication to volunteer work. This dedication has led her to the executive director's chair of the Volunteer Service Bureau of Northwest Cook County.

"I considered my volunteer work worthy of an obligation," Mrs. Rabchuk says, explaining her decision to take the director's job.

As head of the bureau, Mrs. Rabchuk works with placing volunteers who register at the bureau's office at Hersey High School, Arlington Heights. She also works with various agencies, including schools and hospitals, in finding needed volunteers.

AS THE MATCHMAKER between agencies and volunteers, the bureau can offer a different assignment for a volunteer who finds he isn't quite suited for a particular job.

Although at present the bureau is actively placing volunteers in Dist. 214, 25, 23, 21 and 57, Mrs. Rabchuk is planning to expand the program to include all school districts in the Northwest suburbs. Mrs. Rabchuk said school districts interested in starting a volunteer program may contact the office, 392-8051.

The school program is the strongest in Dist. 23, Arlington Heights, where many of the individual schools have a school coordinator who serves as the liaison with the staff and the volunteer bureau. The coordinator isolates the specific needs for volunteers in the school and then can contact the main bureau office to find someone to fill the request.

MOST OF THE people who serve as coordinators trained for their jobs by attending a nine-week training session held at Arlington High School last fall.

The volunteers used in schools and other agencies "are not just another pair of hands," Mrs. Rabchuk stressed. She said the bureau is the most pleased with enrichment programs.

Enrichment programs include activities planned to supplement regular classroom instruction. One woman has shown slides and given a talk on the Middle East to supplement textbook material.

A RETIRED MAN is sharing his extra time and helping boys with woodworking. A music teacher is helping a child learn to play the piano to increase his finger dexterity. Hopefully, this will help him with his problems in handwriting.

The list of possibilities is endless. Special speakers have been brought in to teach children more about the space program and tutors work individually with children.

Mrs. Rabchuk observed a child may have a problem with a specific subject or have a general lack of interest in school. Often, a special volunteer helps with an outside project or activity which provides the spark to awaken an interest in school. "It's not particularly the activity, it's the person who makes the difference," she said.

TOO OFTEN, PEOPLE think they can't do anything and then we find they have talents or hobbies that we can use," she said. At present, the bureau is seeking an expert on the Revolutionary War to speak to elementary school children who are studying that period of history.

Sometimes people with hobbies of stamp collecting or decoupage are just what the agency needs. Sometimes it's just someone who has time to spend to visit residents of an old people's home serving as a friendly visitor.

A volunteer bureau to serve as a clearing house was first talked about in late 1968 and the first official office opened at Arlington High School in May of 1969. Mrs. Dennis Moore served as executive director for the bureau until the end of last month when she was forced to resign because her husband was transferred to Minnesota.

MRS. RABCHUK TOOK over the director's job the beginning of this month. She resigned as president of the American Association of University Women (AAUW) because "I knew I wouldn't be able to handle them both," she said.

Other activities Mrs. Rabchuk has been involved with include the Friends of the Arlington Heights Library, PTA, Dist. 25 nominating caucus committee and church groups.

With her new five-day-a-week job, Mrs. Rabchuk finds she spends more evenings at home with her husband, Alexander.

The family which includes four children resides at 115 S. Donald, Arlington Heights.

MRS. RABCHUK says she has found an outlet for her desire for community involvement during the day as the volunteer bureau director and thus has more of her night time free.

Zone Hearing Could be 'Hot'

The continued public hearing of the Hoffman Estates Zoning Board of Appeals (ZBA) will be held tomorrow at 7:30 at the Hoffman School, 101 Grand Canyon Pkwy.

An overflow crowd of 200 persons is expected for the hearing originally scheduled at the village hall chambers, Daniel Larson, Hoffman Estates administrative assistant, said.

The ZBA is considering the petition of property owners represented by Atty. Robert Haskins to rezone a 78 acres site from business use to a Residential Planned Development (RPD). It is located between Palatine and Bradwell Roads west of Elm Road.

The RPD plan calls for 28 multi-family buildings totaling 1,352 units.

Strong objection to the proposal has come in the hearings first two sessions from the residents of Palatine and Barrington Townships who live near the site.

Tonight at village hall at 8 p.m. the ZBA will consider the petition of the Suburban Bank of Hoffman Estates for approval of a sign at the bank's new Roselle Road location.

Vandals Hit Rupley

Vandals opened a window at Rupley School, Oakton and Ridgewood, Elk Grove Village, Saturday night, took books, papers and records and scattered them around the school grounds.

Witnesses said that they saw two teenage boys reach inside the window. Police picked up the books and loose papers and had the window secured.

Surprise? Your Tax Bills Are Coming

(First of a series)
by P. J. CULLERTON
Cook County Assessor

If you are the owner of one or more of the 1,250,000 parcels of land in Cook county you will be receiving a real estate tax bill soon.

No one looks forward to receiving a tax bill. On the other hand, you probably won't be too surprised.

Most property owners are well aware of the probable taxes when they buy a piece of property and if you have a mortgage — which most people also do — you have been setting aside a certain amount of money every month for just this purpose.

Thus, either you or the mortgage firm will merely deliver into this fund to pay the tax.

WHETHER MEETING the payment is easy or difficult, however, the sum is likely to be substantial, taxes being what they are these days.

As your assessor I can't do anything about the size of your bill — I don't levy the taxes that go to make up the bill.

I can tell you the process that is followed to determine the amount of your bill and I can make sure that the cost of government falls equitably on each parcel of property in the county in proportion to its percentage of the total value.

How this is achieved and other functions of the assessor's office will be explained in four articles that will appear in this paper during the next month. It is information to which you are entitled as a taxpayer and which you should be eager to possess, as it concerns what is probably your single — most — valuable possession — your property.

AS I MENTIONED, I don't levy taxes.

"Appraiser" might be a more accurate description of my position than "assessor." For the sole function of this office is to place a valuation on property for tax purposes so that each piece of property will produce its fair share — no more, no less — of the cost of government.

It is a widely held misconception that when the assessor changes the level of assessments, taxes are automatically changed. The amount of tax is determined by the need of taxpayers for services, as reflected in the appropriations of the tax spending bodies.

The property tax is a local tax, collected in Cook county from the owners of property located in the county. The revenue stays here and is returned to the citizens in the form of schools, police and fire protection, parks, forest preserve areas, medical care and the whole host of services that citizens in a highly complex community such as this demand from government.

IN THIS RESPECT the property tax differs from taxes imposed by the state of Illinois (income, sales, inheritance, etc.) and the federal government (income, excise, etc.) The point is that the property tax is locally administered, locally collected and, above all, locally spent.

A real estate property taxpayer's first question may concern the figures on the bill he receives in the mail. What do they mean?

Though today's bills are much simpler and easier to understand than those of a few years ago which included lengthy and complicated legal descriptions of the property, the vast accounting system needed to keep accurate records on each parcel of property still requires a myriad of figures.

The 1968 tax bill for a parcel of property located in Chicago notes the following:

First, you will note that the bill comes in two parts — first installment and second installment. Normally the first installment is due May 1 and the second not until Sept. 1.

under each installment. The total amount of the two installments is the product of multiplying the assessed valuation by the state equalization factor and then by the tax rate.

Campaign Nears End

A five-week campaign to sell a 17-cent referendum to voters in the Harper College area will conclude this week with six speaking appearances by college personnel in the four townships — Elk Grove, Palatine, Schaumburg and Wheeling — served by the college.

Five appearances are scheduled for this evening. They are: 7:30 p.m., Cardinal Drive School, Rolling Meadows;

7:30 p.m. North School PTA, Arlington Heights; 8 p.m., Helen Keller Junior High, Hoffman Estates; 8 p.m., Wilson School PTA, Arlington Heights, and 8:30 p.m., Westbrook School PTA, Mount Prospect.

The final speaking appearance is scheduled for 8 p.m., Wednesday, at the Cambridge Country-Side Club in Buffalo Grove. Fred Vaisvil, director of placement and student aids, will speak.

HARPER COLLEGE administrators, faculty members, board members and students have spoken at a variety of locations throughout the area in support of the referendum, which will be conducted this Saturday.

The college, located at Algonquin and Roselle Roads in Palatine, is seeking an 11-cent increase in the education fund and a six-cent hike in the building (maintenance) fund. The referendum has been endorsed by the Arlington Heights chapter of the American Association of University Women (AAUW).

On Sunday, the college held the sixth and final open house prior to the referendum. A spokesman for the college said that it drew about 800 persons.

One faculty member, according to the spokesman, swore that the count was closer to 1,000 persons. At least 100 persons present were members of the Gold Card Club, a group of more than 65 persons sponsored by High School Dist. 214 in Wheeling and Elk Grove Townships.

In other developments, incumbent board member Mrs. Frederic Nicklas of Palatine received a telegram from 13th District Congressman Philip Crane congratulating the college and Mrs. Nicklas for their efforts.

THE TELEGRAM stressed that the successes of Harper "are as great a tribute" to Mrs. Nicklas as to the college. Mrs. Nicklas was active in Crane's successful campaigns last fall in Palatine Township. Mrs. Nicklas had invited Crane to attend one of the college's open houses.

The "Harper Weekly Bulletin," published by the college, urges persons interested in passage of the referendum to urge at least two other persons to vote on Saturday. It also stated that persons are needed to baby-sit and drive voters to the polls on Saturday.

Conduct Study In Chronic Diseases

DENVER, Colo. (UPI) — There is an "international house" among hospitals in this mile-high city.

National Jewish Hospital and Research Center is a "court of last resort" for chronic diseases, including tuberculosis, asthma, and other immunological disorders. As such, it accepts patients from all over the world.

Patients come from Korea, Pakistan, Poland, Israel — from anywhere disease strikes. The non-sectarian and free-care hospital has treated 418 foreign patients from five continents. One-third of the professional staff is from foreign countries. Included are department heads, staff physicians and researchers.

The staff is engaged in many projects that are joint efforts with researchers in other countries.

In one such project, National Jewish Hospital's Dr. Werner B. Schaeffer cooperated with a veterinary laboratory and tuberculosis center in Wales. The report on results was published in a British medical journal.

In another study, Dr. Schaeffer worked with doctors connected with hospitals in Jerusalem. His current research focus is on several microbe strains from Brazil that may be causing a tuberculosis-like sickness there. That work is financed by a grant from the World Health Organization (WHO).

A new instrument that gives a more accurate diagnosis or causes of allergies was developed at the hospital. Used in hospitals in Japan, Canada and the United States, it is called a quantitative inhalation challenge apparatus.

It measures how much of a reaction is brought about by a suspected cause of allergy rather than simply whether or not it causes a reaction.

One reason there is intense research in tuberculosis at the hospital: the significance the disease represents in world health.

Authorities estimate that half of the world's population has been infected with the tuberculosis germ and that the disease kills three million persons annually. WHO recently called tuberculosis the world's number one health problem.

The Way We See It

It Was a Big Year

Today is the first anniversary of the Herald's "new look" newspaper.

It was on March 17, 1969, that the "Early Bird" was first delivered to doorsteps in the community. Its new six-column format, which has since become familiar to readers, marked it as the nation's most modern suburban newspaper.

On that same date, the first four Paddock Publications newspapers were converted from tri-weekly to daily frequency, the historic Herald name was returned to the Palatine Enterprise, and the Buffalo Grove Herald was launched.

The Early Bird arrived in a flourish of billboard, radio and newspaper advertising. It was delivered by a growing army of Herald carrier boys.

The new morning dailies were so successful that within two months all of Paddock Publications' Cook County newspapers began publishing daily, Monday through Friday.

Many things about the Herald didn't change: solid, factual, thorough reporting of community news by the Northwest suburbs' only fully professional news staff; timely commentary and editorial judgments; community involvement.

While these strengths were retained, extensive changes were made in both news "package" and content. Column width was changed to a new "op" size for optimum reading ease. More photographs were produced, and they were displayed better.

New features were added, news departments were reorganized, the inside pages were brightened with better makeup, new type faces were employed and the nameplate and departmental headings were redesigned.

Reporters were added, along with new staff in the women's, sports and photo departments. Hundreds of carriers were hired, and staff was added to the advertising, circulation and production departments.

Response to these changes was immediate. Circulation began a steady climb and has grown 60 per cent in the past year. In both display and classified lineage, the Herald strengthened itself as the Northwest suburbs' dominant medium.

Advertisers liked the services provided them by our personnel and, more important, found the response to advertising in the Herald well worth the investment. Reader acceptance of the Herald, and plain results, became the advertising staff's main selling tool.

Professionally, the new product won accolades, too. Based on its first two months in the new format, the Herald was named best in the state by the Illinois Press Association in use of illustrative material and in excellence of typography and makeup. It was the only non-Chicago newspaper to be recognized in the category of general excellence.

Among several dozen other professional awards, the Herald received four other first place prizes. One, and most coveted, was a first place among all the nation's dailies for photographic excellence, awarded by the National Press Photographers Assn. It was the first time that distinction ever went to a non-metropolitan newspaper. Three other firsts, awarded by the Northern Illinois Editorial Assn., were for: makeup and appearance; women's section; and best local feature.

Appreciated as were these recognitions, the only meaningful measure of our success in serving our readers is their response. It has been most positive.

We hope that in the coming year we will continue to please you and that you will continue to like the innovations we have planned for the future.

Palatine Today

A Different 'Pollution'

by AL GREENE

"You can't knock pollution," the wife said. "The PEP (Pollution and Environmental Problems) people will start screaming and hollering."

She is, of course, right. The fight against pollution has drawn the imagination and energies of tens of thousands of people throughout the country. Anytime 300 people in Palatine show up for a meeting, you know something is happening.

So if nixing the movement would be unpopular, then perhaps a little nudging wouldn't.

There is at least one thing worse than pollution that we should be worried about, but it is not getting nearly the same amount of attention. It is nuclear holocaust.

A slip of a button, or a bit of panic can wipe us out tomorrow. The problem is immediate.

A FEW years ago, when the bomb-shelter craze was at its peak, there were no warnings about possible dangers. The danger, the threat to our existence, was in the here and now.

There is no reason to believe the threat is now any less. On the contrary, with the expenditure of billions of dollars (about eight per cent of the world's output), there is good reason to believe the situation has worsened.

If our missiles with nuclear warheads were fired now, you wouldn't have to worry about mortgage payments, life insurance payments or car payments. It would be all over.

There would be nothing left. Zilch. A washout. The end. Period.

WITH POLLUTION, however, the American people have a few years to go. We have been and are being WARNED about polluting our air and fouling our water to the extent that it will no longer support our life form. We are given 10 to 30 years before we have had it.

What we ought to do is channel some of the energies now being used to fight pollution into a fight against nuclear weaponry and in favor of arms reduction.

The reason the pollution fight has been so popular is that people can see the results of their work. They can see a chimney that is not spewing smoke into the air or they can see clear, blue water.

If they were successful in a weapons limitation campaign, the government would not open the doors to its nearest arsenal and say, "Hey you crusaders, look how few bombs we have." The government doesn't operate that way.

THE GOVERNMENT, as a matter of fact, will fight anybody who attempts to limit arms production.

The arms business is a whopping industry in this country. The people who produce the weapons, those who sell them and those who use them, depend on a living. Putting people out of work has never been popular.

There are those who say that we need nuclear weapons for security. Other countries are just waiting for a weakness in the United States to develop so they can pounce on it and claim its lands and people as soon as possible, the reasoning goes.

Our country has managed to hold together this long, with all its differences, because of an underlying trust in our governmental system. We do not have a revolution every four years, but an election.

Any other country foolish enough to have designs on the U.S. could never govern it. The American people will not stand for a dictatorship. Maybe in Latin America they will, but not on home ground.

WE ARE now in a period of easing tension between us and the Soviet Union. Now would be the time to insure that this temperamental continues. It will do so if we start negotiations that will lead to disarmament.

The second phase of the Strategic Arms Limitation Talks are slated to begin this year. They will have a better chance of success if the American people make it known that they would like to be free from the fear of nuclear war.

Atmospheric radioactivity, after all, is a form of air pollution.

housing in the suburbs has been such a bugaboo for such a long time that its proponents have become guilty of keeping local residents in the dark about what is planned for their communities.

Organizations such as New Communities, for example, have deliberately tried to keep areawide knowledge of their work to a minimum for fear that premature exposure would mean the end of their work in the suburbs.

Community knowledge of the plans of the Presbyterian church in Prospect Heights has been so sketchy that people in the neighborhood panicked when the Presbytery revealed a plan to use the land for low-cost housing.

In short, the proponents of low cost housing in this area have been guilty of working in secret, of creating suspicion about their activities, and of pre-judging the communities to the point that they believe a hostile reception is waiting for any low cost housing project.

It's a two-way street to fair housing and adequate shelter for the people who need it. You need full disclosure and honesty on both sides. It simply won't work any other way.

No Way To Save A Sick Tree?

by BRAD BREKKE

It's an insidious disease. It's slow and sure. It's tricky and incurable. And it's fatal.

It's called Dutch Elm disease and it's been around a long time, only not much has been done to curb its spread or cure the trees that already have been infected by it.

It's the cancer of plant life. It's the blight which can change the entire face of a community. And unlike plastic surgery, when it hits, it always gets worse. Never better.

Dutch Elm disease can hit any time, anywhere.

And now it has hit Mount Prospect.

It's hit here before, but never so hard.

EVERY TOWN WITH elm trees, I suppose, suffers a certain number of casualties due to the disease each year.

In Mount Prospect's case, a few years ago 25 trees were lost annually. That's not good, but it isn't catastrophic.

Last year, however, that number jumped up to 100 trees. And now predictions are that more than 5,000 of the community's largest and oldest elms will get the axe and chain-saw combination in the near future.

The village seems to be beyond preventive measures. Today it needs a cure. Cost of sawing down and replacing these 5,000 trees has been estimated at $2.5 million.

Not cheap. It never is.

And it seems like a crime, having to destroy so many good shade trees. But unless it is done, more trees will contact the disease until perhaps there won't be a single elm left in Mount Prospect.

AND SADLY ENOUGH, the area hardest hit by the blight is the oldest section of town. Old homes that have stood for decades are going to lose their quaint flavor and stand sorely out like new homes in a recently built subdivision.

Trees the village will be taking down are along the parkways and if you've ever driven down a street where a row of trees has been cut down, you know it's hard to believe that it's the same street you remembered.

Residents will cringe when the cry "Timber!" echoes throughout their neighborhood and the sun burns through where before they had shade.

But that's the way it is and there's very little we can do about it.

A NEW AGENT TO fight the disease is sadly needed here. It was needed years ago, but it never came.

And now the trees, they're going.

Science is funny. We can place a man on the moon, build giant computers, transplant hearts and construct huge industrial complexes.

But our basic problems are still with us.

There's no cure for the common cold yet. Or cancer. Or plant maladies, like Dutch Elm disease.

Simple things, to be sure, but still unsolved.

We still don't know what makes the heart tick or why birds migrate or why some persons live longer than others.

WE STILL SUFFER from loneliness at times, get angry, have to make a living and pay taxes.

We still have war. Air pollution. Poverty.

So perhaps we haven't come as far as it would appear. Perhaps we never will.

That fellow who invented the wheel, I wonder what his thoughts might be on tree disease.

But it's sad, because we will have to watch the trees go. And there is nothing we can do, as individuals that is.

We will watch and taking a couple of aspirins won't make it seem like any less of a loss.

But there is one thing each of us can do privately. And it doesn't cost a thing.

Hope.

Hope that someday, somewhere, someone will come up with a cure and enough preventative measures to wipe Dutch Elm disease right out of the botany books.

And perhaps they will.

Best Protection: Knowledge

Recently on Channel 7's 10:00 news, Jay Rockefeller said that what is needed now with regard to the recent Chicago 7 trial is a lowering of voices, that the increasing polarization is not useful to either side. I agree with Mr. Rockefeller if I interpret his use of the word polarization correctly as meaning, in the political sense, the far right and the far left. In all such controversies, it seems to me, the voice of the thoughtful moderate, if raised at all, is drowned in the cacophony of extremism. The people who try to understand the issues, to inform themselves, can see some part of both points of view. The issues in the so-called Chicago 7 trial are extremely complex, and the answers and solutions, if indeed there are any, cannot be simple.

I am currently reading "Democracy, Dissent, and Disorder" by Robert F. Drinan, Dean of Boston Law School, among other distinguished credits. So far I haven't found any answers, but I am beginning to have some idea of what the questions are, as well as a headache from exercising some semi-dormant brain cells. How many of us really appreciate what a privilege it is, and what an historical rarity, to live in a society where a private citizen can express himself freely, as I am doing right now?

RICK FRIEDMAN says that forces of darkness are descending on this country. Is he just trying to be dramatic, to get our attention so we will read the rest of his column? Perhaps. But I find myself wondering if the forces he has in mind are connected in any way with the army counterintelligence spying activities I have been reading about lately. Isn't the microfilm bank at Fort Holabird (Md.) an infringement of our constitutionally guaranteed liberty? Are we so busy looking for communists that we don't see the shadow of fascism hanging over us?

Did you know that our technology has already perfected the means of surveillance and techniques of thought control and drug use to effectively destroy our freedom and reduce people to a state of indifference? You say you don't believe it, and anyway they would never use such things if they had them? When you finish reading Aldous Huxley's "Brave New World" (recommended by Dan Baumann) try its sequel, "Brave New World Revisited." Then ask yourself why money is being spent on developing these devices and techniques if no one intends to use them.

With apologies to Mrs. Bagby, I seriously question whether we suburbanites really do know what is going on. It seems to me that there are far greater threats to our liberty than exposing our minds to a speaker whose ideas might be left of center or tinted pink. The best protection against mental contamination by communistic ideas is knowledge. As long as we have freedom of thought, and freedom to select what we wish to read, we have the personal liberty to explore both sides of any issue.

I am assured by a recent editorial in the Sun-Times that we have constitutionally guaranteed rights of dissent in America. My dictionary defines treason as "the offense of attempting by overt acts to overthrow the government of the state to which the offender owes allegiance." At the risk of getting on microfilm myself, let me pose a provocative final thought. Our country was born through revolution. The founders of our country, whom we call patriots, committed treason against the British Monarchy, in order to free themselves from an unbearable tyranny and leave us the heritage of freedom we take for granted today. It seems to me a particularly bitter irony that the people today who are concerned enough about the mess our country is in to suggest, through their constitutionally guaranteed right of dissent, that things are so bad that maybe they can't be settled through recourse to due process of law, are branded traitors, and that conscientious writers on the Herald staff who try to defend their right of free speech are subjected to abuse over the telephone from people who want to enjoy their freedom and affluence while others are denied it.

Re: Woods Shows Off a "Scalped" Abbie:

Thank goodness for the Chicago "7," as they afforded some levity for the Elk Grove Township Republicans, as presented to them by Sheriff Woods.

Is there really any difference between the "7" and their name calling to show their disrespect toward authority, and Sheriff Woods' degrading prisoners of the jail, by showing pictures of the shorn locks to entertain groups of people?

I can only assume that the sheriff hoped to prove that these steps will now act as a deterrent to dissent. Now that the "7" are shaven and shorn all will be well with the world.

Both Sides Must Play Fair

by JAMES VESELY

Have you sent your dollar in yet? The Northwest Suburban Housing Coalition is asking everyone for one dollar per month donation for 1970 and 1971. Purpose of the fund will be to help indigent families with housing problems in the Northwest suburban area.

The whole idea is part of the results of a Dec. 5 meeting held at the Mount Prospect Holiday Inn. On that day spokesmen for state, federal and private housing groups spoke to a wide range of concerned suburban officials.

At the close of that day's session, everyone agreed that the seminar had been a success but that the real test would come later.

WELL, THAT TEST is now upon us. The crunch is coming in the form of donations for an assistance fund, and, more severely, in the acquisition of land for low cost housing in Prospect Heights.

First, let me emphasize that the donation of money to the Housing Coalition does not mean an automatic donation to land purchase in Prospect Heights.

The two recent developments, the fund raising and the land purchase, are in fact two unrelated facets of an areawide concern for low-cost housing and the problems of Spanish-American families in the suburbs.

This concern has been a long time coming. The fact that real concern over low-cost housing was stimulated by fire and tragedy in Elk Grove Township only heightens the drama and the confrontation over such housing.

IN FACT, THE spectre of low cost

Hello To Spring Means

Farewell to Basketball

by BILLIE BACHHUBER

Nature is showing small signs that spring is on the way once again.

Our backyard Chinese elm — cold and silvery in winter's light — now is turning a rich bronze. Spidery branches are laden with tiny, hard buds, which, I think, are leaf buds. Busy and feisty and forever chirping, flocks of sparrows are taking over bird houses intended for purple martins and wrens. Once more frolicking about are a pair of red squirrels, their winter coats still thick and plush against a sudden spring snow shower.

Nature gives us many clues at every change of season — some subtle — others as flamboyant as a spring thunderstorm. But welcome as spring is to many of us as the reawakening and rebirth of nature and all her loveliness, for others it holds a sting of regret... even sadness. Spring fever, for some, cools basketball fervor! For basketball fans throughout the land, the curtain is coming down!

WHILE ORDINARY mortals shiver and complain in winter's icy grip, the basketball fan "lives" from weekend to weekend in a warm glow of companionship and "love" for "his" team.

A favorite player is his "baby," mutual fans are staunch allies and fast friends and the sights and sounds of the gymnasium are his winter garden. And, perhaps best of all, on the basketball court and in the stands, there is no generation gap! From babe-in-arms to grandmother, the only age is... young.

Music may speak the international language, but where there's basketball... democracy reigns! The best of it and the worst of it, from free speech to freedom of protest (and do fans ever protest), democracy really works. Watch a coach dare to protest just a mite too vigorously and see Judge Hoffman pale in comparison. Justice is meted out swiftly, firmly and finally. Right or wrong, the referee rules from the court as the judge does from his bench. Every call is the "law" and the "law" keeps the game rolling... something every player and every fan wants, no matter what his "beef."

NOW SPRING IS on the way. I suppose next I will see a robin. Or a crocus poking its bright little spike through the lawn. The grass will turn green and my favorite flowering purple plum tree will bloom. I will be able to run next door to borrow a loaf of bread without 10 minutes of pulling on boots, gloves, coat and scarf. I won't get stuck taking the carpool to school. I don't have to pour salt on the icy stoop.

So, why am I crying? Basketball season is over.

'Leaks' of Different Kind

by DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The White House is historic and beautiful and a nice place to visit even if you would rather be right than live there.

But like many older buildings, it requires constant attention to keep it in repair.

Within the last couple of weeks, for example, the White House has developed a bad leak of Patrick Moynihan memoranda.

PRESIDENT NIXON and I don't have many problems in common, but this is one that has aroused my empathy. I can identify with him on this one because my own house recently developed a leak in the basement.

There is a slight difference, to be sure. At my house the water leaks in, whereas at the White House the memos leak out.

But in both cases the remedy is to find the leak and plug it.

President Nixon probably will approach the problem the way I did.

I looked in the yellow pages and got the names of a couple of waterproofing contractors. The President, I assume, will be getting in touch with companies that fix memo leaks.

If his experience is anything like mine, here is what he is in for:

"MR. PRESIDENT, I'm Grady McStoppie from the Acme Memoproofing Co. You called us for an appraisal?"

"Yes, I did. There's a memo leak around here some place that I wanted to get fixed."

"What kind of a memo leak is it?"

"It's a Moynihan memo leak. Three memos written by my counselor, Patrick Moynihan, have leaked out this month."

"Hmmm. Do you have any idea

where the leakage occurred?"

"Well, all of the memos had been distributed to cabinet members, so the leak may be in the cabinet room."

"Let me take a look at it. . . yes, the leak very well may be in this area. There's only one thing to do in a case like this and that is to rip out the entire cabinet and replace it."

"The entire cabinet? Good grief! I never dreamed it would take anything that drastic to stop one simple memo leak."

"That's the only way I could guarantee the job, Mr. President. These memo leaks are hard to pinpoint. You try to get by with replacing one or two department heads, and pretty soon the leak breaks out in another spot."

"What causes these memo leaks anyway?"

"Various things, but in this case it's probably structural. Although you have plastered over the top with new memotight Republicans, your cabinet has a lot of porous old Democrats underneath."

Crane Files Volunteer Army Measure

A resolution calling for establishment of a volunteer army was introduced in the U.S. House of Representatives Monday by U. S. Rep. Philip M. Crane, R-18th, and 28 other congressmen from both political parties.

Crane and Rep. Leonard Farbstein, D-N.Y., were the sponsors of the resolution but they had the backing and name support of Democratic Reps. Allard K. Lowenstein of New York, Shirley Chisholm of New York and Michael Harrington of Massachusetts and Republicans Robert McClory of Illinois' 12th District and Barry Goldwater Jr., of California, as well as a handful of others.

The resolution demonstrates the broad based support for a volunteer army within the House of Representatives," Crane said. "We hope this will encourage the house armed services committee to hold hearings and act on the volunteer army."

FARBSTEIN CALLED the current draft system "inherently inequitable and incapable of being reformed."

The resolution calls for an end to compulsory military service after July 1, 1971 and would permit its reinstatement only upon the request of the President and approval of both houses of Congress.

Crane and Farbstein said they are inviting the new draft director-designate, Curtis Tarr, to meet with them and discuss a volunteer army.

They referred to the Gates Commission report which recently recommended a volunteer army and warned that "too many Presidential commission reports have been relegated to the scrap heap once the rhetoric of initial public reaction subsides."

Super-Sectional Play at Eight Sites

Scrimmage Lines

by LARRY MLYNCZAK

Is Champaign Never Land?

SINCE THE FIRST of December these sports pages have been telling readers that such-and-such has a good team and so-and-so team is improving and this-and-that team is looking pretty good.

But after watching two GOOD teams play basketball, such as Maine South and Notre Dame on Friday night, one might wonder that this area has lost its perspective on what GOOD basketball is all about.

Now I am not just talking through my hat. There are records and statistics that bear out the truth better than I do.

In the more than 40 years that this area has had high school basketball, only one (1) team has ever reached the finals of a sectional tournament.

Okay, so there have only been one or two schools which have been playing basketball for 40 years. But of the 10 schools in the Mid-Suburban League, eight have had varsity basketball teams for four years or more.

Also, since 1952, the sectional tournament has been played at a local school — Arlington or Fremd. So you can not say that our locals are getting whipped in somebody else's telephone booth of a gymnasium.

The Mid-Suburban was not a GOOD basketball league this year. And, once again, the statistics bring it forth.

The 10 MSL schools had a combined 37-43 win-loss record against schools outside the conference. And all the losses were not against East Aurora and East St. Louis Assumption. There were also innocents like Harvard, Fenton, Morris, Montini and Holy Cross whipping the locals.

Of the 10 Mid-Suburban League teams, only three (Forest View, Fremd and Hersey) had winning records outside the conference.

If you would care to go down the list, Fremd was 6-2, Hersey 6-3, Forest View 7-4, Arlington 5-5, Elk Grove 3-4, Glenbard North 3-5, Prospect 2-5, Palatine 2-5, Conant 2-5 and Wheeling 1-5.

Size and numbers cannot be used as an excuse. Palatine has the smallest enrollment in the league (around 1400) and most have more than 2,000 students. Also, because of their size, the local teams do not have to fight their way through districts to get into the regionals. Yet only one team has ever won four straight tournament games to reach the sectional finals. (And that team lost in the sectional finals to give the area a "zero" in the supersectionals).

Facilities cannot be used as an excuse because many, many teams have fared better in tournament play with much poorer facilities than this area has.

It might be said that this area just hasn't had the great players to do well in tournament play.

First of all it would be absurd to say that in 40 years this area has been unable to produce some great players. And, yes, there have been top notch players.

One fact must be brought out: a team does not have to have the great players to at least reach the finals of a sectional.

Notre Dame of Niles, though it had a 26-0 record, did not have great players. There were no hot-shot shooters and no skyscraping centers. Notre Dame simply had a well-disciplined, polished, basic, fundamental basketball team. Notre Dame beat a few teams, including New Trier East and Evanston, which had players with better natural ability. But Notre Dame beat them all before losing to Maine South Friday night.

So, what then, is this area doing or not doing while others are playing before big crowds in sectionals and supersectionals, while this area plays before smaller crowds in something like a regional final.

I am not alone in saying that the area teams do not have enough competition — against other schools and within the area schools themselves. I have heard the same thing from coaches and other people who follow the game and the area closely.

First of all, it is too easy for a boy to get a uniform with his school colors around this area. It does not take much ability or basketball background to get a uniform.

What you have on the high school level are varsity, junior varsity, sophomore, frosh 'A', frosh 'B' and, in some cases, frosh 'C' basketball teams. What this does (having all those teams), explain coaches and administration, is allow as many boys as possible to compete in interscholastic basketball... stress "participation," in other words.

And that is what this area has — a lot of participation but not strong basketball.

Do not get me wrong. I am all for the idea of having a lot of boys play basketball. But not all the boys on these levels belong in interscholastic basketball. They should be playing intramural basketball.

Many, many boys simply do not have the ability to take part in interscholastic competition. But they get a uniform anyway because with all of those levels, a boy must stick with a team somewhere.

And it comes down to the fact that a basketball uniform does not MEAN anything anymore.

But what if a boy does not show much ability as a freshman? He could develop into a good one by the time he is a senior.

Sure he could. But let that boy work his way on to a team. Let him improve himself in an intramural program. Let him PLAY on an intramural team instead of SIT the bench on a frosh 'B' team.

What the area teams should do is cut the levels down to varsity, junior varsity (with sophomores and juniors combined) and freshmen. In that way there would be more competition between the teammates themselves to land a place on a team and it would also give boys the incentive to improve themselves to make those teams.

To all of those who really believe in the "participation" system, look at two items: (1) the system has never produced a great team and (2) have you ever looked to see how much the seniors are "participating?" Have you looked at some of these rosters that have four seniors on the entire team? If you really believe in the "participation" system, why aren't the seniors participating? Because they've lost interest in the immense lower level program, that's why.

Competition in the school itself must be helped along by competition against other schools.

Playing Central Suburban and North Suburban teams does not help a team that much. But year after year the Mid-Suburban League teams continually schedule teams from nearby conferences. But what the MSL schools should do is travel to Rockford, go downstate to play somebody, take a trip to Chicago.

So the local team might get beaten. At least it will learn different styles of play. And this learning process helps when it comes time for a tournament.

Some teams did play tougher schedules this year and played in tough Christmas tournaments. But there should be more scheduling with a wider variety of competition.

I may have offended a few people and stepped on a few egos with this column and many might think that this is all a bunch of malarkey.

But the Mid-Suburban League was not a tough conference this year. Some people say, "Well, just wait until next year when some of these teams come around." But why does it always have to be next year?

My job is to report what I see. And what I saw this year in the Mid-Suburban League was not GOOD basketball.

So maybe, just maybe, somebody ought to try what I've suggested. After all, the MSL teams have been doing the same things year after year with only limited success. Somewhere, somehow, there must be a way to bring better basketball to this area.

Seeking State Berths

by BOB FRISK
Sports Editor

Today, there are 16 left, the Sweet 16. By later tonight, there will be only eight, the Elite Eight.

The great distillation job which annually sees hundreds of Illinois high school basketball teams squeezed through tournament pressure, perspiration and pandemonium down to one survivor, moves into its thrilling windup this week.

Sixteen fine schoolboy basketball teams will assemble at eight sites today and tonight with one objective — to land a spot in the world's most beautiful pressure cooker this weekend.

Under the brawny concrete mushroom dome of the University of Illinois Assembly Hall, the eight remaining teams in Illinois high school circles will battle it out Friday and Saturday in the final 32 hours of turmoil.

Here's a look at the Super Sectional action that will unfold today with our predictions:

AT CHARLESTON (8 p.m.)

Effingham St. Anthony (27-2)

Yes, Collinsville is here again. With a lineup dotted with transfers, the Kahoks should escape the Super-Sectional bout with a club that likes to put that ball up. St. Anthony won a 103-101 double overtime thriller in the sectional finale. Call this one Collinsville, 81-68.

AT DEKALE (8 p.m.)

LaGrange (27-0) vs. Sterling (16-12)

Sterling's charge to a Super berth was ignited by a stunning regional upset win over Rockford Auburn, but the taller, more polished Lions of LaGrange should advance to Champaign. We'll call it LaGrange by 73-59.

AT CARBONDALE (8 p.m.)

Okawville (28-1) vs. Mount Vernon (21-5)

One of the most interesting Super-Sectional battles. Okawville with only 200 students has 6-11 Gail Wolff, Mt. Vernon has speed and All-Stater Eddie James. Tougher overall schedule and poise may make the difference here so we like Mt. Vernon in a 68-63 thriller.

AT EVANSTON (4 p.m.)

Maine South (24-2) vs.

Joliet Central (24-6)

Sentiment says Maine South but that surprisingly easy Joliet win over touted Thornton definitely sways our thinking here. Any club that can rock Thornton by 13 and win 24 games in that tough area must have something. We hope we're wrong, but we'll pick Joliet by 67-62.

AT AURORA EAST (4 p.m.)

Harlan (21-4) vs. Aurora East (26-3)

Harlan has speed and can play strong defense, but Aurora has a tourney savvy coach in Ernie Kivisto, an All-Stater in Tom Kivisto, and the home floor working to their advantage. Call it Aurora East by 73-66.

CLEARING A PATH for teammate Mark Lindstrom (left) is 6-foot-8 Hersey sophomore Andy Pancratz in sectional action last week. However, this method of keeping an opponent away, in this case Grag Schmelzer (44) of Maine South, is not recommended as a steady practice. Schmelzer and his Hawk teammates ousted Hersey and then trimmed Notre Dame Friday evening in overtime to earn a spot in the "Sweet 16" of Illinois basketball.

Lincoln (38-0) vs. Peoria Spalding (22-8)

Unbeaten Lincoln plays spectacular defense and has 6-5 All-Stater Gary Novak. Peoria area also turns out strong clubs so the Spalding Irish, second in the state last year, can't be counted out. But we still like Lincoln in a 54-49 battle.

AT NORMAL (8 p.m.)

LaSalle-Peru (28-2) vs. Danville (17-13)

LaSalle has 6-7 All-Stater Gary Novak and a fine supporting cast but must shake off the erratic play that has plagued the Cavaliers throughout the tourney action. They have the tools, however, to beat surprising Danville. We like LaSalle, 59-49.

AT MACOMB (8 p.m.)

East Moline (26-2) vs. Pittsfield (23-7)

Tall, powerful East Moline should have little trouble with Pittsfield unless they take them too lightly. Let's send East Moline to Champaign by a 68-55 count.

Exciting Falcon Year

So Many Cliff-Hangers

by PAUL LOGAN

The fox has become a little more grey over the past four months.

Ken Arneson, the young (41) but prematurely greying coach of the Forest View basketball team, received some new white sprouts during the recently completed season.

His Falcons finished nearly half of points or less. There were three 1-point games by the hairy margin of five ers, four 2-pointers, two 3-pointers, one 4-pointer and one 5-pointer.

Unfortunately, they found themselves on the short end of the score six times in these tightly fought contests enroute to a 12-11 record. And five of those nail biters came during the Falcons' late sidd when they dropped six of their seven regular season games.

(One in a series of reviews of varsity basketball seasons at schools in the Pad-dock Publications circulation area.)

"The free throw, I felt, cost us five out of our last six losses," recalled Arneson. "Going into that stretch we were almost the same as Arlington (in free throw percentage), but during that stretch we shot below 50 per cent. Fundamentally, our shots looked good, I thought it was just the confidence factor."

In the second game of the regional tournament, the Falcons — as they had done all year — played their best against the best, Maine South. The highly ranked Hawks, after having built up a 14 point lead, were nearly shocked by the gutsy Falcons as they erased the margin to only five with three minutes left. Maine just barely got away with the win and went on to capture both the regional and sectional titles, but Forest View had given it a frightful scare.

"We always played better against the good clubs," Arneson noted. "And we had a lot of close ones, boy."

The Falcons nailed up the hides of Maine West (54-52), Elgin (61-54), Hersey (52-51), Fremd (68-41) and Prospect (68-64). But they also took some tough ones on the chin against Deerfield (70-68 in overtime), Arlington twice (50-58, 40-38), Prospect (62-58) and Fremd (73-71).

There were a couple of laughs, however, which established school records. They blitzed Glenbard North, 81-63, while setting a new field goal mark of 35. And, eight days later, smashed that record while potting 36 fielders in romping over Stevenson, 85-38. It was also the largest amount of points and the widest win margin ever.

This year's club also topped the 1968-69 team's total point production of 1335 by 48 markers, but the one mark that the boys had strived for — the 1965-66 all-time best record of 16-7 — just slipped out of reach. From the aforementioned close contests, one can see that the Falcons might have accomplished their pre-season goal had a few breaks and points come their way. However, the Falcons never quit.

"The most outstanding thing was the fact that I don't think we ever had a group at Forest View that tried harder to win ball games," praised Arneson. "They worked all the time and hustled all the time. We were just never out of a basketball game and we played under pressure constantly as those scores indicate."

Arneson spoke of his individuals as "they" because that's just what made the team go this year — teamwork. No one Falcon dominated play throughout the season and so a most valuable player was hard to pick.

"I let my kids vote on it and they decided overwhelmingly not to have one," he explained. "How could we vote with our balance?"

The four Falcons that played the most quarters together finished quite close in scoring average: Wayne Meier (13.7), Dave Long (13.0), Greg Shevell (12.0) and Rich Olson (10.9). And alternating centers George Bauer (4.7) and Keith Phillips (6.7) combined for an 11.4 average. Ed Banfield rounded out Arneson's "Super Seven" with a 4.2 total.

Meier paced the team in both field goal (.477) and free throw (.689) percentages, Long was tops in rebounding (.202) and Shevell broke team records in most assists (75) and most recoveries (75).

Only Bauer (6-3) and Banfield (6-1) will be returning next season as all the above plus Pete Cavallaro, Gary Werner, Don Martin, Mark Ennes and Fred Melone are graduating.

"Our records were not very promising," said Arneson of the lower level teams. "But we have had a few individuals on the junior and sophomore levels. Next year is going to have to be a rebuilding year. We have a few promising young kids but still no height in sight."

Nevertheless, Forest View's foxy coach will field another representative team that will give the coaches with the big boys some grey hairs of their own, plus a few upsets.

Chief Conroy Cited at Fete

Schaumburg's police chief, Martin Conroy, was honored Sunday at a testimonial dinner recognizing his 10th Anniversary as the village's number one police officer.

Residents and dignitaries numbering nearly 300 gathered at the Lancer Restaurant for the event.

Most persons attending greeted the smiling Conroy by saying "Thanks Chief," for the service and security he has offered the community.

Special words were offered during a sit-down dinner by Cook County Sheriff Joseph Woods who said men like Conroy are proud to be called "pigs."

"That stands for pride, integrity, and guts," Woods said.

PRAISE FOR CONROY was also offered by Mayor Robert Atcher, Trustee

Donald De Vale who told of Conroy's accomplishments since he came to Schaumburg when 800 persons lived in the community.

The biggest challenge will come for Conroy during the next five years said Ward Weaver, president of the Schaumburg State Bank.

He said 300 retail stores will come to Schaumburg during the next 2 years, and the population will grow to 50,000 in the next five years.

Wayne Schaible, superintendent of School Dist. 54, praised Conroy for his cooperation in instituting the Officer Friendly Program in the elementary school.

Officer Friendly gives children an image of the policeman as a friend and protector, Schaible said.

Appreciation from the men working under Conroy in Schaumburg's police department was expressed by Sgt. Robert Hammond. He told of Conroy's flexibility and adaptability to any situation at hand. Toastmaster Ray Kessell.

Others who spoke recognizing Conroy were Judge Marvin Peters and Frank Florite, an investigator with the state internal revenue department. Also speaking was William Griffin, Skokie Chief of Police, who Conroy worked for in the late 1950s.

Florite told anecdotes including a story about the police dog Conroy once had on Schaumburg's force.

"When Marty said attack, the dog would have one," Florite said.

The committee planning Sunday's testimonial included Hammond, De Vale, William Heidt, Richard Ronne, Bonita De Vale and Mary Jane Scott.

Conroy and his wife, Georgia, were given a two week paid vacation in Florida by a group of Schaumburg professional persons and businesses sponsoring Sunday's event.

Low Voter Turnout Has Been Forecast

Polls will be open until 6 p.m. today for Illinois Republicans to nominate a United States Senate candidate and for Democrats in the Northwest suburbs to select a congressional candidate and local township committeemen.

A low vote turnout is forecast for the primary, due primarily to the lack of competition on the Republican side of the ballot.

Only one GOP race exists in this area as local candidates for state office and for township committeemen positions are unchallenged.

THE MAIN EVENT is between Sen. Ralph T. Smith and William Rentschler, the opponents for the GOP Senate nomination.

Smith was appointed to the position by Gov. Richard Ogilvie last fall following the death of Sen. Everett M. Dirksen.

Rentschler, who disagreed with Ogilvie's choice last fall, is the only Republican who chose to challenge Smith although perennial candidate Lar

"America First" Daly is on the ballot. The winner of the Smith-Rentschler fight will oppose Democrat Adlai E. Stevenson III in the general election in November.

Locally, the only contested races are on the Democratic side of the ballot.

OF FOREMOST interest is the race between State Rep. Edward Warman, D-Skokie, and Prof. Curtis MacDougall of Northwestern University for the Democratic nomination for Congress.

This is the second time around for Warman, who was defeated last fall by Republican Philip M. Crane in the special election called to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of Donald Rumsfeld.

Crane beat Warman by 20,000 votes in a low turnout election and the winner of today's primary gets the questionable honor of taking on Crane in the fall.

Another district-wide race for Democrats pits Raymond Krier of Niles Township against Lynn Williams of New Trier Township for the post of Democratic state central committeeman.

WILLIAMS IS AN anti-machine, anti-Mayor Daley candidate while Krier, the incumbent, is an admitted supporter of the Chicago mayor and his way of running the party in Cook County.

There is a "mini" Daley supporter vs. anti-Daley candidate battle in Palatine Township where Committeeman Peter Gerling is being challenged by Richard Mugalian.

Two other township committeeman races where the incumbents are heavy favorites are in Wheeling Township, where Committeeman James L. McCabe is challenged by Herman Koeneman, and in Schaumburg Township, where Committeeman John F. Morrissey is being tested by Charles DePaul.

THE COMMITTEEMAN terms are all for four years.

Voters today must declare a party preference and may not change their party unless they have not participated in a primary election within the past two years.

St. Patrick At 'Poles'?

by DON BRANNAN

It's St. Patrick's Day today, but the local Irish are sharing attention at the polls. (No, not the Poles.) A primary election is being held in Schaumburg Township today, and the polls are open until 6 p.m.

If an Irishman wants a drink to celebrate St. Patrick's Day, he will have to wait until after 6 p.m., since bars will be closed until then. (Now who said that D-Day, June 6, 1944, was "The Longest Day"?)

For one day of the year everyone will be Irish, regardless whether his name is Irish or not. And green wearing apparel (Blessed be the ties that bind.) and flowers will be in plentiful supply today. In Schaumburg, residents will be wearing Irish "Schaumrocks."

LOCAL OBSERVANCE of St. Patrick's Day actually began Saturday with a special Irish program for children at the Schaumburg Township Library. This program features tales of Irish folklore and leprechauns.

Saturday night, several local residents enjoyed a corned beef and cabbage dinner in St. Hubert's Catholic Church in Hoffman Estates.

Local Republicans are scheduled to have green beer served to them tonight when they gather at the party headquarters on Schaumburg Road to await the election results. And many an Irish song will probably be sung before the evening is over.

THE IRISH CLAN in Schaumburg Township includes several prominent government officials. Among the Sons and Daughters of Erin are: Marty Conroy, Schaumburg police chief; red-haired Paul Derda, Schaumburg park director (His mother was a Sullivan.); Robert O'Atcher, Schaumburg's mayor; Dick Regan, chairman of the Hoffman Estates zoning board; Dan Murphy, Hoffman Estates' building inspector; John O'Connell, Hoffman Estates police chief; Michael Madden, township librarian; Edward Hennessey, Hoffman Estates village trustee; and Mrs. Kathleen Wojcik, Schaumburg Township clerk.

Mrs. Wojcik said she got her Irish blood from her paternal grandmother, who was named Rhodes. Her two older sisters are named Eileen and Corine.

ONE IRISHMAN reported that he was not a full-blooded Celtic.

"I was a blood donor recently, so I'm a pint short," he said.

Tefft Students Take Part in Government

The students in the social studies classes at Tefft Junior High School, Irving Park Road, Streamwood, will vote today, for whom they want to represent them on Streamwood's Teen Government Day Friday.

The special project is part of the social studies unit on local government. Students elected will report to the Village Hall at 10 a.m. on March 20. They will work with officials until 2 p.m. and then return that evening for the village council meeting.

The primary, held last week, placed students on the final ballot for village president, village manager, village clerk, treasurer, village trustee, village attorney, engineer, police chief, fire chief, public works, water department and building inspector.

Drive Nets $19,000

The Twinbrook YMCA has raised $19,000 or half its goal in its 1970 Sustaining Membership Campaign, which recently concluded. The drive goal was $38,000.

Over 200 campaign workers participated in the 1970 membership campaign, and 62 workers exceeded a campaign quota of $125, according to Bob Williams, Twinbrook director.

"There are still about a thousand prospect cards that haven't come in yet, so it is still possible that the $38,000 goal could be reached. Realistically, however, this is not likely to happen," Williams said.

Twinbrook serves the youth of Bloomington, Hanover Park, Hoffman Estates, Medinah, Roselle and Schaumburg.

RAISING OF $19,000 in the membership drive will enable the Twinbrook YMCA to continue all of its present programs during the coming year, stated the Twinbrook director. The budget for Twinbrook during the coming year is $55,000.

Twinbrook will receive $5,700 from the Schaumburg-Hanover Park United Fund this year.

Twinbrook has more than 1,100 persons presently participating in YMCA programs. In 1969, for instance, Twinbrook nearly doubled the Y-Indian Guide program for boys in grades 1 through 3 and their dads; started Gray-Y clubs for boys in grades 4 through 6; started a Y's Men's Club, ran three sessions of Y-Day camp, plus a residence camp and junior high caravan camp.

THE TWINBROOK YMCA has also raised approximately $15,000 to date for purchasing a 15-acre site on Wise Road, near Frost Junior High.

Richard Rathe, Twinbrook YMCA's current president, personally raised $1,235 in the 1970 membership campaign. He was the drive's top fund-raiser. Other leading campaign workers were Greg Hayes, who raised $775; and Lou Decker, campaign chairman, who raised $560.

If the Twinbrook membership drive had raised the entire $38,000 goal, then the YMCA would be able to hire an additional staff member, according to Williams.

EXPANSION OF Twinbrook's programs to include YMCA activities for junior high boys and to begin a program for girls in grades 1 through 3 may not be possible during the coming year, Williams said.

"Because we didn't reach our goal, we may not be able to increase our staff and increase our program this year," said the Twinbrook director. This will have to be determined in the near future. It was planned to add a new staff member at mid-year.

A meeting of Twinbrook's sustaining membership and finance committees is tentatively scheduled next Tuesday to evaluate the past membership campaign.

"The critical point is hiring an additional staff worker. If we are going to expand our program, it will take another worker," Williams asserted.

TWINBROOK YMCA officers for the coming year are to be elected at tomorrow night's board of directors meeting at 8 p.m. in the Y office, 11 East Schaumburg Road, Schaumburg.

Vernon Laubenstein, Schaumburg Township Supervisor, who resides at 125 S. Westover Lane, Schaumburg, is the nominating committee's choice for president. The outgoing president is Richard Rathe.

The six candidates nominated for three vice president posts are: Phillip Southworth, Hoffman Estates; Jack Dan, Roselle; Tom Alston, Hoffman Estates; Mrs. Janet Herman, Schaumburg; Ralph Bielick, Schaumburg, and Erich Schuster, Hoffman Estates.

Nominated for secretary-treasurer of Twinbrook YMCA ARE Glen Short of Schaumburg and Bernard Swientek of Roselle.

Nine persons will be nominated tomorrow night for vacancies on Twinbrook's board of directors, including two youth directors. An election will be held by mail.

THE LONG-RANGE plans of Twinbrook, according to Williams, include providing YMCA programs for all school-age youngsters by 1972, and operating approximately 400 clubs for people of all ages in 1975, in addition to camping sessions.

"We see ourselves quadrupling our program in the next four years," Williams said.

A Herald Editorial

The Aquarius: Mighty Burden?

Taxpayers in Hoffman Estates proved Saturday that they are not ready to bear the burden of a large diversified recreational center such as The Aquarius.

The Herald applauded the proposed complex and the expansion plans formulated by the park district and would probably take the same stand if the questions were brought back to the voters.

However, with the large expression of sentiment expressed against The Aquarius in its defeat Saturday, a great vocal majority apparently wishes something else in the way of recreation facilities.

WE WOULD, THEREFORE, encourage the park district to attempt getting a feeling from the community, perhaps through a survey or other type of program which would indicate the residents line of thinking.

Although they most definitely did not share our line of thinking we were gratified to see the unusually large voter turnout whether motivated by the extra tax dollars The Aquarius would have meant to them or by any other reasoning which led close to 3,000 residents to the polls.

Surely, with this number of people interested in the park district, we feel that a workable park development program can be formulated to satisfy their needs and wants.

IT IS STILL The Herald's hope that negotiations between the park district and the village board will ultimately permit the community swimming pool to be placed in the hands of recreation specialists.

We also believe that the park board, itself, has come a long way during the past 12 months. Apparently, the park district still has a way to go in pleasing the people of Hoffman Estates whom we hope will get behind the five board members and help them give the people what they want.

Levitt Officials In Favor Of Annexation

Levitt housing development officials have told Dist. 54 school officials they favor the annexation of 427 acres to the Schaumburg Township elementary district that is now in Elgin Dist. U-46. According to the annexation proposal, the tract of 427 acres would be dis-annexed from Elgin U-46 and annexed jointly by Dist. 54 and High School Dist.

211. Marvin Lapicola, Dist. 54 business services director, said that Levitt officers have told school officials and board members that they prefer that their entire development in Schaumburg (Sheffield Park) be within the same school district.

One hundred and sixty acres of the 427 acres is within the Levitt development area, Lapicola said. Annexation of the 427 acres is now stalled as the result of an earlier board vote.

THE LAND INVOLVED, that is now in Elgin Dist. U-46, is about a half-mile south of Old Higgins Road, a half-mile north of Schaumburg Road, and it extends eastward from Barrington Road for roughly one mile.

At the Feb. 5 school board meeting, the annexation proposal was defeated by a 3 to 2 vote. Board member Gordon Thoren of Hoffman Estates was absent when that vote was taken.

Reconsideration of the board's earlier action was blocked at the March 5 board meeting when board member Mrs. Betty Landon raised a point of order that was ruled valid. It was held that the matter could be considered in another manner.

At the present time, the Dist. 54 board can only reconsider its previous action and vote again on the annexation proposal if an absent board member (Thoren) requests such a vote, or if a new board considered it after being seated.

ACCORDING TO Lapicola, annexation of the 427 acres was recommended by school officials because of the commercial development along Barrington Road planned in the future, and because of the "impracticability of Elgin U-46 indefinitely busing pupils from this area that were within walking distance of Dist. 54 schools."

"I think the (annexation) matter will come before the board again," Lapicola said.

"Levitt could very well make the annexation of this land a point in negotiations," the business director added.

MEMBERS OF THE Dist. 54 building and sites committee are presently holding discussion talks with Levitt officials in regard to having the builder provide a school building for Dist. 54, because of the housing development's impact on Dist. 54.

All major developers in Schaumburg Township are being approached for maximum assistance in providing classrooms for the elementary district. This includes Levitt and Centex developments in Schaumburg, and the Peter Robin and Multicon developments in Hoffman Estates.

Discussion talks between Dist. 54 officials and Levitt officials are scheduled to be held today at 10:30 a.m. in the Levitt firm's office.

Levitt is considered the world's largest single-family homebuilder.

IN REGARD TO HAVING Levitt provide a school building for Dist. 54, Lapicola noted that "It is not our intention for the builders to price themselves out of the market by constructing a school."

The business services director explained that construction of a school for the Levitt development "may not involve the total financing of the school by the developer." This would depend on the negotiations in progress.

Levitt has presently set aside a 26-acre school site on Springguth Road in their developmental plan. The developer is planning to construct single-family homes on 446 acres in western Schaumburg, and to build townhouses and apartments on 279 acres.

The single-family development is expected to take up to five years to complete.

ALL-GIRL COLOR GUARD, The Hi-Lites, of Glenview, Ill., perform a drill during the Drum and Bugle Corps and Color Guard Contest in Jane Adams Junior High in Schaumburg Saturday. Units

from Illinois, Iowa, and Wisconsin participated in the competition. Exhibitions of marching precision were also given by the Guardsmen Drum and Bugle Corps and the Guardsmen Cadets, located in the Northwest suburbs. The Guardsmen practice at Helen Keller Junior High.

Multicon: We'll Return Plats

Multicon, a Hoffman Estates apartment builder, assured village officials Friday that two plats which show layout plans for the development, will be returned soon.

Trustee James Kopp last Monday requested action to get Multicon to return the plat of open spaces for their development and the plat of dedication for the Hassel Road's expansion.

Irregularities in the plats put them back in Multicon's hands for corrections to be made. Multicon is developing 586 apartments between Higgins and Hassel roads on the former Fieldale Gun Club property.

Kopp claimed "slowness" on the part of Multicon in getting the plats re-entered in the county recorder's office.

Friday, Richard Regan, plan commission chairman met with officials from Metropolitan Life Insurance Co., mortgage holders on the Multicon development.

"THEY SAID THEY'LL have the corrected plats in my hands Monday morning," Regan said Friday.

Corrections needed involved a torrence deed filed with Cook County that has to be resigned by Metropolitan Life official in New York.

Complaints of dirt on Higgins Road, and other incidentals have also been cleared up, Regan added. A meeting between Regan, Trustee Virginia Hayter and Multicon's construction superintendent over the weekend was scheduled to clarify village expectations for construction site maintenance in Hoffman Estates.

Engineering plans for the Century Towers apartments were approved in other plan commission action last week. Located west of the Bode Road Vavrus Apartments, Century Towers plans 249 units in their first phase development.

ONCE COMPLETED, Century Towers will have 1,700 units.

A study on mosquito abatement is being made by Arthur Nikula, plan commissioner, as a standards guide to Ring Brothers who is planning 831 apartments in a joint venture with Kaufman & Broad northeast of Hassel and Barrington roads.

The Ring Brothers proposal is to be built around a 12-acre lake. Nikula's study will provide standards to avoid water stagnation and mosquito breeding grounds.

William Kennicott, representative of Kaufman & Broad is stimulating action between area developers and the village to provide additional water storage facilities, Regan said. Water storage is needed in the area bound by the Tollway, Barrington Road, and Golf Road west of Highpoint Subdivision.

ON ADVICE FROM Village Atty. Edward Holert, no approval of development plans in that area will be granted by the village board until water storage arrangements are made.

The storage is needed to assure adequate fire protection in Hoffman Estates.

School Bond Vote Is Scheduled June 6

A recommendation that a referendum for two new high schools and an administrative center addition be issued to the voters June 6 was formally approved by Township High School Dist. 211's board of education Thursday night.

Richard Kolze, assistant superintendent, said the recommendation was made by the district's long range planning committee which has been deliberating the issue since August, 1969.

Because of projected enrollment figures and the fact that Dist. 211 is receiving 1,000 additional students each year, Kolze said the referendum was necessitated.

THE RECOMMENDATION that went before the board Thursday read, it is recommended that "School Dist. 211 go to its voters for a referendum requesting the money necessary to build a 2,500 student high school in the southern part of the district, and one of the same size in the northern part of the district, and that 20 additional acres be acquired adjacent to each site, or another suitable site of approximately 60 acres."

Concerning the additional acreage, Kolze said the recommended size for school sites should be 60 acres. He said that the American Association for School Administrators recommend the minimum site for a high school to be 30 acres plus one acre for every 100 students.

THE BOARD ALSO approved a recommendation that an addition of approximately 8,000 square feet be added to the administrative center on Roselle Road.

This addition would be about one half of the size of the present structure, and is needed by the fall of 1974, Kolze said.

The new building program will follow a timetable which was compiled by the administrative council and approved by the long range planning committee, which consists of administrators, board members and Dist. 211 high school principals.

Between March 23 and April 23, district officials will screen prospective architects, interview the finalist, and make their final selection. These dates, Kolze said, are target dates only and more flexibility may be needed than they permit.

AFTER THE REFERENDUM is issued to voters June 6, bids will be let on Nov. 1, with construction beginning March 1, 1973. The first building will be ready by July 1, 1973.

The second high school should begin construction about the time the first is completed. Kolze said. This school, the district's sixth, will be financed by interest-free loans from the Illinois School Building Funds, as Schaumburg High is currently being constructed.

Rentschler Gains Support

A flurry of election eve support for William H. Rentschler's bid for the Republican nomination for United States Senator has added a touch of excitement to today's Republican primary race.

Activity on Rentschler's behalf developed in Palatine and Wheeling Townships but Rentschler's opponent, Sen. Ralph T. Smith, is still considered a heavy favorite both statewide and in this predominantly Republican suburban area.

In Palatine Township, Rentschler received an endorsement by Palatine Mayor Jack Moodie. Palatine Township's Republican Organization has endorsed Smith but Moodie and several other top Republicans are known to prefer Rentschler.

"I think he's (Rentschler) our best candidate," Moodie said. "I agree with him on many things, including his insistence that the Republican Party maintain open primary elections. I also agree with his views against high interest rates as a means of curbing inflation and would prefer, as he does, that government spending be cut."

Moodie, who was elected mayor on a Republican ticket, also said he agrees with Rentschler's support of President Nixon's plan to Vietnamize the war.

Moodie was active in last fall's campaign to elect U.S. Rep. Philip Crane.

The Wheeling Township movement for Rentschler is not as open but may have more results.

Like Palatine Township, Wheeling's GOP has endorsed Smith but this weekend, campaign literature for Rentschler was being widely distributed through the township.

In both Wheeling and Palatine Townships, Smith's endorsement followed lengthy discussion and many party members who voted for the senator were known to favor Rentschler.

Zone Hearing Could be 'Hot'

The continued public hearing of the Hoffman Estates Zoning Board of Appeals (ZBA) will be held tomorrow at 7:30 at the Hoffman School, 101 Grand Canyon Pkwy.

An overflow crowd of 200 persons is expected for the hearing originally scheduled at the village hall chambers. Daniel Larson, Hoffman Estates administrative assistant, said.

The ZBA is considering the petition of property owners represented by Atty. Robert Haskins to rezone a 78 acres site from business use to a Residential Planned Development (RPD). It is located between Palatine and Bradwell Roads west of Elia Road.

The RPD plan calls for 28 multi-family buildings totaling 1,352 units.

Strong objection to the proposal has come in the hearings first two sessions from the residents of Palatine and Barrington Townships who live near the site.

Tonight at village hall at 8 p.m. the ZBA will consider the petition of the Suburban Bank of Hoffman Estates for approval of a sign at the bank's new Roselle Road location.

OPINIONS PLEASE

State Monies For Parochial Institutions?

The necessity of state aid for parochial and private schools has really hit home in Wheeling. A year ago St. Joseph the Worker School in Wheeling held a parents' meeting to tell parishioners that unless contributions increased or state aid was forthcoming, the school might close.

In today's "Opinions, Please" column the Herald asked Wheeling residents telephoned at random if they favor state aid being granted to parochial and other private schools.

The Illinois Catholic Conference (ICC) launched a state wide campaign last fall in an effort to encourage state aid for private schools. Recently, St. Joseph the Worker and St. Mary's schools held open houses to acquaint area residents with their need for state aid. Although bills which would have provided state aid failed in the last session of the state legislature, a commission headed by Rep. Eugene Schlickman (R-Arlington Heights) has been set up to study the feasibility of future proposals for state aid.

MRS. G. K. GLOVER of 671 Sandra Lane said she was in favor of state aid to parochial schools because it would be "best for the education of our children and cheaper in the long run."

She told the Herald yesterday that although she had one high school aged child and did not send her child to a parochial school, "I have seen many of my friends struggle to send their children to the school of their choice." Mrs. Glover said she thought it would be "fairer to split up the tax monies more evenly."

She said she did not think School Dist. 21 would be able to handle the increased enrollment if the two local parochial schools, St. Mary's and St. Joseph the Worker, had to close.

"I don't think there should be state aid to parochial schools. I think there should be more aid to public schools instead," MRS. W. F. KELLY of 302 Edgewood Drive, said yesterday.

Mrs. Kelly explained that she felt that parents who could afford to pay tuition to send their children to a private school should do so if they wish, but that that should not take away from the funding of public schools.

MRS. JAMES D. MORSE of 255 Fletcher Drive said she was both "for and against" aid to parochial schools but "in different ways."

"For one thing they do perform a service by taking a load off the public schools, but they are private schools and not all children are admitted," she noted. She said that because the schools were private she would not like to see state aid.

"I don't think Dist. 21 could handle it if St. Mary's and St. Joseph the Worker closed. Wheeling and Buffalo Grove schools would be just jammed," she said.

She noted that it would take a year or more to build another school if the two private schools were to close. "I'm Catholic myself, but I wouldn't send my children to a parochial school," she explained, adding that the issue has "so many different aspects" that it is hard to take a simple "for or against" stand.

MRS. JAMES T. O'CONNOR of 1184 Valley Stream Drive, said "I'm all for it" when asked about state aid for parochial schools.

Mrs. O'Connor said she has four children who attend St. Mary's School in Buffalo Grove.

"Our children are getting educated at our expense while other children get a free education. I would like to see the state pay for either bus service to school or for teaching of the academic subjects," she suggested.

MRS. BARRY W. CORCORAN of 412 Stone Place, suggested a tax rebate system for parents who send their children to parochial schools. "I've always felt that if you want to send your children to parochial school your taxes should be adjusted somehow so you don't have to pay for schools which your children don't use." Mrs. Corcoran said she has two children in public schools, but she said she would like to see parochial schools remain open so parents would have the option of sending their children to a parochial school.

MRS. DANIEL G. McCULLOUGH of 1040 Valley Stream Drive, said she was in favor of state aid.

Mrs. McCullough explained that her children had attended parochial schools. She noted that state aid to parochial schools might be a constitutional problem, but said that if the Catholic schools were to close, the resulting overload on public schools would be more of a problem.

"Dist. 21 couldn't handle it unless they had another school," she noted.

AN "ALMOST PERPETUAL motion" machine was one of many science projects on display last weekend at the Dist. 21 science fair. Looking over the project is Fred Grasser, eighth grader at Holmes Junior High School in Wheeling.

Heliport Plan Objections Filed

William Rogers, a Wheeling resident heading opposition to the village's proposed heliport ordinance, filed written objections with the village board Monday. Rogers' objections, which he requested to read aloud Monday night at the village Board meeting, included a repeat of testimony given at village zoning hearings on the heliport ordinance, and one new charge.

Rogers pointed out to the board the safety hazards of allowing helicopters to land in Wheeling with statistics on helicopter accidents.

He noted that an additional safety hazard would be added if heliports were allowed, because the flight patterns of aircraft taking off from Pal-Waukee Airport are over the village.

HE ALSO pointed out that the village would have control only over the physical site of a heliport and not over the flight patterns of helicopters once they leave the ground.

Rogers also noted that in the event of an emergency, heliports would not be necessary because emergency helicopters could land a number of places in the village, and that private helicopters would not likely be used in emergency conditions because of possible lawsuits and insurance liability.

In a fifth point, Rogers charged that a recent appointment of Earl Reynolds to the village Industrial Commission would put the board in a position of granting favors to an appointed commissioner.

Mall Officially Opens Thursday

All 16 stores will be open Thursday when the Buffalo Grove Mall officially opens its doors.

The mall, at Dundee and Arlington Heights roads, is the first completely enclosed neighborhood shopping center in the Chicago area. A spokesman for Kenroy Inc., the mall's developer, estimated the cost of the complex at $1.25 million.

Though the mall's official opening is slated for Thursday, several of the stores have already opened, including the Scott's Store, and the Elm Farm Food store.

Ground was broken for the complex in August. Originally the development was to have opened late last year, but construction delays forced a later opening date.

The mall has space for more than 450 cars on the eight-acre site. In all, 16 stores will be located in the mall. Besides the grocery and department stores are several specialty stores.

Architect for the complex was Robert Babbitt and Associates. General contractor was the Contracting and Consulting Corp. of Rolling Meadows. As well as developing the mall, Kenroy will manage it.

A spokesman for Kenroy said yesterday "from all indications we've had from the stores that have opened already (prior to the mall's opening), the center will be accepted by the community even better than we expected."

The spokesman also said that Kenroy is considering similar shopping centers in other areas. However, no plans have been set.

The Scott's Department Store includes 15,000 square feet, opened last week as did the Elm Farm Foodstore.

ALSO IN THE MALL will be a Baskin-Robbins Ice Cream Store, Magic Touch Cleaners, The Beauty Parlour, Barton Still Realty, Frank's Family Store, Seymour's Feminine Fashions, Wood 'n Cloth Home Accessories, Alan B. Ltd Men's Store, Foremost Liquors, and a "One Octave Higher" Record Store.

A grand opening for the mall is set for April 23. Details of the ceremony are not yet set.

Fight Field, Grass Fires

Wheeling firemen fought 18 minor fires last weekend, many of them field and grass fires started by dry conditions.

Fire Chief Bernie Koeppen said Monday that most of the fires were started along the main highways in the village by motorists who tossed cigarettes out their windows.

"The wind was strong enough to carry the sparks across the dry grass. It's really dry and there isn't any snow left to break it up. This happens every spring and we have problems until it rains," Koeppen said.

Wheeling firemen spent a large part of Saturday and much of Sunday traveling from fire to fire. Firemen also fought one car fire Saturday and investigated smoke in one home.

THE FIRST FIRE began at 11:08 a.m. Saturday behind a home at 807 School St.

Other fires on Saturday occurred at Milwaukee and Wolf Roads at 12:01 p.m.; at 486 N. Milwaukee Ave. at 1:50 p.m.; on the west side of Wolf Road south of Fox Lane at 2:01 p.m.; in the forest preserve at 2:30 p.m.; at Old McHenry Road and Aptakisic Road at 2:34 p.m.; at Hintz and Buffalo Grove Roads at 3:12 p.m.; in a field near Sixth Street at 3:47 p.m.; back on Milwaukee and Wolf Road at 4:30 p.m. and on the southeast corner on Lake-Cook Road and Portwine Road at 5:24 p.m.

Fires Sunday began at 12:17 p.m. at 41 W. Hintz Road. Other fires were at 515 S. Milwaukee Ave. at 2:02 p.m.; at McHenry Road near a village well at 2:13 p.m.; at 12th and Strong Streets at 2:33 p.m.; at Wolf and Milwaukee at 5:33 p.m.; on Wolf Road north of Palatine Road at 4:17 p.m.; and a car fire at 5:50 p.m. at 69 N. Wolf Road.

Eisenhower PTA Meet Set

Presentation of an American flag, a discussion of the Volunteer Bureau and a demonstration of the contra-costa teaching method will highlight the March meeting of the Prospect Heights Dist. 23 Eisenhower School PTA.

The meeting will be held at 8 p.m. Wednesday in the multi-purpose room of Eisenhower School.

CONTRA-COSTA, according to Principal Mary Hyczyk who will make the demonstration, involves an in-depth study of social studies using a variety of media. This method contrasts with the more traditional study where many areas are covered, perhaps from one text.

In addition, Mrs. Harvey Sarnier, director of the Prospect Heights extension of the Volunteer Bureau, will discuss the agency's functions and answer questions from the audience.

An American flag will be presented to the school by the Merle Guild Post of the American Legion, Arlington Heights.

$2,255 Stolen At McDonald's

Burglars stole $2,255 in cash and change early Monday morning from the McDonald's Drive in restaurant at 188 E. Dundee Road in Wheeling.

Wheeling Police said yesterday that burglars broke into the building by prying open the back door. They pried open the restaurant's safe to get the money.

All of the stolen funds were in denominations of $20 or lower, police said. Police said the burglary occurred between 2 a.m. and 7:25 a.m. Monday.

The Wheeling Police detective division is currently investigating the burglary.

Golden To Leave The Village Soon

Matthew Golden, Wheeling's second village manager, will leave the village this week. Golden's resignation was to be acted on by the village board last night.

The manager said last Thursday that he would leave his post probably by the middle of this week.

He explained that he plans a vacation with his family before moving permanently to California. Golden said he does not have a specific position lined up as yet.

Golden, 34, became Wheeling village manager in September. He came to Wheeling from a position as manager of midwest operations for Griffenhagen-Kroeger, Inc. a Chicago general management consultant firm for municipal governments.

HIS BACKGROUND included spending two years in Jordan, evaluating that country's system of government.

Golden graduated from a seminary before attending the University of Connecticut where he majored in sociology and psychology.

Among the changes in Wheeling during Golden's tenure were the reorganizations of employees' duties and departments, rewording of a number of village ordinances, and efforts to begin long range planning for village growth.

A FUTURE PARK for Buffalo Grove residents? Members of the village's Strathmore Homeowners Association are working with the Buffalo Grove Park District in developing this 5.6 acre site on

Arlington Heights Road just north of Checker Road into a small park by this summer. The site, shaped somewhat like a triangle, was at one time slated for use as a school. Whether it will be used as such is questionable. Park district officials hope to lease the site from the village. SHA plans a fund-raising drive to collect money for development of the site.

Here's Why Insurance Rates Are Rising

by GERRY DeZONNA

Automobile insurance today is as important as good, clean air.

And they're both at a premium.

Automobile insurance is harder to come by these days than it was a few years ago, but then, so is everything else. Even good, clean air. Unless, of course, the public is willing to pay the price.

"State Farm, just like all the other insurance companies in the country, hasn't any choice but to increase insurance rates and pay closer attention to driving records and credentials," Jim Faetz, a State Farm insurance agent in Mount Prospect, explained.

State Farm, who just increased its insurance rates by 13.7 per cent this month, is not the only insurance company in the business to tighten controls on policies and prices in an effort to reduce the number of insurance claims filed annually.

"THERE ARE A number of reasons why the insurance rates have been increased this year. It's more difficult to keep up with the claims, needless to mention the cost of inflation, which is hitting every business today.

"There was a $91.7 million national loss and more than a $700,000 state loss on insurance claims last year. There are more claims today than a year ago and there's more money involved with each claim. So, there's no alternative but to increase rates to meet the demands and pressure on the company," Faetz said.

In addition to inflation, the new cars aren't built to last. They aren't made like the 1950-models, which were almost as well-built as a Sherman tank. "The delicacy with which cars are built today is a contributing factor to higher insurance claims."

"ACCORDING TO SOME recent surveys, it's estimated that if an automobile, traveling at 5 m.p.h., is driven into a brick wall, there'll be about $200 worth of damage done to the car. But, if a man hit a brick wall traveling at 5 m.p.h., he'd be able to get up off the ground, shake his head and walk away with nothing more serious than a scratched nose and a bruised knee.

"And I'm not kidding you. These are the statistics," Faetz explained.

And it's also one of the most important reasons why insurance rates are increasing in leaps and bounds.

In addition to the increase in rates, insurance companies will have to take a closer look at driving records and credentials before policies are underwritten and approved.

"It's important to determine what kind of risk is involved in insuring the driver of the car. The number of moving violations on his driving record is important to consider as well as contributory negligence," he explained.

BUT, A PERSON'S driving record is only part of the information secured before policies are approved. Risk also includes the driver's age, marital status, residence, gross mileage per year and type of automobile he drives.

"We have a surcharge on high-performance automobiles now, and we never had that added charge before this time. High-performance automobiles are defined as high-cubic-inch-displacement engines which include a Corvette as well as a Plymouth Road Runner. And the surcharge is an additional 25 per cent," he explained.

"Another revision in policy, effective March 11, is to narrow the gap between insurance rates for men and women under 25-years-old. In the past, men have always paid higher rates than women. But now, women are involved in almost as many accidents as men. The only exception is women have less serious accidents than men. They have fender-benders, while the men have high-cost accidents."

RISK IS ALSO evaluated on marital status. Married men are considered less of an insurance risk than single men based on the difference in responsibilities and attitude. Also, drivers living in Chicago pay higher premiums than drivers living in the suburbs or less populated areas.

Faetz said there are many factors used to determine a driver's risk to the insurance company and it's difficult to make one blanket statement on why a person's insurance application is rejected or his premium is higher than his friend's rate.

The increases in insurance claims, inflation and the ways in which cars are built today are all factors in the rising cost of automobile insurance. And by screening policy applications and weeding out the "bad risk driver," the insurance company hopes to help defray its own costs as well as those to its policy holders.

"WE ALL NEED TO take a good look, a closer evaluation, of the insurance business. Insurance was devised to protect the policy holder at no better or worse than before his accident," Faetz said.

"Unfortunately, there are some people who abuse the principal reason for insurance. Then, we all have to pay the price."

Low Voter Turnout Has Been Forecast

Polls will be open until 6 p.m. today for Illinois Republicans to nominate a United States Senate candidate and for Democrats in the Northwest suburbs to select a congressional candidate and local township committeemen.

A low vote turnout is forecast for the primary, due primarily to the lack of competition on the Republican side of the ballot.

Only one GOP race exists in this area as local candidates for state office and for township committeemen positions are unchallenged.

THE MAIN EVENT is between Sen. Ralph T. Smith and William Rentschler, the opponents for the GOP Senate nomination.

Smith was appointed to the position by Gov. Richard Ogilvie last fall following the death of Sen. Everett M. Dirksen.

Rentschler, who disagreed with Ogilvie's choice last fall, is the only Republican who chose to challenge Smith although perennial candidate Lar "America First" Daly is on the ballot.

The winner of the Smith-Rentschler fight will oppose Democrat Adlai E. Stevenson III in the general election in November.

Locally, the only contested races are on the Democratic side of the ballot.

OF FOREMOST interest is the race between State Rep. Edward Warman, D-Skokie, and Prof. Curtis MacDougall of Northwestern University for the Democratic nomination for Congress.

This is the second time around for Warman, who was defeated last fall by Republican Philip M. Crane in the special election called to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of Donald Rumsfeld.

Crane beat Warman by 20,000 votes in a low turnout election and the winner of today's primary gets the questionable honor of taking on Crane in the fall.

Another district-wide race for Democrats pits Raymond Krier of Niles Township against Lynn Williams of New Trier Township for the post of Democratic state central committeeman.

WILLIAMS IS AN anti-machine, anti-Mayor Daley candidate while Krier, the incumbent, is an admitted supporter of the Chicago mayor and his way of running the party in Cook County.

There is a "mini" Daley supporter vs anti-Daley candidate battle in Palatine Township where Committeeman Peter Gerling is being challenged by Richard Mugalian.

Two other township committeeman races where the incumbents are heavy favorites are in Wheeling Township, where Committeeman James L. McCabe is challenged by Herman Koehnman, and in Schaumburg Township, where Committeeman John F. Morrissey is being tested by Charles DePaul.

THE COMMITTEEMAN terms are all for four years.

Voters today must declare a party preference and may not change their party unless they have not participated in a primary election within the past two years.

Tollway Interchange Clears Hurdle

The Northwest Tollway-Arlington Heights Road interchange cleared another paper hurdle Monday when the Cook County Board agreed to negotiate an easement on forest preserve district property for a cloverleaf.

Acting as a forest preserve district board, county commissioners agreed to give up 10.2 acres of land at the southwest corner of the two major roadways intersection between Arlington Heights and Elk Grove Village.

The Illinois Toll Highway Commission awarded Feb. 26 a construction contract for an on-off interchange to the Tollway. Work has been delayed until the commission holds title to all land needed in four quadrants necessary for a cloverleaf.

THE $1,149,563 CONTRACT will provide a half interchange accommodating all traffic to and from Chicago. No date has been set for another two ramps to accommodate traffic to the west.

Arthur Janura, superintendent of the Cook County Forest Preserve District, recommended granting the easement Monday, stating the commission had first asked for 12 acres. He noted his office had once recommended the entire interchange be put on private property east of Arlington Heights Road but was talked out of this because of the design necessity to turn left across Arlington Heights Road.

The Toll Highway Commission is negotiating for a total 35 acres on land around the intersection. Acquisition is expected by the end of this month and the tollway ramps are expected to be completed by late December.

Of all the parcels the commission is bargaining for, the forest preserve district, with its hard nosed policy of refusing to give up land even for public purposes, had the commission most worried.

COOK COUNTY Commissioner Floyd Fuller told the county board Monday that to refuse to give up the land would nullify the entire interchange. He said the connections are vital for traffic flow in the fast-growing northwest suburban area.

Forest Preserve District attorneys are to negotiate the price for relinquishing the land for the Tollway. Money from this sale will be used to buy comparable acreage elsewhere, County Board Pres-

George Dunne said.

The Arlington Heights Road toll access will primarily benefit Arlington Heights and Elk Grove Village drivers who must now drive out of the way for tollway access. An interchange will also benefit Northwest suburban industries that rely on Chicago labor

Stop Poisonings — Stress Care

Children who have raided the medicine cabinet and stuffed themselves full of aspirin, birth control pills or penicillin tablets are rushed to Northwest Community Hospital every week.

March 15 to 21 has been named Poison Prevention Week throughout the country. Statistics at Northwest Community alone show that 60 ingested poison victims arrived at the emergency room since Jan. 1.

Children, ages one to four, make up the majority of cases and the top favorite is aspirin. It is preferred three to one over all other types of materials which may be poisonous to children.

Other substances taken include fuel oil, furniture polish, paint thinner and car cleaner. Honorable mention for trying the most unpalatable substance could go to the child who ate concrete Radmix in a store.

ONLY ONE PATIENT between the ages of 4 and 13 was admitted to the emergency room, a 9-year-old who, in the company of teenagers, drank a toxic poison.

A few poisoning cases in the teen and adult bracket were accidental, such as food poisoning. The majority, however, are listed as overdoses. Hospital officials said that teenagers often discover they are poisoned when they "only intended an experience."

The two-month record at the emergency room shows that 22 small boys and 11 small girls, seven male teens and four female teens, and five male adults and 20 female adults were admitted.

"At least half could have been prevented with a small degree of care on the part of the parents and the rest prevented with a little understanding and compassion," a hospital official pointed out.

To Rule On Measles Plan

A decision is expected today on who will be responsible for the German measles immunization program in the northwest suburban area this spring.

State officials will attend a meeting at the Cook County Public Health Department to discuss details and financing of the project. The Health Department has told Northwest Community Hospital that a firm decision should be made during the conference.

With the prospect of a measles epidemic this spring, the hospital had made plans with school districts in the area to immunize 50,000 children in late April. By making the children immune, it is hoped that expectant mothers will no longer catch the disease.

WHEN A WOMAN has German measles early in pregnancy, there is a good chance that her child will be born with a severe birth defect. Cost to parents for the injection, which will be done at the schools, was projected at $2.

After preliminary plans were made, the Health Department learned that the state may make funds available for a similar immunization project.

Hospital officials hope to learn today whether state funding is a certainty and what date would be set for the immunizations. If the county-state program does not materialize, Northwest Community will continue to make plans for the late April injections.

PEP's Big Business

PEP's fight against pollution took a turn into the business world this week with help from State Rep. Eugene Schlickman, R-Arlington Heights.

Schlickman has offered to sign over the voting rights for his Commonwealth Edison stock to the anti-pollution group. The stock includes 133 shares, according to a spokesman from the legislator's office.

PEP (Pollution and Environmental Problems) began its pollution fight about a month ago in Palatine when a public seminar was held which drew more than 300 persons from the entire Northwest suburban area.

ANTI-POLLUTION forces throughout the Chicago metropolitan area are collecting Com Ed voting proxies for use at the utility company's annual meeting in April, according to Schlickman.

"They want to force the company's management to step up its plans to convert to lower-sulphur fuels and reduce air pollution throughout the area," he said.

"PEP's vice-chairman, Russ Strandberg, said, 'We're thankful for the recognition and encouragement given us by the stock offer.'"

"Maybe this will point the way for other stockholders and other business leaders," he added.

Strandberg said the group's votes will be in the best interests of improving the environment.

AFTER ATTENDING PEP's first public meeting, Schlickman said he was impressed with the group's enthusiasm.

"Palatine should be proud that its citizens have taken the lead in this anti-pollution effort," he said.

He explained that he could have signed over his proxies to one of the Chicago-based anti-pollution groups.

"But it needs to be brought home that pollution anywhere in the metropolitan area affects us all. I think this can best be done by groups working at the grassroots level," he said.

Schlickman said he did not see his moves as an action against Commonwealth Edison.

"I AM PART owner in Commonwealth Edison as one of its shareholders. In a private enterprise economy, all of us who are part owners in a company share responsibility for the company's policies. I accept this and I am taking this step to see that my views are effectively expressed at the company's annual meeting," he explained.

Strandberg cited the legislator's action as "a good example of how local organizations can find a variety of methods to fight pollution."

He Gets Election Support

A flurry of election eve support for William H. Rentschler's bid for the Republican nomination for United States Senator has added a touch of excitement to today's Republican primary race.

Activity on Rentschler's behalf developed in Palatine and Wheeling Townships but Rentschler's opponent, Sen. Ralph T. Smith, is still considered a heavy favorite both statewide and in this predominantly Republican suburban area.

In Palatine Township, Rentschler received an endorsement by Palatine Mayor Jack Moodie. Palatine Township's Republican Organization has endorsed Smith but Moodie and several other top Republicans are known to prefer Rentschler.

"I think he's (Rentschler) our best candidate," Moodie said. "I agree with him on many things, including his insistence that the Republican Party maintain open primary elections. I also agree with his view against high interest rates as a means of curbing inflation and would prefer, as he does, that government spending be cut."

Moodie, who was elected mayor on a Republican ticket, also said he agrees with Rentschler's support of President Nixon's plan to Vietnamize the war.

Moodie was active in last fall's campaign to elect U.S. Rep. Philip Crane.

The Wheeling Township movement for Rentschler is not as open but may have more results.

Like Palatine Township, Wheeling's GOP has endorsed Smith but this weekend, campaign literature for Rentschler was being widely distributed through the township.

In both Wheeling and Palatine Townships, Smith's endorsement followed lengthy discussion and many party members who voted for the senator were known to favor Rentschler.

OPINIONS PLEASE

State Monies For Parochial Institutions?

The financial dilemma of Illinois parochial schools has been thrown into the spotlight recently, and reactions are varied.

At the last session of the state legislature, a bill was passed to organize a commission to study the feasibility of state aid to private schools. The commission is supposed to report back to the legislature by February 1971.

Meanwhile individual legislators are drafting proposals pro and con on the issue. And taxpayers are also taking a stand.

Opinions in Prospect Heights are split. While some residents have definite opinions on state aid to nonpublic schools, others admit there are many sides to the question which they haven't resolved.

According to Mrs. D. A. Banbury, Peach Tree Lane, the state should give aid to the parochial schools in some form. However, "it should be restrictive, because I don't think the state should give aid for religious instruction. The aid should just cover areas duplicated in the public schools.

"Some aid will come through," added Mrs. Banbury. "If it doesn't, the public schools will have a problem."

"I am pro and con on the issue," said Mrs. G. Houck, Indigo Drive. "I feel the parochial schools shouldn't receive state aid because they should be supported by people of their religion. But, if it means the public school districts will have to build more schools, state aid would be the lesser of two evils."

With two children attending St. Alphonsus School, Mrs. G. Frankenberg, Willow Road, believes "something has to be done rather than close the schools.

"I think we should have the aid for teachers' salaries because there are so few sisters teaching," said Mrs. Frankenberg. "If we can get along with just help with salaries, I think the situation is fine as it is."

Mrs. Frankenberg said she expects a tuition raise of $100 for each child soon. "It doesn't bother me too much because we are free to send our children anywhere we want."

The controversy over state aid to parochial schools is a waste of time according to Mrs. N. Khatib, Indigo Drive. "I can't see a reason for parochial schools in this day and age. Children can receive enough catechism lessons in Sunday School.

"If parents want a parochial education for their children, they should be willing to pay for it," said Mrs. Khatib. "It is not anyone's responsibility but their own."

Whether or not the parochial schools close down depends on "how strongly the parents want them," added Mrs. Khatib. "There are also plenty of public schools available."

H. Heyden, Glenbrook Drive, doesn't believe state aid will go through for parochial schools. "I think it should, but there has been a lot of opposition to it. If it doesn't many parochial schools will have to close up."

"The state should not give aid to parochial schools," according to Mrs. J. Skull, Viola Drive. "The parents sending children to parochial schools are being taxed for public schools and could send them there for nothing. It is their choice not to."

State aid or a tax deduction should be granted to parochial schools said Mrs. R. Andrea, Marberry Street. Her children attended public schools before they graduated, but she feels all of the schools should be kept open as long as possible, including the private ones.

AN "ALMOST PERPETUAL motion" machine was one of many science projects on display last weekend at the Dist. 21 science fair. Looking

Pumping Station Outlook Is Dim

Prospects are dim for a pumping station on the River Trails Park District site near Wolf and Euclid road.

In December, Citizens Utility Co. (CU) asked to buy a plot of land at Woodland Park for a well. At that time, the park commissioners considered an unused area between the park garage and McDonald Creek for the site.

The possibility of free water service in lieu of rent for the land was also discussed.

However, in February, Park Director Marvin Weiss was authorized by the park board to notify CU that the sale would not be beneficial to the district.

A POOL AND bath house are under construction now at Woodland Park and a well "might crowd future park development," according to the park commissioners. In addition, the well site would have to be located in a flood plain area.

After the park commissioners decided to refuse CU's request at the February meeting, a letter was submitted to the board from the Camelot Homeowners Association objecting to the sale.

At the meeting last week, two representatives of the Camelot Association explained the residents felt the well site "would set a precedent for other privately owned companies to construct on public land."

The homeowners withdrew their objection after they were told the sale had already been refused.

$2,255 Stolen At McDonald's

Burglars stole $2,255 in cash and change early Monday morning from the McDonald's Drive in restaurant at 198 E. Dundee Road in Wheeling.

Wheeling Police said yesterday that burglars broke into the building by prying open the back door. They pried open the restaurant's safe to get the money.

All of the stolen funds were in denominations of $20 or lower, police said.

Police said the burglary occurred between 2 a.m. and 7:30 a.m. Monday.

Contract Police Hearing Upcoming

The finance committee of the Cook County Board is expected to set a public hearing soon to review possibility of offering contract police to unincorporated areas.

While expressing fear of complications in offering contract police, Jerome Huppert, finance committee chairman, said Monday he realizes the urgency for a county board decision before April 14 annual township meetings. Huppert said notices of the hearing will be sent to officials when the date is set.

Wheeling Township has indicated a desire to participate in an attractive contract police program, according to Major Anthony Yucevicius, Cook County Sheriff's Police deputy for staff services.

Following Monday's county board meeting, Yucevicius repeated his desire for the sheriff's police to provide extra patrolmen to townships for the cost of men's salaries.

HUPPERT SAID HE has reservations about the constitutionality of the bill passed in the last Illinois General Assembly that authorizes contract police. He noted that Cook County States Atty. Edward Hanrahan, in commenting on possibility of offering extra patrol, was vague on the role the county's advisory committee HELP would play in working out the program.

HELP designates the number of employees permitted in fee offices and the Sheriff's Police is a fee office, Huppert said, indicating HELP may have to authorize contracts.

Huppert further pointed out the state bill requires the county to contract to provide extra police, which in Cook County, would be for the autonomous sheriff's office.

Commissioner Floyd Fulle said townships interested in the police proposal will have to budget for it in April. Aware of possible delays of a decision, Fulle said if townships levy a tax for police purposes, the tax could be abated if the service is not available.

Yucevicius said the sheriff's office could provide men in four months time after a contract is signed. Providing the request is for 50 or less additional men, there would be no problems, he added.

HE SAID THAT the department has 317 men on the force, with only 170 actually involved in patrol. The sheriff's office would assume costs of backup support and command troops if townships paid patrolmen's salaries, he said.

The major said townships are waiting to see contract proposals before deciding on whether to go into the contract police program. The county board must determine the proposals contained in the contract, he added.

THE APPOINTMENT book may look empty but the days are full for the woman whose "avocation is people." Mrs. Esther Rabchuk was recently

Arson Is Suspected In Small School Fire

A small fire destroyed a canvas hopper full of dirty towels at Dempster Junior High School, 420 W. Dempster Street, Thursday.

Robert Keller, assistant principal at Dempster, told Mount Prospect police the hopper, located in the hallway near the gym, was set on fire sometime after school.

There were no injuries reported as a result of the fire and the amount of property damage has not been determined.

Dedication Is Her Byword

by SANDRA BROWNING

"There's something beautiful about doing something because you want to and not because you have to," the woman said.

And there's something beautiful about Esther Rabchuk's dedication to volunteer work. This dedication has led her to the executive director's chair of the Volunteer Service Bureau of Northwest Cook County.

"I considered my volunteer work worthy of an obligation," Mrs. Rabchuk says, explaining her decision to take the director's job.

As head of the bureau, Mrs. Rabchuk works with placing volunteers who register at the bureau's office at Hersey High School, Arlington Heights. She also works with various agencies, including schools and hospitals, in finding needed volunteers.

AS THE MATCHMAKER between agencies and volunteers, the bureau can offer a different assignment for a volunteer who finds he isn't quite suited for a particular job.

Although at present the bureau is actively placing volunteers in Dist. 214, 25, 23, 31 and 67, Mrs. Rabchuk is planning to expand the program to include all school districts in the Northwest suburbs. Mrs. Rabchuk said school districts interested in starting a volunteer program may contact the office, 392-6051.

The school program is the strongest in Dist. 25, Arlington Heights, where many of the individual schools have a school coordinator who serves as the liaison with the staff and the volunteer bureau. The coordinator isolates the specific needs for volunteers in the school and then can contact the main bureau office to find someone to fill the request.

MOST OF THE people who serve as coordinators trained for their jobs by attending a nine-week training session held at Arlington High School last fall.

The volunteers used in schools and other agencies "are not just another pair of hands," Mrs. Rabchuk stressed. She said the bureau is the most pleased with enrichment programs.

Enrichment programs include activities planned to supplement regular classroom instruction. One woman has shown slides and given a talk on the Middle East to supplement textbook material.

A RETIRED MAN is sharing his extra time and helping boys with woodworking. A music teacher is helping a child learn to play the piano to increase his finger dexterity. Hopefully, this will help him with his problems in handwriting.

The list of possibilities is endless. Special speakers have been brought in to teach children more about the space program and tutors work individually with children.

Mrs. Rabchuk observed a child may have a problem with a specific subject or have a general lack of interest in school. Often, a special volunteer helps with an outside project or activity which provides the spark to awaken an interest in school. "It's not particularly the activity, it's the person who makes the difference," she said.

TOO OFTEN, PEOPLE think they can't do anything and then we find they have talents or hobbies that we can use," she said. At present, the bureau is seeking an expert on the Revolutionary War to speak to elementary school children who are studying that period of history.

Sometimes people with hobbies of stamp collecting or decoupage are just what the agency needs. Sometimes it's just someone who has time to spend to visit residents of an old people's home serving as a friendly visitor.

A volunteer bureau to serve as a clearing house was first talked about in late 1966 and the first official office opened at Arlington High School in May of 1969. Mrs. Dennis Moore served as executive director for the bureau until the end of last month when she was forced to resign because her husband was transferred to Minnesota.

MRS. RABCHUK TOOK over the director's job the beginning of this month. She resigned as president of the American Association of University Women (AAUW) because "I knew I wouldn't be able to handle them both," she said.

Other activities Mrs. Rabchuk has been involved with include the Friends of the Arlington Heights Library, PTA, Dist. 25 nominating caucus committee and church groups.

With her new five-day-a-week job, Mrs. Rabchuk finds she spends more evenings at home with her husband, Alexander. The family which includes four children resides at 115 S. Donald, Arlington Heights.

MRS. RABCHUK says she has found an outlet for her desire for community involvement during the day as the volunteer bureau director and thus has more of her night time free.

Here's Why Insurance Rates Are Rising

by GERRY DeZONNA
Automobile insurance today is as important as good, clean air.
And they're both at a premium.
Automobile insurance is harder to come by these days than it was a few years ago, but then, so is everything else. Even good, clean air. Unless, of course, the public is willing to pay the price.
"State Farm, just like all the other insurance companies in the country, hasn't any choice but to increase insurance rates and pay closer attention to driving records and credentials," Jim Faetz, a State Farm insurance agent in Mount Prospect, explained.
State Farm, who just increased its insurance rates by 13.7 per cent this month, is not the only insurance company in the business to tighten controls on policies and prices in an effort to reduce the number of insurance claims filed annually.
"THERE ARE A number of reasons why the insurance rates have been increased this year. It's more difficult to keep up with the claims, needless to mention the cost of inflation, which is hitting every business today.

"There was a $91.7 million national loss and more than a $700,000 state loss on insurance claims last year. There are more claims today than a year ago and there's more money involved with each claim. So, there's no alternative but to increase rates to meet the demands and pressure on the company," Faetz said.
In addition to inflation, the new cars aren't built to last. They aren't made like the 1950 models, which were almost as well-built as a Sherman tank. "The delicacy with which cars are built today is a contributing factor to higher insurance claims."
"ACCORDING TO SOME recent surveys, it's estimated that if an automobile, traveling at 5 m.p.h., is driven into a brick wall, there'll be about $200 worth of damage done to the car. But, if a man hit a brick wall traveling at 5 m.p.h., he'd be able to get up off the ground, shake his head and walk away with nothing more serious than a scratched nose and a bruised knee.

"And I'm not kidding you. These are the statistics," Faetz explained.
And it's also one of the most important reasons why insurance rates are increasing in leaps and bounds.
In addition to the increase in rates, insurance companies will have to take a closer look at driving records and credentials before policies are underwritten and approved.
"It's important to determine what kind of risk is involved in insuring the driver of the car. The number of moving violations on his driving record is important to consider as well as contributory negligence," he explained.
BUT, A PERSON'S driving record is only part of the information secured before policies are approved. Risk also includes the driver's age, marital status, residence, gross mileage per year and type of automobile he drives.
"We have a surcharge on high-performance automobiles now, and we never had that added charge before this time. High-performance automobiles are defined as high-cubic-inch-displacement engines which include a Corvette as well as a Plymouth Road Runner. And the surcharge is an additional 25 per cent," he explained.

"Another revision in policy, effective March 11, is to narrow the gap between insurance rates for men and women under 25-years-old. In the past, men have always paid higher rates than women. But now, women are involved in almost as many accidents as men. The only exception is women have less serious accidents than men. They have fender-benders, while the men have high-cost accidents."
RISK IS ALSO evaluated on marital status. Married men are considered less of an insurance risk than single men based on the difference in responsibilities and attitude. Also, drivers living in Chicago pay higher premiums than drivers living in the suburbs or less populated areas.

Faetz said there are many factors used to determine a driver's risk to the insurance company and it's difficult to make one blanket statement on why a person's insurance application is rejected or his premium is higher than his friend's rate.
The increases in insurance claims, inflation and the ways in which cars are built today are all factors in the rising cost of automobile insurance. And by screening policy applications and weeding out the "bad risk driver," the insurance company hopes to help defer its own costs as well as those to its policy holders.
"WE ALL NEED TO take a good look, a closer evaluation, of the insurance business. Insurance was devised to protect the policy holder at no better or worse than before his accident," Faetz said.
"Unfortunately, there are some people who abuse the principal reason for insurance. Then, we all have to pay the price."

Low Voter Turnout Has Been Forecast

Polls will be open until 6 p.m. today for Illinois Republicans to nominate a United States Senate candidate and for Democrats in the Northwest suburbs to select a congressional candidate and local township committeemen.
A low vote turnout is forecast for the primary, due primarily to the lack of competition on the Republican side of the ballot.
Only one GOP race exists in this area as local candidates for state office and for township committeemen positions are unchallenged.

THE MAIN EVENT is between Sen. Ralph T. Smith and William Rentschler, the opponents for the GOP Senate nomination.

Smith was appointed to the position by Gov. Richard Ogilvie last fall following the death of Sen. Everett M. Dirksen.

Rentschler, who disagreed with Ogilvie's choice last fall, is the only Republican who chose to challenge Smith although perennial candidate Lar "America First" Daly is on the ballot.

The winner of the Smith-Rentschler fight will oppose Democrat Adlai E. Stevenson III in the general election in November.

Locally, the only contested races are on the Democratic side of the ballot.

OF FOREMOST interest is the race between State Rep. Edward Warman, D-Skokie, and Prof. Curtis MacDougall of Northwestern University for the Democratic nomination for Congress.

This is the second time around for Warman, who was defeated last fall by Republican Philip M. Crane in the special election called to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of Donald Rumsfeld.

Crane beat Warman by 20,000 votes in a low turnout election and the winner of today's primary gets the questionable honor of taking on Crane in the fall.

Another district-wide race for Democrats pits Raymond Krier of Niles Township against Lynn Williams of New Trier Township for the post of Democratic state central committeeman.

WILLIAMS IS AN anti-machine, anti-Mayor Daley candidate while Krier, the incumbent, is an admitted supporter of the Chicago mayor and his way of running the party in Cook County.

There is a "mini" Daley supporter vs. anti-Daley candidate battle in Palatine Township where Committeeman Peter Gerling is being challenged by Richard Mugalian.

Two other township committeeman races where the incumbents are heavy favorites are in Wheeling Township, where Committeeman James L. McCabe is challenged by Herman Koeneman, and in Schaumburg Township, where Committeeman John F. Morrissey is being tested by Charles DePaul.

THE COMMITTEEMAN terms are all for four years.

Voters today must declare a party preference and may not change their party unless they have not participated in a primary election within the past two years.

Tollway Interchange Clears Hurdle

The Northwest Tollway-Arlington Heights Road interchange cleared another paper hurdle Monday when the Cook County Board agreed to negotiate an easement on forest preserve district property for a cloverleaf.

Acting as a forest preserve district board, county commissioners agreed to give up 10.2 acres of land at the southwest corner of the two major roadways intersection between Arlington Heights and Elk Grove Village.

The Illinois Toll Highway Commission awarded Feb. 26 a construction contract for an on-off interchange to the Tollway. Work has been delayed until the commission holds title to all land needed in four quadrants necessary for a cloverleaf.

THE $1,149,983 CONTRACT will provide a half interchange accommodating all traffic to and from Chicago. No date has been set for another two ramps to accommodate traffic to the west.

Arthur Janura, superintendent of the Cook County Forest Preserve District, recommended granting the easement Monday, stating the commission had first asked for 12 acres. He noted his office had once recommended the entire interchange be put on private property east of Arlington Heights Road but was talked out of this because of the design necessity to turn left across Arlington Heights Road.

The Toll Highway Commission is negotiating for a total 35 acres on land around the intersection. Acquisition is expected by the end of this month and the tollway ramps are expected to be completed by late December.

Of all the parcels the commission is bargaining for, the forest preserve district, with its hard nosed policy of refusing to give up land even for public purposes, had the commission most worried.

COOK COUNTY Commissioner Floyd Fulle told the county board Monday that to refuse to give up the land would nullify the entire interchange. He said the connections are vital for traffic flow in the fast-growing northwest suburban area.

Forest Preserve District attorneys are to negotiate the price for relinquishing the land for the Tollway. Money from this sale will be used to buy comparable acreage elsewhere, County Board Pres.

George Dunne said

The Arlington Heights Road toll access will primarily benefit Arlington Heights and Elk Grove Village drivers who must now drive out of the way for tollway access. An interchange will also benefit Northwest suburban industries that rely on Chicago labor.

Stop Poisonings — Stress Care

Children who have raided the medicine cabinet and stuffed themselves full of aspirin, birth control pills or penicillin tablets are rushed to Northwest Community Hospital every week.

March 15 to 21 has been named Poison Prevention Week throughout the country. Statistics at Northwest Community alone show that 60 ingested poison victims arrived at the emergency room since Jan. 1.

Children, ages one to four, make up the majority of cases and the top favorite is aspirin. It is preferred three to one over all other types of materials which may be poisonous to children.

Other substances taken include fuel oil, furniture polish, paint thinner and car cleaner. Honorable mention for trying the most unpalatable substance could go to the child who ate concrete RediMix in a store.

ONLY ONE PATIENT between the ages of 4 and 15 was admitted to the emergency room, a 9-year-old who, in the company of teenagers, drank a toxic poison.

A few poisoning cases in the teen and adult bracket were accidental, such as food poisoning. The majority, however, are listed as overdoses. Hospital officials said that teenagers often discover they are poisoned when they "only intended an experience."

The two-month record at the emergency room shows that 22 small boys and 11 small girls, seven male teens and four female teens, and five male adults and 20 female adults were admitted.

"At least half could have been prevented with a small degree of care on the part of the parents and the rest prevented with a little understanding and compassion," a hospital official pointed out.

OPINIONS PLEASE

State Monies For Parochial Institutions?

(Editor's Note: In today's "Opinions Please" column, the Herald asked Buffalo Grove residents if they feel state aid should be granted to parochial and other private schools. Faced with increasing operating costs and tuition and declining enrollment, many private school officials fear their institutions will have to close if state funds are not made available. The Illinois Catholic Conference (ICC) launched a statewide campaign last fall in an effort to encourage the passage of bills which would permit some state aid to private schools. Although bills which would have provided state aid failed to win approval in the last session of the legislature, a commission headed by Rep. Eugene Schlickman, R-Arlington Heights, was set up to study the feasibility of such legislation. It is scheduled to make its report to the legislature no later than February of next year.

"I've thought about it a lot and I'm for state aid, although I really have no good logical reason for it," said MRS. DOUGLAS FOSTER of St. Mary's Parkway in the village.

"I guess it's because I feel these schools do a valuable service for the community. Somebody's going to suffer if they close."

Mrs. Foster said that her children are attending Alcott School this year.

"They used to go to St. Mary's School, but we pulled them out this year because we anticipated a rise in tuition. As it turned out the tuition didn't go up at all."

Said MRS. HERBERT HOGMAN of Hickory Drive in Buffalo Grove, "I don't feel it's constitutional so I don't think they (private schools) should get any state aid."

Said MRS. EUGENE KELLY of Lincoln Trail in the village, "I think these schools should be given some help. It would just be an extra burden on the public schools if they had to take care of all the additional children that would result if the parochial schools closed."

MRS. KENNETH KASS, who lives on Diane Drive in Buffalo Grove, agreed.

"My children are all in the Catholic schools and I would like some state aid," she stated. "I do think it's constitutional."

MRS. RICHARD ROBERTS of St. Mary's Parkway in the village said she favors state aid to private schools because "these schools are saving the taxpayers a lot of money."

"Catholics and Lutherans and other parents of private school children are paying for two school systems," she said.

"I'm sure the public schools couldn't handle the influx if the parochial schools shut down."

Mrs. Roberts said that her children formerly attended parochial schools but are now in the public school system. "I don't feel the parochial schools have been given the advantages that the public schools have been given," she said. "I think in some cases the parochial schools have been forced to take inferior teachers because of money problems."

MRS. MARVIN GREEN of Rosewood Avenue in the village said she is not in favor of providing state aid to nonpublic schools.

"I'm not for it, even though I'm Catholic," she said. "I don't feel that the people who don't have their children in parochial schools should have their money diverted to support these schools. It just doesn't seem fair."

"If there was a way to divert only the money of parochial school parents, it would be all right. But, a solution must be found to this problem. The parochial schools are performing a service to the community."

Mall 'Opening' Set Thursday

A FUTURE PARK for Buffalo Grove residents? Members of the village's Strathmore Homeowners Association are working with the Buffalo Grove Park District in developing this 5.6 acre site on

Arlington Heights Road just north of Checker Road into a small park by this summer. The site, shaped somewhat like a triangle, was at one time slated for use as a school. Whether it will be used as such is questionable. Park district officials hope to lease the site from the village. SHA plans a fund-raising drive to collect money for development of the site.

All 16 stores will be open Thursday when the Buffalo Grove Mall officially opens its doors.

The mall, at Dundee and Arlington Heights roads, is the first completely enclosed neighborhood shopping center in the Chicago area. A spokesman for Kenroy Inc., the mall's developer, estimated the cost of the complex at $1.25 million.

Though the mall's official opening is slated for Thursday, several of the stores have already opened, including the Scott's Store, and the Elm Farm Food store.

Ground was broken for the complex in August. Originally the development was to have opened late last year, but construction delays forced a later opening date. The mall has space for more than 450 cars on the eight-acre site. In all, 16 stores will be located in the mall. Besides the grocery and department stores are several specialty stores.

Architect for the complex was Robert Babbitt and Associates. General contractor was the Contracting and Consulting Corp. of Rolling Meadows. As well as developing the mall, Kenroy will manage it.

A spokesman for Kenroy said yesterday "from all indications we've had from the stores that have opened already (prior to the mall's opening), the center will be accepted by the community even better than we expected." The spokesman also said that Kenroy is considering similar shopping centers in other areas. However, no plans have been set.

The Scott's Department Store includes 15,000 square feet, opened last week as did the Elm Farm Foodstore.

ALSO IN THE MALL will be a Baskin-Robbins Ice Cream Store, Magic Touch Cleaners, The Beauty Parlour, Barton Stull Realty, Frank's Family Store, Seymour's Feminine Fashions, Wood 'n Cloth Home Accessories, Alan B. Ltd Men's Store, Foremost Liquors, and a "One Octave Higher" Record Store.

A grand opening for the mall is set for April 23. Details of the ceremony are not yet set.

SHA Eyes Recreation Funds

Members of Buffalo Grove's Strathmore Homeowners Association (SHA) are determined to help the Buffalo Grove Park District improve the village's recreational facilities by next summer.

They are determined enough that they plan to raise about $3,500 to supply funds for equipment in the parks.

The SHA wants to install playground equipment at the Emmerich Park, the Longfellow School park site, and at a 5.6-acre site on Arlington Heights Road just north of Checker Road. Included in the facilities they want to install are sandboxes and areas covered with wood chips for older children. Estimated cost of the project for the three sites is about $3,250.

ALAN ROSE, SHA member is chairman of the fund raising drive. According to Pat Young, secretary for the SHA, the organization has already received some donations. Persons seeking additional information phone Rose at 941-1186.

The park district is expected to sign a lease for use of the 5.6 acres soon. The lease will run for "a number of years or until it is needed for a school site," according to Sherwood, a park commissioner.

Zwirn said at the district's meeting Thursday "As soon as this is done, we can meet with the SHA parks committee to see what steps can be taken to develop the site." The park commissioners met with the SHA parks committee last week to discuss the matter.

THE SANDBOXES and wood chip areas are also slated for Emmerich Park and for the park site at the Longfellow School.

At its general membership meeting Friday, the SHA approved plans for installation of the sandboxes and wood chip areas.

The SHA also approved a plan by which the SHA would supply funds from its treasury to the project if those funds were not earmarked for anything else. The executive committee for the SHA would approve any expenditures for the park project. Wood chips for the project will be donated by the Village of Waukegan according to Alan Morse, an SHA member.

Strathmore residents, especially in the Lake County portion of the village, have been concerned over the lack of parks for several months. They approached the village in February for permission to develop a temporary park site on the 5.6 acres. The village referred the group to the park district.

Since that request was first made, the SHA has enlarged its project to include the installation of the sand box and recreation area at three sites.

$2,255 Stolen At McDonald's

Burglars stole $2,255 in cash and change early Monday morning from the McDonald's Drive In restaurant at 188 E. Dundee Road in Wheeling.

Wheeling Police said yesterday that burglars broke into the building by prying open the back door. They pried open the restaurant's safe to get the money.

All of the stolen funds were in denominations of $20 or lower, police said.

Police said the burglary occurred between 2 a.m. and 7:30 a.m. Monday. The Wheeling Police detective division is currently investigating the burglary.

Golden, 34, became Wheeling village manager in September. He came to Wheeling from a position as manager of midwest operations for Griffiths-Hagen-

Fight Field, Grass Fires

Wheeling firemen fought 18 minor fires last weekend, many of them field and grass fires started by dry conditions.

Fire Chief Bernie Koeppen said Monday that most of the fires were started along the main highways in the village by motorists who tossed cigarettes out their windows.

"The wind was strong enough to carry the sparks across the dry grass. It's really dry and there isn't any snow left to break it up. This happens every spring and we have problems until it rains," Koeppen said.

Wheeling firemen spent a large part of Saturday and much of Sunday traveling from fire to fire. Firemen also fought one car fire Saturday and investigated smoke in one home.

THE FIRST FIRE began at 11:06 a.m. Saturday behind a home at 307 School St.

Other fires on Saturday occurred at Milwaukee and Wolf Roads at 12:01 p.m.; at 466 N. Milwaukee Ave. at 1:59 p.m.; on the west side of Wolf Road south of Fox Lane at 2:01 p.m.; in the forest preserve at 2:30 p.m. at Old McHenry Road and Aptakisic Road at 2:34 p.m.; at Huntz and Buffalo Grove Roads at 3:12 p.m.; in a field near Sixth Street at 3:47 p.m.; back on Milwaukee and Wolf Road at 4:30 p.m. and on the southeast corner on Lake-Cook Road and Portwine Road at 5:24 p.m.

Fires Sunday began at 12:17 p.m. at 41 W. Huntz Road. Other fires were at 515 S. Milwaukee Ave. at 2:02 p.m.; at McHenry Road near a village well at 2:13 p.m.; at 12th and Strong Streets at 2:33 p.m.; at Wolf and Milwaukee at 5:33 p.m.; on Wolf Road north of Palatine Road at 4:17 p.m.; and a car fire at 5:50 p.m. at 60 N. Wolf Road.

Here's Why Insurance Rates Are Rising

Automobile insurance is harder to come by these days than it was a few years ago, but then, so is everything else. Even good, clean air. Unless, of course, the public is willing to pay the price.

"State Farm, just like all the other insurance companies in the country, hasn't any choice but to increase insurance rates and pay closer attention to driving records and credentials," Jim Faetz, a State Farm insurance agent in Mount Prospect, explained.

State Farm, who just increased its insurance rates by 13.7 per cent this month, is not the only insurance company in the business to tighten controls on policies and prices in an effort to reduce the number of insurance claims filed annually.

"THERE ARE A number of reasons why the insurance rates have been increased this year. It's more difficult to keep up with the claims, needless to mention the cost of inflation, which is hitting every business today.

"There was a $91.7 million national loss and more than a $700,000 state loss on insurance claims last year. There are more claims today than a year ago and there's more money involved with each claim. So, there's no alternative but to increase rates to meet the demands and pressure on the company," Faetz said.

In addition to inflation, the new cars aren't built to last. They aren't made like the 1950 models, which were almost as well-built as a Sherman tank. "The delicacy with which cars are built today is a contributing factor to higher insurance claims.

"ACCORDING TO SOME recent surveys, it's estimated that if an automobile, traveling at 5 m.p.h., is driven into a brick wall, there'll be about $260 worth of damage done to the car. But, if a man hit a brick wall traveling at 5 m.p.h., he'd be able to get up off the ground, shake his head and walk away with nothing more serious than a scratched nose and a bruised knee.

"And I'm not kidding you. These are the statistics," Faetz explained.

And it's also one of the most important reasons why insurance rates are increasing in leaps and bounds.

In addition to the increase in rates, insurance companies will have to take a closer look at driving records and credentials before policies are underwritten and approved.

"It's important to determine what kind of risk is involved in insuring the driver of the car. The number of moving violations on his driving record is important to consider as well as contributory negligence," he explained.

BUT, A PERSON'S driving record is only part of the information secured before policies are approved. Risk also includes the driver's age, marital status, residence, gross mileage per year and type of automobile he drives.

"We have a surcharge on high-performance automobiles now, and we never had that added charge before this time. High-performance automobiles are defined as high-cubic-inch-displacement engines which include a Corvette as well as a Plymouth Road Runner. And the surcharge is an additional 25 per cent," he explained.

"Another revision in policy, effective March 11, is to narrow the gap between insurance rates for men and women under 25-years-old. In the past, men have always paid higher rates than women. But now, women are involved in almost as many accidents as men. The only exception is women have less serious accidents than men. They have fender-benders, while the men have high-cost accidents."

RISK IS ALSO evaluated on marital status. Married men are considered less of an insurance risk than single men based on the difference in responsibilities and attitude. Also, drivers living in Chicago pay higher premiums than drivers living in the suburbs or less populated areas.

Faetz said there are many factors used to determine a driver's risk to the insurance company and it's difficult to make one blanket statement on why a person's insurance application is rejected or his premium is higher than his friend's rate.

The increases in insurance claims, inflation and the ways in which cars are built today are all factors in the rising cost of automobile insurance. And by screening policy applications and weeding out the "bad risk driver," the insurance company hopes to help defer its own costs as well as those to its policy holders.

"WE ALL NEED TO take a good look, a closer evaluation, of the insurance business. Insurance was devised to protect the policy holder at no better or worse than before his accident," Faetz said.

"Unfortunately, there are some people who abuse the principal reason for insurance. Then, we all have to pay the price."

Low Voter Turnout Has Been Forecast

Primary Results -394-1700

Polls will be open until 6 p.m. today for Illinois Republicans to nominate a United States Senate candidate and for Democrats in the Northwest suburbs to select a congressional candidate and local township committeemen.

A low vote turnout is forecast for the primary, due primarily to the lack of competition on the Republican side of the ballot.

Only one GOP race exists in this area as local candidates for state office and for township committeemen positions are unchallenged.

THE MAIN EVENT is between Sen. Ralph T. Smith and William Rentschler, the opponents for the GOP Senate nomination.

Smith was appointed to the position by Gov. Richard Ogilvie last fall following the death of Sen. Everett M. Dirksen.

Rentschler, who disagreed with Ogilvie's choice last fall, is the only Republican who chose to challenge Smith although perennial candidate Lar "America First" Daly is on the ballot.

The winner of the Smith-Rentschler fight will oppose Democrat Adlai E. Stevenson III in the general election in November.

Locally, the only contested races are on the Democratic side of the ballot.

OF FOREMOST interest is the race between State Rep. Edward Warman, D-Skokie, and Prof. Curtis MacDougall of Northwestern University for the Democratic nomination for Congress.

This is the second time around for Warman, who was defeated last fall by Republican Philip M. Crane in the special election called to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of Donald Rumsfeld.

Crane beat Warman by 20,000 votes in a low turnout election and the winner of today's primary gets the questionable honor of taking on Crane in the fall.

Another district-wide race for Democrats pits Raymond Krier of Niles Township against Lynn Williams of New Trier Township for the post of Democratic state central committeeman.

WILLIAMS IS AN anti-machine, anti-Mayor Daley candidate while Krier, the incumbent, is an admitted supporter of the Chicago mayor and his way of running the party in Cook County.

There is a "mini" Daley supporter vs anti-Daley candidate battle in Palatine Township where Committeeman Peter Gerling is being challenged by Richard Mugalian.

Two other township committeeman races where the incumbents are heavy favorites are in Wheeling Township, where Committeeman James L. McCabe is challenged by Herman Koeneman, and in Schaumburg Township, where Committeeman John F. Morrissey is being tested by Charles DePaul.

THE COMMITTEEMAN terms are all for four years.

Voters today must declare a party preference and may not change their party unless they have not participated in a primary election within the past two years.

Tollway Interchange Clears Hurdle

The Northwest Tollway-Arlington Heights Road interchange cleared another paper hurdle Monday when the Cook County Board agreed to negotiate an easement on forest preserve district property for a cloverleaf.

Acting as a forest preserve district board, county commissioners agreed to give up 10.2 acres of land at the southwest corner of the two major roadways intersection between Arlington Heights and Elk Grove Village.

The Illinois Toll Highway Commission awarded Feb. 26 a construction contract for an on-off interchange to the Tollway. Work has been delayed until the commission holds title to all land needed in four quadrants necessary for a cloverleaf.

THE $1,149,353 CONTRACT will provide a half interchange accommodating all traffic to and from Chicago. No date has been set for another two ramps to accommodate traffic to the west.

Arthur Janura, superintendent of the Cook County Forest Preserve District, recommended granting the easement Monday, stating the commission had first asked for 12 acres. He noted his office had once recommended the entire interchange be put on private property east of Arlington Heights Road but was talked out of this because of the design necessity to turn left across Arlington Heights Road.

The Toll Highway Commission is negotiating for a total 35 acres on land around the intersection. Acquisition is expected by the end of this month and the tollway ramps are expected to be completed by late December.

Of all the parcels the commission is bargaining for, the forest preserve district, with its hard nosed policy of refusing to give up land even for public purposes, had the commission most worried.

COOK COUNTY Commissioner Floyd Fulla told the county board Monday that to refuse to give up the land would nullify the entire interchange. He said the connections are vital for traffic flow in the fast-growing northwest suburban area.

Forest Preserve District attorneys are to negotiate the price for relinquishing the land for the Tollway. Money from this sale will be used to buy comparable acreage elsewhere, County Board Pres.

George Dunne said

The Arlington Heights Road toll access will primarily benefit Arlington Heights and Elk Grove Village drivers who must now drive out of the way for tollway access. An interchange will also benefit Northwest suburban industries that rely on Chicago labor.

Stop Poisonings — Stress Care

Children who have raided the medicine cabinet and stuffed themselves full of aspirin, birth control pills or penicillin tablets are rushed to Northwest Community Hospital every week.

March 15 to 21 has been named Poison Prevention Week throughout the country. Statistics at Northwest Community alone show that 69 ingested poison victims arrived at the emergency room since Jan. 1.

Children, ages one to four, make up the majority of cases and the top favorite is aspirin. It is preferred three to one over all other types of materials which may be poisonous to children.

Other substances taken include fuel oil, furniture polish, paint thinner and car cleaner. Honorable mention for trying the most unpalatable substance could go to the child who ate concrete RediMix in a store.

ONLY ONE PATIENT between the ages of 4 and 13 was admitted to the emergency room, a 9-year-old who, in the company of teenagers, drank a toxic poison.

A few poisoning cases in the teen and adult bracket were accidental, such as food poisoning. The majority, however, are listed as overdoses. Hospital officials said that teenagers often discover they are poisoned when they "only intended an experience."

The two-month record at the emergency room shows that 22 small boys and 11 small girls, seven male teens and four female teens, and five male adults and 20 female adults were admitted.

"At least half could have been prevented with a small degree of care on the part of the parents and the rest prevented with a little understanding and compassion," a hospital official pointed out.

A flurry of election eve support for William H. Rentschler's bid for the Republican nomination for United States Senator has added a touch of excitement to today's Republican primary race.

Activity on Rentschler's behalf developed in Palatine and Wheeling Townships but Rentschler's opponent, Sen. Ralph T. Smith, is still considered a heavy favorite both statewide and in this predominantly Republican suburban area.

In Palatine Township, Rentschler received an endorsement by Palatine Mayor Jack Moodie. Palatine Township's Republican Organization has endorsed

Smith but Moodie and several other top Republicans are known to prefer Rentschler.

"I think he's (Rentschler) our best candidate," Moodie said. "I agree with him on many things, including his insistence that the Republican Party maintain open primary elections. I also agree with his views against high interest rates as a means of curbing inflation and would prefer, as he does, that government spending be cut."

Moodie, who was elected mayor on a Republican ticket, also said he agrees with Rentschler's support of President Nixon's plan to Vietnamize the war.

mitteeman John F. Morrissey is being tested by Charles DePaul.

THE COMMITTEEMAN terms are all for four years.

Voters today must declare a party preference and may not change their party unless they have not participated in a primary election within the past two years.

Crystal Promoted

Jeffrey R. Crystal, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Crystal, 2307 S. Gosport Road, Arlington Heights, has been promoted to airman first class in the U.S. Air Force.

Airman Crystal is a supply specialist at Clark AFB, Philippines, with a unit of the Pacific Air Force.

The airman earned a B.S. degree in 1968 from Iowa State University and is a member of Phi Kappa Psi.

Moodie was active in last fall's campaign to elect U.S. Rep. Philip Crane.

The Wheeling Township movement for Rentschler is not as open but may have more results.

Like Palatine Township, Wheeling's GOP has endorsed Smith but this weekend, campaign literature for Rentschler was being widely distributed through the township.

In both Wheeling and Palatine Townships, Smith's endorsement followed lengthy discussion and many party members who voted for the senator were known to favor Rentschler.

PEP 'Stock' Gets King-Sized Boost

PEP's fight against pollution took a turn into the business world this week with help from State Rep. Eugene Schlickman, R-Arlington Heights.

Schlickman has offered to sign over the voting rights for his Commonwealth Edison stock to the anti-pollution group.

The stock includes 133 shares, according to a spokesman from the legislator's office.

PEP (Pollution and Environmental Problems) began its pollution fight about a month ago in Palatine when a public seminar was held which drew more than 300 persons from the entire Northwest suburban area.

ANTI-POLLUTION forces throughout the Chicago metropolitan area are collecting Com Ed voting proxies for use at the utility company's annual meeting in April, according to Schlickman.

"They want to force the company's management to step up its plans to convert to lower-sulphur fuels and reduce air pollution throughout the area," he said.

"PEP's vice-chairman, Russ Strandberg, said, 'We're thankful for the recognition and encouragement given us by the stock offer.'"

"Maybe this will point the way for other stockholders and other business leaders," he added.

Strandberg said the group's votes will be in the best interests of improving the environment.

AFTER ATTENDING PEP's first public meeting, Schlickman said he was impressed with the group's enthusiasm.

"Palatine should be proud that its citizens have taken the lead in this anti-pollution effort," he said.

He explained that he could have signed over his proxies to one of the Chicago-based anti-pollution groups.

"But it needs to be brought home that pollution anywhere in the metropolitan area affects us all. I think this can best be done by groups working at the grassroots level," he said.

Schlickman said he did not see his moves as an action against Commonwealth Edison.

"I AM PART owner in Commonwealth Edison as one of its shareholders. In a private enterprise economy, all of us who are part owners in a company share responsibility for the company's policies. I accept this and I am taking this step to see that my views are effectively expressed at the company's annual meeting," he explained.

Strandberg cited the legislator's action as "a good example of how local organizations can find a variety of methods to fight pollution."

Board Backs Transit Study

The Arlington Heights Village Board "endorsed in principle" the recommendation of the Northwest Municipal Conference asking for a transportation study committee to be formed and the sum of 10 cents per capita to be contributed by each member municipality.

The money received from the 15 municipalities involved would be used to hire a full-time person to conduct a transportation survey for the conference.

Village Pres. Jack Walsh said, "This seems to be a reasonable, from an expense point of view, way of approaching the transportation problem."

"The proposal doesn't spell out how this plan would be put together."

WALSH SUGGESTED that the village send no money until it is determined exactly what the Northwest Municipal Conference would do. The board unanimously approved the resolution and will watch with interest the Northwest Municipal Conference meeting in Buffalo Grove tomorrow night.

All of the municipalities involved will be represented at the meeting to discuss the resolution. The villages of Hoffman Estates and Elk Grove already have rejected the proposal.

In other action, the board delayed a hearing on the proposed office building at 1007 W. Euclid.

The plan commission heard the matter on March 4 and approved the rezoning needed. The petitioner, Donald Florence, was not present at the hearing and the board delayed it until the end of its meeting.

By the time the session was over, several objections to the proposed office building had arrived. Seeing that the petitioner wasn't present, the board agreed to hear the matter at its next meeting. Just before adjournment, Eugene Schlickman, Florence's attorney, walked into the council room.

THE TRUSTEES were about to reconsider their motion, but Schlickman, seeing that trustees Burt Thompson and Frank Palmatier weren't present, asked if the hearing could be postponed until the next session. The board concurred in its original motion.

Prior to the Florence hearing, the board approved the preannexation zoning to M-1 (manufacturing) for nine acres southeast of the Clearbrook Industrial Park between Algonquin Road and the tollway.

The western part of the property would be used as a sales office and distribution point for the Cincinnati Grinding and Milling Co.

The trustees also approved the preannexation zoning of 160 acres of property west of Long Grove Road (Schaefer Road) and south of the Lake-Cook county line.

Trustee George Burlingame questioned the draining of the lake on this property for an extension to the village's sanitary landfill, suggesting that garbage and refuse might contaminate any underground springs.

Village Mgr. L. A. Hanson agreed with Burlingame's comments and admitted that an expert's opinion would be needed.

To Rule On Measles Plan

A decision is expected today on who will be responsible for the German measles immunization program in the northwest suburban area this spring.

State officials will attend a meeting at the Cook County Public Health Department to discuss details and financing of the project. The Health Department has told Northwest Community Hospital that a firm decision should be made during the conference.

With the prospect of a measles epidemic this spring, the hospital had made plans with school districts in the area to immunize 50,000 children in late April. By making the children immune, it is hoped that expectant mothers will no longer catch the disease.

WHEN A WOMAN has German measles early in pregnancy, there is a good chance that her child will be born with a severe birth defect. Cost to parents for the injection, which will be done at the schools, was projected at $2.

After preliminary plans were made, the Health Department learned that the state may make funds available for a similar immunization project.

Hospital officials hope to learn today whether state funding is a certainty and what date would be set for the immunizations. If the county-state program does not materialize, Northwest Community will continue to make plans for the late April injections.

Census Bureau In Need of Helpers

If you are interested in meeting other residents of Arlington Heights and are free to work for about two months in the spring, the Census Bureau may be able to use your services.

A test will be held at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow at Pioneer Park, 500 S. Fernandez Ave., Arlington Heights for persons interested in helping with the 1970 village census.

The census will be done by mail, but workers are needed to visit families who do not return or complete the form, and to edit the replies. Crew leaders for the area are also needed.

The work will begin early in April and end in late May. Residents interested in the positions must be at least 18 years of age, a citizen of the United States, and willing to work a minimum of 30 hours per week. Mileage, as well as an hourly salary, will be paid.

Persons who cannot attend the meeting but who would like additional information may call Harold Hirtzberg, 338-4050.

The classes will be held at Camelot Park, Brighton Place and Suffolk Drive, and the fee will be $5. Meeting from 3:45 to 4:45 each Wednesday, the session will last through May 27. Kay Hawley will be the teacher.

ROSEMARY ZYGOWICZ will be instructing the third session of guitar lessons beginning March 26 in Recreation Park, 500 E. Miner St. The lessons will be held on Thursday nights until April 9 and will then resume from April 23 through May 14.

The lessons, designed for advanced beginners, will be held from 7:30 to 8:30 p.m. and will cost $12.

Registrations for either the drama or guitar classes are being taken at Recreation Park or Pioneer Park, 900 S. Fernandez Ave.

"There's something beautiful about doing something because you want to and not because you have to," the woman said.

And there's something beautiful about Esther Rabchuk's dedication to volunteer work. This dedication has led her to the executive director's chair of the Volunteer Service Bureau of Northwest Cook County.

"I considered my volunteer work worthy of an obligation," Mrs. Rabchuk says, explaining her decision to take the director's job.

As head of the bureau, Mrs. Rabchuk works with placing volunteers who register at the bureau's office at Hersey High School, Arlington Heights. She also works with various agencies, including schools and hospitals, in finding needed volunteers.

AS THE MATCHMAKER between agencies and volunteers, the bureau can offer a different assignment for a volunteer who finds he isn't quite suited for a particular job.

Although at present the bureau is actively placing volunteers in Dists. 214, 25, 23, 21 and 57, Mrs. Rabchuk is planning to expand the program to include all school districts in the Northwest suburbs. Mrs. Rabchuk said school districts interested in starting a volunteer program may contact the office, 392-6051.

The school program is the strongest in Dist. 25, Arlington Heights, where many of the individual schools have a school coordinator who serves as the liaison with the staff and the volunteer bureau. The coordinator isolates the specific needs for volunteers in the school and then can contact the main bureau office to find someone to fill the request.

MOST OF THE people who serve as coordinators trained for their jobs by attending a nine-week training session held at Arlington High School last fall.

The volunteers used in schools and other agencies "are not just another pair of hands," Mrs. Rabchuk stressed. She said the bureau is the most pleased with enrichment programs.

Enrichment programs include activities planned to supplement regular classroom instruction. One woman has shown slides and given a talk on the Middle East to supplement textbook material.

A RETIRED MAN is sharing his extra time and helping boys with woodworking. A music teacher is helping a child learn to play the piano to increase his finger dexterity. Hopefully, this will help him with his problems in handwriting.

The list of possibilities is endless. Special speakers have been brought in to teach children more about the space program and tutors work individually with children.

Mrs. Rabchuk observed a child may have a problem with a specific subject or have a general lack of interest in school. Often, a special volunteer helps with an outside project or activity which provides the spark to awaken an interest in school. "It's not particularly the activity, it's the person who makes the difference," she said.

TOO OFTEN, PEOPLE think they can't do anything and then we find they have talents or hobbies that we can use," she said. At present, the bureau is seeking an expert on the Revolutionary War to speak to elementary school children who are studying that period of history.

Sometimes people with hobbies of stamp collecting or decoupage are just what the agency needs. Sometimes it's just someone who has time to spend to visit residents of an old people's home serving as a friendly visitor.

A volunteer bureau to serve as a clearing house was first talked about in late 1968 and the first official office opened at Arlington High School in May of 1969. Mrs. Dennis Moore served as executive director for the bureau until the end of last month when she was forced to resign because her husband was transferred to Minnesota.

MRS. RABCHUK TOOK over the director's job the beginning of this month. She resigned as president of the American Association of University Women (AAUW) because "I knew I wouldn't be able to handle them both," she said.

Other activities Mrs. Rabchuk has been involved with include the Friends of the Arlington Heights Library, PTA, Dist. 25 nominating caucus committee and church groups.

With her new five-day-a-week job, Mrs. Rabchuk finds she spends more evenings at home with her husband, Alexander. The family which includes four children resides at 115 S. Donald, Arlington Heights.

MRS. RABCHUK says she has found an outlet for her desire for community involvement during the day as the volunteer bureau director and thus has more of her night time free.

Measles Program OK'd By Dist. 59

A Rubella immunization program was approved by the District 59 Board of Education after a heart-rending appeal by Alice Hufton, district nursing supervisor.

"The whole purpose of the program is to prevent occurrence of some defects in birth from a possible epidemic expected this year or next. We have not had a major epidemic since 1965. We are dealing with something very tangible. The evidence from the 1965 epidemic can be seen in the special education classrooms right now," she said.

The services of the nurses club and the doctors will be free, but a $2 cost for the vaccine will be asked. There will be no cost to the district.

A tentative schedule has been set up for immunization during school hours in the elementary schools April 28 to May 1. Mrs. Hufton explained that the threat is not to the school child but to pregnant mothers who might come in contact with them. She added that the program would not be held in the junior high schools because doctors will not immunize girls of child-bearing age.

In other action, the board approved a revised 1970-71 school calendar with classes opening September 8 as opposed to the original calendar which was identical to District 214's with an opening date of August 31. In the superintendent's report, it was announced Harry Peterson, District 59 board member had taken out a nominating petition for the April 11 election. Peterson is the second board member to take out a petition for reelection in the April vote. The other board member to get a petition is Paul Neuhauser, running for the two-year seat. Al Domancio, the third board member whose term will expire in April has announced he will not run.

Friday is the last day for filing petitions.

TPC Meeting Slated

$250 In Tapes Taken

The midnight auto supply probably has a very good selection of stereo tapes, especially after Mrs. David Mason's auto was rifled Thursday.

Mrs. Mason of Barrington told Mount Prospect police 39 stereo tape cartridges, valued at about $250, were missing from her car. The car, which was reportedly locked, was parked in the lot at Randhurst Shopping Center when the incident occurred. Police said entrance to the auto was gained by using a coat hanger to pry the lock.

Stop Poisonings — Stress Care

Children who have raised the medicine cabinet and stuffed themselves full of aspirin, birth control pills or penicillin tablets are rushed to Northwest Community Hospital every week.

March 15 to 21 has been named Poison Prevention Week throughout the country. Statistics at Northwest Community alone show that 69 ingested poison victims arrived at the emergency room since Jan. 1.

Children, ages one to four, make up the majority of cases and the top favorite is aspirin. It is preferred three to one over all other types of materials which may be poisonous to children.

Other substances taken include fuel oil, furniture polish, paint thinner and car cleaner. Honorable mention for trying the most unpalatable substance could go to the child who ate concrete RediMix in a store.

ONLY ONE PATIENT between the ages of 4 and 13 was admitted to the emergency room, a 9-year-old who, in the company of teenagers, drank a toxic poison.

A few poisoning cases in the teen and adult bracket were accidental, such as food poisoning. The majority, however, are listed as overdoses. Hospital officials said that teenagers often discover they are poisoned when they "only intended an experience."

The two-month record at the emergency room shows that 22 small boys and 11 small girls, seven male teens and four female teens, and five male adults and 20 female adults were admitted.

"At least half could have been prevented with a small degree of care on the part of the parents and the rest prevented with a little understanding and compassion," a hospital official pointed out.

Huddleston Seeks Post

James Huddleston

James Huddleston, Rolling Meadows alderman, is seeking election to the Cook County Board of School Trustees in today's election.

Huddleston, one of 12 candidates running for 3 openings, is an inspector with the State Highway Department.

In deciding to run for the county office, Huddleston says there is no representation on the board from the northwest area. The board's sole duty is to hear petitions from citizens and boards of education on school boundary lines. Only one person from a Congressional Township District can serve on the board.

LAST YEAR the seven-member non-partisan board heard 10 petitions. One which is being filed this spring is from a group of Rolling Meadows residents seeking to detach from Dist. 211 and join Dist. 214 so their high school students can attend the high school being built in Rolling Meadows by Dist. 214.

Huddleston and his wife Verna live at 2305 Fuller St. in Rolling Meadows with their three children.

He attended Chicago YMCA Junior College and Northwestern University. The 29-year-old alderman studied through the Insurance Institute courses in business law, real estate appraisal and real estate law.

Recreation Park Is Burglarized Again

A weekend wouldn't be a weekend in Arlington Heights if Recreation Park isn't burglarized.

Like clockwork, a report of a vandal or a burglar appears on the police blotter every Monday morning. Yesterday's report said that Rod Demisar, center director, told police that someone broke into the building over the weekend.

Demisar could find nothing missing. Police reported that entry was gained through windows at the northeast side of the building.

Smiley Seeks Dist. 59 Post

Jerry Smiley, 1156 Cheltenham Lane in Elk Grove Village, has become the eighth announced candidate for a seat on the School Dist. 59 board of education.

On Friday he announced that he plans to file the necessary nominating petitions this week.

Smiley is the second candidate to seek the lone two-year seat. Paul Neuhauser, the incumbent, filed his petition Feb. 25. All the other candidates have filed for the other three openings which are three-year terms.

Smiley is a staff industrial engineer for Continental Can Co. located in Centex Industrial Park.

There are several reasons why Smiley is seeking a board seat. He said he has a desire to contribute something to the area in which he lives. He will have two of his four children attending Dist. 59 schools this fall.

Secondly, he said he was concerned with the relatively small number of candidates who had filed for the election, especially the two-year term since the incumbent was running unopposed.

He said his background in education and industry had given him the tools to cope with some of education's most pressing problems.

Tollway Interchange Clears Hurdle

The Northwest Tollway-Arlington Heights Road interchange cleared another paper hurdle Monday when the Cook County Board agreed to negotiate an easement on forest preserve district property for a cloverleaf.

Acting as a forest preserve district board, county commissioners agreed to give up 10.2 acres of land at the southwest corner of the two major roadways intersection between Arlington Heights and Elk Grove Village.

The Illinois Toll Highway Commission awarded Feb. 28 a construction contract for an on-off interchange to the Tollway. Work has been delayed until the commission holds title to all land needed in four quadrants necessary for a cloverleaf.

THE $1,149,993 CONTRACT will provide a half interchange accommodating all traffic to and from Chicago. No date has been set for another two ramps to accommodate traffic to the west.

Arthur Janura, superintendent of the Cook County Forest Preserve District, recommended granting the easement Monday, stating the commission had first asked for 12 acres. He noted his office had once recommended the entire interchange be put on private property east of Arlington Heights Road but was talked out of this because of the design necessity to turn left across Arlington Heights Road.

The Toll Highway Commission is negotiating for a total 35 acres on land around the intersection. Acquisition is expected by the end of this month and the tollway ramps are expected to be completed by late December.

Of all the parcels the commission is bargaining for, the forest preserve district, with its hard nosed policy of refusing to give up land even for public purposes, had the commission most worried.

COOK COUNTY Commissioner Floyd Fullin told the county board Monday that to refuse to give up the land would nullify the entire interchange. He said the connections are vital for traffic flow in the fast-growing northwest suburban area.

Forest Preserve District attorneys are to negotiate the price for relinquishing the land for the Tollway. Money from this sale will be used to buy comparable acreage elsewhere, County Board President Dunne said.

The Arlington Heights Road toll access will primarily benefit Arlington Heights and Elk Grove Village drivers who must now drive out of the way for tollway access. An interchange will also benefit Northwest suburban industries that rely on Chicago labor.

Librarians Get Raises

Arlington Heights Library Board members approved the base scales for a new salary schedule that will increase average library employee salaries about 12 per cent.

At Tuesday's five hour session they also approved a proposed statement for financial requirements for the 1971-72 fiscal year, a proposed cash budget for 1970-71, and a new library staff handbook.

The new salary schedule allows the 25 full-time and 24 part-time employees for salary growth over a 10-year period. Board member George Beascham explained this was the fourth in a five year program to try and upgrade salaries so they would be competitive.

The board agreed, after much discussion, to change the work week from 35 to 37½ hours per week.

EXECUTIVE LIBRARIAN Harold Ard told the board that he really didn't feel strongly either way.

Board member Richard Frisbie said,

"I think we're taking away more than we're giving."

New member Robert Scanlon didn't agree, saying, "It can be done and it can be done very successfully."

He added that there was no significant change in attitude between a 35 and 37½ hour week.

Beascham said the library was trying to be competitive and was consistent in its efforts to employ full-time, professional people.

The board approved the 37½ hour work week.

Expect Low Voter Turnout

He Gets Election Support

A flurry of election eve support for William H. Rentschler's bid for the Republican nomination for United States Senator has added a touch of excitement to today's Republican primary race.

Activity on Rentschler's behalf developed in Palatine and Wheeling Townships but Rentschler's opponent, Sen. Ralph T. Smith, is still considered a heavy favorite both statewide and in this predominantly Republican suburban area.

In Palatine Township, Rentschler received an endorsement by Palatine Mayor Jack Moodie. Palatine Township's Republican Organization has endorsed Smith but Moodie and several other top Republicans are known to prefer Rentschler.

"I think he's (Rentschler) our best candidate," Moodie said. "I agree with him on many things, including his insistence that the Republican Party maintain open primary elections. I also agree with his views against high interest rates as a means of curbing inflation and would prefer, as he does, that government spending be cut."

Moodie, who was elected mayor on a Republican ticket, also said he agrees with Rentschler's support of President Nixon's plan to Vietnamize the war.

Moodie was active in last fall's campaign to elect U.S. Rep. Philip Crane.

The Wheeling Township movement for Rentschler is not as open but may have more results.

Like Palatine Township, Wheeling's GOP has endorsed Smith but this weekend, campaign literature for Rentschler was being widely distributed through the township.

In both Wheeling and Palatine Townships, Smith's endorsement followed lengthy discussion and many party members who voted for the senator were known to favor Rentschler.

Lincoln Street Like Swiss Cheese

Driving on West Lincoln Street in Mount Prospect is almost like taking a cross-country trip by stagecoach at the turn of the century.

Lincoln Street is in rough shape this spring. There are more holes in the pavement than there are in a pound of Swiss cheese.

And there's no remedy in sight for the rough road until May, when the frosts melt.

"WE'VE BEEN POURING tons of coal mix out there to fill in the chuck holes but it's just not holding up under the amount of traffic there is on Lincoln Street. And there's really no alternative, except to wait until spring when the frost melts. We can't pave the road until then," Village Mgr. Virgil Barnett said.

There's still about 14 inches of frost in the ground, and until the late spring thaw, there's not too much that can be done to repair Lincoln Street.

Barnett said there have been many complaints from residents about the condition of Lincoln Street in the village.

"Most of the streets are in bad shape this year, which is unusual because we didn't have a particularly hard winter. Unless, the traffic problem is creating more of a stress and strain on the streets than we estimated," he explained.

ALTHOUGH THE CREWS from the public works department will not be able to patch up the streets until May, Barnett indicated there won't be any big improvements in the condition of the streets throughout the village this year.

"There's just not enough money appropriated in the budget to repair and resurface all the streets in the village. Although the budget has not been improved, there is every indication that repairs on existing streets will have to wait until other projects are completed.

"There are other improvements which have priority at this time, and these include the George Street and See-Gwon

Polls will be open until 6 p.m. today for Illinois Republicans to nominate a United States Senate candidate and for Democrats in the Northwest suburbs to select a congressional candidate and local township committeemen.

A low vote turnout is forecast for the primary, due primarily to the lack of competition on the Republican side of the ballot.

Only one GOP race exists in this area as local candidates for state office and for township committeemen positions are unchallenged.

THE MAIN EVENT is between Sen. Ralph T. Smith and William Rentschler, the opponents for the GOP Senate nomination.

Smith was appointed to the position by Gov. Richard Ogilvie last fall following the death of Sen. Everett M. Dirksen.

Rentschler, who disagreed with Ogilvie's choice last fall, is the only Republican who chose to challenge Smith although perennial candidate Lar "America First" Daly is on the ballot.

The winner of the Smith-Rentschler fight will oppose Democrat Adlai E. Stevenson III in the general election in November.

Locally, the only contested races are on the Democratic side of the ballot.

OF FOREMOST interest is the race between State Rep. Edward Warman, D-Skokie, and Prof. Curtis MacDougall of Northwestern University for the Democratic nomination for Congress.

This is the second time around for Warman, who was defeated last fall by Republican Philip M. Crane in the special election called to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of Donald Rumsfeld.

Crane beat Warman by 20,000 votes in a low turnout election and the winner of today's primary gets the questionable honor of taking on Crane in the fall.

Another district-wide race for Democrats pits Raymond Krier of Niles Township against Lynn Williams of New Trier Township for the post of Democratic state central committeeman.

WILLIAMS IS AN anti-machine, anti-Mayor Daley candidate while Krier, the incumbent, is an admitted supporter of the Chicago mayor and his way of running the party in Cook County.

There is a "mini" Daley supporter vs. anti-Daley candidate battle in Palatine Township where Committeeman Peter Gerling is being challenged by Richard Mugahan.

rates where the incumbents are heavy favorites are in Wheeling Township, where Committeeman James L. McCabe is challenged by Herman Koeneman, and in Schaumburg Township, where Committeeman John F. Morrissey is being tested by Charles DePaul.

THE COMMITTEEMAN terms are all for four years. Voters today must declare a party preference and may not change their party unless they have not participated in a primary election within the past two years.

Library Plan Gets 1st OK

The Mount Prospect Dist. 57 School Board voted last night to go ahead with plans to extend library facilities at Busse, Fairview and Lions Park elementary schools.

The vote, however, was merely an indication of the board's willingness to extend library facilities in the district. Many specific questions went unanswered, which made the vote a tentative one.

At least three board members expressed concern as to the impact of necessary boundary changes to accommodate expanded facilities at Busse School.

SUPT. ERIC SAHLBERG told the board that to extend library facilities at Busse, boundaries would have to be changed and about 70 children living west of Route 83 would be transferred to Fairview next year. He said the impact on Fairview would "not be significant."

Sahlberg said the expanding of the library at Busse was a "first step," and added that other steps will follow in the area of modernizing facilities.

"The role of the library will change," he said. "By 1980, we will have a very different type of library operation."

Sahlberg reiterated that the expanding of storage space was an initial step and said it had "ample justification."

LEO FLOROS, who voiced the lone dissenting vote, questioned the motion and said he didn't think the board's decision to expand library facilities at Gregory School, the smallest school in the district, was a wise one.

"I'm concerned that 70 children can be transferred to Fairview without any problem," said Floros.

The cost of expanding the three libraries was estimated at less than $5,000 — but that is as tentative as the school board's vote.

Here's Why Insurance Rates Are Rising

by GERRY DeZONNA

Automobile insurance today is as important as good, clean air.

And they're both at a premium.

Automobile insurance is harder to come by these days than it was a few years ago, but then, so is everything else. Even good, clean air. Unless, of course, the public is willing to pay the price.

"State Farm, just like all the other insurance companies in the country, hasn't any choice but to increase insurance rates and pay closer attention to driving records and credentials," Jim Faetz, a State Farm insurance agent in Mount Prospect, explained.

State Farm, who just increased its insurance rates by 13.7 per cent this month, is not the only insurance company in the business to tighten controls on policies and prices in an effort to reduce the number of insurance claims filed annually.

"THERE ARE A number of reasons why the insurance rates have been increased this year. It's more difficult to keep up with the claims, needless to mention the cost of inflation, which is hitting every business today.

"There was a $91.7 million national loss and more than a $700,000 state loss on insurance claims last year. There are more claims today than a year ago and there's more money involved with each claim. So, there's no alternative but to increase rates to meet the demands and pressure on the company," Faetz said.

In addition to inflation, the new cars aren't built to last. They aren't made like the 1950 models, which were almost as well-built as a Sherman tank. "The delicacy with which cars are built today is a contributing factor to higher insurance claims.

"ACCORDING TO SOME recent surveys, it's estimated that if an automobile, traveling at 5 m.p.h., is driven into a brick wall, there'll be about $200 worth of damage done to the car. But, if a man hit a brick wall traveling at 5 m.p.h., he'd be able to get up off the ground, shake his head and walk away with nothing more serious than a scratched nose and a bruised knee.

"And I'm not kidding you. These are the statistics," Faetz explained.

And it's also one of the most important reasons why insurance rates are increasing in leaps and bounds.

In addition to the increase in rates, insurance companies will have to take a closer look at driving records and credentials before policies are underwritten and approved.

"It's important to determine what kind of risk is involved in insuring the driver of the car. The number of moving violations on his driving record is important to consider as well as contributory negligence," he explained.

BUT, A PERSON'S driving record is only part of the information secured before policies are approved. Risk also includes the driver's age, marital status, residence, gross mileage per year and type of automobile he drives.

"We have a surcharge on high-performance automobiles now, and we never had that added charge before this time. High-performance automobiles are defined as high-cubic-inch-displacement engines which include a Corvette as well as a Plymouth Road Runner. And the surcharge is an additional 25 per cent," he explained.

"Another revision in policy, effective March 11, is to narrow the gap between insurance rates for men and women under 25-years-old. In the past, men have always paid higher rates than women. But now, women are involved in almost as many accidents as men. The only exception is women have less serious accidents than men. They have fender-benders, while the men have high-cost accidents."

RISK IS ALSO evaluated on marital status. Married men are considered less of an insurance risk than single men based on the difference in responsibilities and attitude. Also, drivers living in Chicago pay higher premiums than drivers living in the suburbs or less populated areas. Faetz said there are many factors used to determine a driver's risk to the insurance company and it's difficult to make one blanket statement on why a person's insurance application is rejected or his premium is higher than his friend's rate.

The increases in insurance claims, inflation and the ways in which cars are built today are all factors in the rising cost of automobile insurance. And by screening policy applications and weeding out the "bad risk driver," the insurance company hopes to help defer its own costs as well as those to its policy holders.

"WE ALL NEED TO take a good look, a closer evaluation, of the insurance business. Insurance was devised to protect the policy holder at no better or worse than before his accident," Faetz said.

"Unfortunately, there are some people who abuse the principal reason for insurance. Then, we all have to pay the price."

She's 'Obligated' to Volunteer Projects

THE APPOINTMENT book may look empty but the days are full for the woman whose "avocation is people." Mrs. Esther Rabchuk was recently hired as the executive director of the Volunteer Service Bureau of Northwest Cook County.

by SANDRA BROWNING

"There's something beautiful about doing something because you want to and not because you have to," the woman said.

And there's something beautiful about Esther Rabchuk's dedication to volunteer work. This dedication has led her to the executive director's chair of the Volunteer Service Bureau of Northwest Cook County.

"I considered my volunteer work worthy of an obligation," Mrs. Rabchuk says, explaining her decision to take the director's job.

As head of the bureau, Mrs. Rabchuk works with placing volunteers who register at the bureau's office at Hersey High School, Arlington Heights. She also works with various agencies, including schools and hospitals, in finding needed volunteers.

AS THE MATCHMAKER between agencies and volunteers, the bureau can offer a different assignment for a volunteer who finds he isn't quite suited for a particular job.

Although at present the bureau is actively placing volunteers in Dist. 214, 25, 23, 21 and 57, Mrs. Rabchuk is planning to expand the program to include all school districts in the Northwest suburbs. Mrs. Rabchuk said school districts interested in starting a volunteer program may contact the office, 382-6051.

The school program is the strongest in Dist. 25, Arlington Heights, where many of the individual schools have a school coordinator who serves as the liaison with the staff and the volunteer bureau. The coordinator isolates the specific needs for volunteers in the school and then can contact the main bureau office to find someone to fill the request.

MOST OF THE people who serve as coordinators trained for their jobs by attending a nine-week training session held at Arlington High School last fall.

The volunteers used in schools and other agencies "are not just another pair of hands," Mrs. Rabchuk stressed. She said the bureau is the most pleased with enrichment programs.

Enrichment programs include activities planned to supplement regular classroom instruction. One woman has shown slides and given a talk on the Middle East to supplement textbook material.

A RETIRED MAN is sharing his extra time and helping boys with woodworking. A music teacher is helping a child learn to play the piano to increase his finger dexterity. Hopefully, this will help him with his problems in handwriting.

The list of possibilities is endless. Special speakers have been brought in to teach children more about the space program and tutors work individually with children.

Mrs. Rabchuk observed a child may have a problem with a specific subject or have a general lack of interest in school. Often, a special volunteer helps with an outside project or activity which provides the spark to awaken an interest in school. "It's not particularly the activity, it's the person who makes the difference," she said.

TOO OFTEN, PEOPLE think they can't do anything and then we find they have talents or hobbies that we can use," she said. At present, the bureau is seeking an expert on the Revolutionary War to speak to elementary school children who are studying that period of history.

Sometimes people with hobbies of stamp collecting or decoupage are just what the agency needs. Sometimes it's just someone who has time to spend to visit residents of an old people's home serving as a friendly visitor.

A volunteer bureau to serve as a clearing house was first talked about in late 1968 and the first official office opened at Arlington High School in May of 1969. Mrs. Dennis Moore served as executive director for the bureau until the end of last month when she was forced to resign because her husband was transferred to Minnesota.

MRS. RABCHUK TOOK over the director's job the beginning of this month. She resigned as president of the American Association of University Women (AAUW) because "I knew I wouldn't be able to handle them both," she said.

Other activities Mrs. Rabchuk has been involved with include the Friends of the Arlington Heights Library, PTA, Dist. 25 nominating caucus committee and church groups.

With her new five-day-a-week job, Mrs. Rabchuk finds she spends more evenings at home with her husband, Alexander. The family which includes four children resides at 115 S. Donald, Arlington Heights.

MRS. RABCHUK says she has found an outlet for her desire for community involvement during the day as the volunteer bureau director and thus has more of her night time free.

Contract Police Hearing Upcoming

The finance committee of the Cook County Board is expected to set a public hearing soon to review possibility of offering contract police to unincorporated areas.

While expressing fear of complications in offering contract police, Jerome Huppert, finance committee chairman, said Monday he realizes the urgency for a county board decision before April 14 annual township meetings. Huppert said notices of the hearing will be sent to officials when the date is set.

Wheeling Township has indicated a desire to participate in an attractive contract police program, according to Major Anthony Yucevicius, Cook County Sheriff's Police deputy for staff services.

Following Monday's county board meeting, Yucevicius repeated his desire for the sheriff's police to provide extra patrolmen to townships for the cost of men's salaries.

HUPPERT SAID HE has reservations about the constitutionality of the bill passed in the last Illinois General Assembly that authorizes contract police. He noted that Cook County States Atty. Edward Hanrahan, in commenting on possibility of offering extra patrol, was vague on the role the county's advisory committee HELP would play in working out the program.

HELP designates the number of employees permitted in fee offices and the Sheriff's Police is a fee office, Huppert said, indicating HELP may have to authorize contracts.

Huppert further pointed out the state bill requires the county to contract to provide extra police, which in Cook County, would be for the autonomous sheriff's office.

Commissioner Floyd Fulle said townships interested in the police proposal will have to budget for it in April. Aware of possible de'ays of a decision, Fulle said if townships levy a tax for police purposes, the tax could be abated if the service is not available.

Yucevicius said the sheriff's office could provide men in four months time after a contract is signed. Providing the request is for 50 or less additional men, there would be no problems, he added.

HE SAID THAT the department has 317 men on the force, with only 170 actually involved in patrol. The sheriff's office would assume costs of backup support and command troops if townships paid patrolmen's salaries, he said.

The major said townships are waiting to see contract proposals before deciding on whether to go into the contract police program. The county board must determine the proposals contained in the contract, he added.

Measles Program OK'd By Dist. 59

A Rubella immunization program was approved by the District 59 Board of Education after a heart-rending appeal by Alice Hufton, district nursing supervisor.

"The whole purpose of the program is to prevent occurrence of some defects in birth from a possible epidemic expected this year or next. We have not had a major epidemic since 1965. We are dealing with something very tangible. The evidence from the 1965 epidemic can be seen in the special education classrooms right now," she said.

The services of the nurses club and the doctors will be free, but a $2 cost for the vaccine will be asked. There will be no cost to the district.

A tentative schedule has been set up for immunization during school hours in the elementary schools April 28 to May 1. Mrs. Hufton explained that the threat is not to the school child but to pregnant mothers who might come in contact with them. She added that the program would not be held in the junior high schools because doctors will not immunize girls of child-bearing age.

In other action, the board approved a revised 1970-71 school calendar with classes opening September 8 as opposed to the original calendar which was identical to District 214's with an opening date of August 31. In the superintendent's report, it was announced Harry Peterson, District 59 board member had taken out a nominating petition for the April 11 election. Peterson is the second board member to take out a petition for reelection in the April vote. The other board member to get a petition is Paul Neuhauser, running for the two-year seat. Al Domancio, the third board member whose term will expire in April has announced he will not run.

Friday is the last day for filing petitions.

Smiley Seeks Dist. 59 Post

Jerry Smiley, 1156 Cheltenham Lane in Elk Grove Village, has become the eighth announced candidate for a seat on the School Dist. 59 board of education.

On Friday he announced that he plans to file the necessary nominating petitions this week.

Smiley is the second candidate to seek the lone two-year seat. Paul Neuhauser, the incumbent, filed his petition Feb. 25. All the other candidates have filed for the other three openings which are three-year terms.

Smiley is a staff industrial engineer for Continental Can Co. located in Centex Industrial Park.

There are several reasons why Smiley is seeking a board seat. He said he has a desire to contribute something to the area in which he lives. He will have two of his four children attending Dist. 59 schools this fall.

Secondly, he said he was concerned with the relatively small number of candidates who had filed for the election, especially the two-year term since the incumbent was running unopposed.

He said his background in education and industry had given him the tools to cope with some of education's most pressing problems.

Tollway Interchange Clears Hurdle

The Northwest Tollway-Arlington Heights Road interchange cleared another paper hurdle Monday when the Cook County Board agreed to negotiate an easement on forest preserve district property for a cloverleaf.

Acting as a forest preserve district board, county commissioners agreed to give up 10.2 acres of land at the southwest corner of the two major roadways intersection between Arlington Heights and Elk Grove Village.

The Illinois Toll Highway Commission

awarded Feb. 26 a construction contract for an on-off interchange to the Tollway. Work has been delayed until the commission holds title to all land needed in four quadrants necessary for a cloverleaf.

THE $1,149,953 CONTRACT will provide a half interchange accommodating all traffic to and from Chicago. No date has been set for another two ramps to accommodate traffic to the west.

Arthur Jamura, superintendent of the Cook County Forest Preserve District, recommended granting the easement

Monday, stating the commission had first asked for 12 acres. He noted his office had once recommended the entire interchange be put on private property east of Arlington Heights Road but was talked out of this because of the design necessity to turn left across Arlington Heights Road.

The Toll Highway Commission is negotiating for a total 35 acres on land around the intersection. Acquisition is expected by the end of this month and the tollway ramps are expected to be completed by late December.

Of all the parcels the commission is bargaining for, the forest preserve district, with its hard nosed policy of refusing to give up land even for public purposes, had the commission most worried.

COOK COUNTY Commissioner Floyd Fulle told the county board Monday that to refuse to give up the land would nullify the entire interchange. He said the connections are vital for traffic flow in the fast-growing northwest suburban area.

Forest Preserve District attorneys are to negotiate the price for relinquishing the land for the Tollway. Money from this sale will be used to buy comparable acreage elsewhere, County Board Pres. George Dunne said.

The Arlington Heights Road toll access will primarily benefit Arlington Heights and Elk Grove Village drivers who must now drive out of the way for tollway access. An interchange will also benefit Northwest suburban industries that rely on Chicago labor.

To Rule On Measles Plan

A decision is expected today on who will be responsible for the German measles immunization program in the northwest suburban north this spring.

State officials will attend a meeting at the Cook County Public Health Department to discuss details and financing of the project. The Health Department has told Northwest Community Hospital that a firm decision should be made during the conference.

With the prospect of a measles epidemic this spring, the hospital had made plans with school districts in the area to immunize 9,000 children in late April. Making the children immune, it is hoped, the epidemic will not move north to the state.

WHEN A WOMAN has German measles while in pregnancy, there is a 1 in 4 chance that her child will be born with a severe birth defect. Cost to parents for the child, which will be done at the cost of $1,000, is projected at $2.

After preliminary plans were made, the Health Department learned that the state has no funds available for a measles immunization project.

Hospital officials hope to learn today whether state funds are available and what date would be set for the immunizations. If the state program does not materialize, Northwest Community will continue to use plans for the late April injections.

Stop Poisonings — Stress Care

Children who have raided the medicine cabinet and stuffed themselves full of aspirin, birth control pills or penicillin tablets are rushed to Northwest Community Hospital every week.

March 15 to 21 has been named Poison Prevention Week throughout the country. Statistics at Northwest Community alone show that 69 ingested poison victims arrived at the emergency room since Jan. 1.

Children ages one to four make up the majority of cases and the top favorite is aspirin. It is preferred three to one over all other types of materials which may be poisonous to children.

Other substances taken include fuel oil, furniture polish, paint thinner and car cleaner. Honorable mention for trying the most unpalatable substance could go to the child who ate concrete Red-Mix in a store.

ONLY ONE PATIENT between the ages of 4 and 13 was admitted to the emergency room, a 9-year-old who in the company of teenagers drank a toxic poison.

Who Will Squeeze Them?

Designs are being drawn for machines that will pick wash and can tomatoes right in the fields.

A few poisoning cases in the teen and adult bracket were accidental, such as food poisoning. The majority, however, are listed as overdoses. Hospital officials said that teenagers often discover they are poisoned when they only intended an experience.

The two-month record at the emergency room shows that 22 small boys and 11 small girls, seven male teens and four female teens and five male adults and 20 female adults were admitted.

At least half could have been prevented with a small degree of care on the part of the parents and the rest prevented with a little understanding and compassion, a hospital official pointed out.

Computerized Traffic Plan

Montgomery County, one of at least five in the nation, which will participate in a county-wide computerized traffic program, which will be in the near future.

Village Mayor Alvin P. Parnett and Police Chief N. J. B. B. attended a seminar Tuesday at the Holiday Inn in Skokie, with officials of the sponsoring group, the Computer Management Consultants, Inc., and other suburban officials.

The program, which is offered at no cost, consists of participating communities being able to obtain information to the traffic data computer in Skokie, which will be able to which will be used in the village trials.

BARNETT SAID THE information is not available and he said it would be similar to some through records now kept in truck cabinets at the village hall.

The program is the first of its kind in the county, and it is a problem on the CRASH computer, which is a retrieval system.

It is not clear if the program exists will be of great benefit to the village. The chief of traffic is spinning into other areas, such as the program, which is a retrieval system, which is a retrieval system.

Expect Low Voter Turnout

He Gets Election Support

A flurry of election eve support for William H. Rentschler's bid for the Republican nomination for United States Senator has added a touch of excitement to today's Republican primary race.

Activity on Rentschler's behalf developed in Palatine and Wheeling Townships but Rentschler's opponent, Sen. Ralph T. Smith, is still considered a heavy favorite both statewide and in this predominantly Republican suburban area.

In Palatine Township Rentschler received an endorsement by Palatine Mayor Jack Moodie. Palatine Township's Republican Organization has endorsed Smith but Moodie and several other top Republicans are known to prefer Rentschler.

"I think he's (Rentschler) our best candidate," Moodie said. "I agree with him on many things, including his insistence that the Republican Party maintain open primary elections. I also agree with his views against high interest rates as a means of curbing inflation and would prefer as he does that government spending be cut."

Moodie, who was elected mayor on a Republican ticket, also said he agrees with Rentschler's support of President Nixon's plan to Vietnamize the war.

Moodie was active in last fall's campaign to elect U.S. Rep. Philip Crane.

The Wheeling Township movement for Rentschler is not as open but may have more results.

Like Palatine Township, Wheeling's GOP has endorsed Smith but this weekend, campaign literature for Rentschler was being widely distributed through the township.

In both Wheeling and Palatine Townships, Smith's endorsement followed lengthy discussion and many party members who voted for the senator were known to favor Rentschler.

LISA MENAS, left, and Mrs. Dean Thomas, both of Mount Prospect, weave baskets during a "Mini-Jamb" held at Lincoln Junior High School Saturday. More than 400 junior Girl Scouts from service units 410, 411 and 412 participated in the jumboree square dancing, a fashion show of dresses the girls made, and a drama presentation were highlights of the jumboree.

Polls will be open until 6 p.m. today for Illinois Republicans to nominate a United States Senate candidate and for Democrats in the Northwest suburbs to select a congressional candidate and local township committeemen.

A low vote turnout is forecast for the primary, due primarily to the lack of competition on the Republican side of the ballot.

Only one GOP race exists in this area as local candidates for state office and for township committeemen positions are unchallenged.

THE MAIN EVENT is between Sen. Ralph T. Smith and William Rentschler, the opponents for the GOP Senate nomination.

Smith was appointed to the position by Gov. Richard Ogilvie last fall following the death of Sen. Everett M. Dirksen.

Rentschler, who disagreed with Ogilvie's choice last fall, is the only Republican who chose to challenge Smith although perennial candidate Lar "America First" Daly is on the ballot.

The winner of the Smith-Rentschler fight will oppose Democrat Adlai E. Stevenson III in the general election in November.

Locally, the only contested races are on the Democratic side of the ballot.

OF FOREMOST interest is the race between State Rep. Edward Warman, D-Skokie, and Prof. Curtis MacDougall of Northwestern University for the Democratic nomination for Congress.

This is the second time around for Warman, who was defeated last fall by Republican Philip M. Crane in the special election called to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of Donald Rumsfeld.

Crane beat Warman by 20,000 votes in a low turnout election and the winner of today's primary gets the questionable honor of taking on Crane in the fall.

Another district-wide race for Democrats pits Raymond Krier of Niles Township against Lynn Williams of New Trier Township for the post of Democratic state central committeeman.

WILLIAMS IS AN anti machine, anti Mayor Daley candidate while Krier, the incumbent, is an admitted supporter of the Chicago mayor and his way of running the party in Cook County.

There is a "mini" Daley supporter vs. anti-Daley candidate battle in Palatine Township where Committeeman Peter Gerling is being challenged by Richard Mugalian.

racers where the incumbents are heavy favorites are in Wheeling Township where Committeeman James L. McCabe is challenged by Herman Koenenman, and in Schaumburg Township, where Committeeman John F. Morrissey is being tested by Charles DePaul.

THE COMMITTEEMAN terms are all for four years.

Voters today must declare a party preference and may not change their party unless they have not participated in a primary election within the past two years.

Library Plan Gets 1st OK

The Mount Prospect Dist. 57 School Board voted last night to go ahead with plans to extend library facilities at Busse Fairview and Lions Park elementary schools.

The vote, however, was merely an indication of the board's willingness to extend library facilities in the district. Many specific questions went unanswered which made the vote a tentative one.

At least three board members expressed concern as to the impact of necessary boundary changes to accommodate expanded facilities at Busse School.

SUPT. ERIC SAHLBERG told the board that to extend library facilities at Busse boundaries would have to be changed and about 70 children living west of Route 83 would be transferred to Fairview next year. He said the impact on Fairview would "not be significant."

Sahlberg said the expanding of the library at Busse was a "first step," and added that other steps will follow in the area of modernizing facilities.

"The role of the library will change," he said. "By 1980 we will have a very different type of library operation."

Sahlberg reiterated that the expanding of storage space was an initial step and said it had ample justification.

LEO FLOROS, who voiced the lone dissenting vote, questioned the motion and said he didn't think the board's decision to expand library facilities at Gregory School, the smallest school in the district, was a wise one.

"I'm concerned that 70 children can be transferred to Fairview without any problem," said Floros.

The cost of expanding the three libraries was estimated at less than $5,000 — but that is as tentative as the school board's vote.

Lincoln Street Like Swiss Cheese

Driving on West Lincoln Street in Mount Prospect is almost like taking a cross-country trip by stagecoach at the turn of the century.

Lincoln Street is in rough shape this spring. There are more holes in the pavement than there are in a pound of Swiss cheese.

And there's no remedy in sight for the rough road until May, when the frosts melt.

"WE'VE BEEN POURING tons of coal mix out there to fill in the chuck holes but it's just not holding up under the amount of traffic there is on Lincoln Street. And there's really no alternative, except to wait until spring when the frost melts. We can't pave the road until then," Village Mgr. Virgil Barnett said.

There's still about 14 inches of frost in the ground, and until the late spring thaw, there's not too much that can be done to repair Lincoln Street.

Barnett said there have been many complaints from residents about the condition of Lincoln Street as streets in the village.

"Most of the streets are in bad shape this year, which is unusual because we didn't have a particularly hard winter. Unless, the traffic problem is creating more of a stress and strain on the streets than we estimated," he explained.

ALTHOUGH THE CREWS from the public works department will not be able to patch up the streets until May, Barnett indicated there won't be any big improvements in the condition of the streets throughout the village this year.

"There's just not enough money appropriated in the budget to repair and resurface all the streets in the village. Although the budget has not been improved, there is every indication that repairs on existing streets will have to wait until other projects are completed."

"There are other improvements which have priority at this time, and these include the George Street and See-Gwun Street bridges over Weller Creek, the intersection at Northwest Highway and Central Road and the extension of Sunset Road," Barnett explained.

HE SAID THE recommended appropriation for street repairs under the proposed budget for the new fiscal year is only $160,000 which is not enough to restore all the streets throughout the village.

"We're going to patch up Lincoln Street, which is probably torn up more than any other street as soon as possible. Additional street improvements will just have to wait until we can put them in the budget," he said.

Here's Why Insurance Rates Are Rising

by GERRY DeZONNA

Automobile insurance today is as important as good clean air.

And they're both at a premium.

Automobile insurance is harder to come by these days than it was a few years ago but then, so is everything else. Even good clean air. Unless of course the public is willing to pay the price.

"State Farm, just like all the other insurance companies in the country, hasn't any choice but to increase insurance rates and pay closer attention to driving records and credentials," Jim Faetz, a State Farm insurance agent in Mount Prospect, explained.

State Farm, who just increased its insurance rates by 13.7 per cent this month, is not the only insurance company in the business to tighten controls on policies and prices in an effort to reduce the number of insurance claims filed annually.

"THERE ARE A number of reasons why the insurance rates have been increased this year. It's more difficult to keep up with the claims, needless to mention the cost of inflation, which is hitting every business today.

There was a $91.7 million national loss and more than a $700,000 state loss on insurance claims last year. There are more claims today than a year ago and there's more money involved with each claim. So, there's no alternative but to increase rates to meet the demands and pressure on the company," Faetz said.

In addition to inflation, the new cars aren't built to last. They aren't made like the 1950 models, which were almost as well-built as a Sherman tank. "The delicacy with which cars are built today is a contributing factor to higher insurance claims."

"ACCORDING TO SOME recent surveys, it's estimated that if an automobile, traveling at 5 m.p.h., is driven into a brick wall, there'll be about $260 worth of damage done to the car. But, if a man hit a brick wall traveling at 5 m.p.h., he'd be able to get up off the ground, shake his head and walk away with nothing more serious than a scratched nose and a bruised knee.

"And I'm not kidding you. These are the statistics," Faetz explained.

And it's also one of the most important reasons why insurance rates are increasing in leaps and bounds.

In addition to the increase in rates, insurance companies will have to take a closer look at driving records and credentials before policies are underwritten and approved.

"It's important to determine what kind of risk is involved in insuring the driver of the car. The number of moving violations on his driving record is important to consider as well as contributory negligence," he explained.

BUT, A PERSON'S driving record is only part of the information secured before policies are approved. Risk also includes the driver's age, marital status, residence, gross mileage per year and type of automobile he drives.

"We have a surcharge on high-performance automobiles now, and we never had that added charge before this time. High-performance automobiles are defined as high-cubic-inch-displacement engines which include a Corvette as well as a Plymouth Road Runner. And the surcharge is an additional 25 per cent," he explained.

"Another revision in policy, effective March 11, is to narrow the gap between insurance rates for men and women under 25-years-old. In the past, men have always paid higher rates than women. But now, women are involved in almost as many accidents as men. The only exception is women have less serious accidents than men. They have fender-benders, while the men have high-cost accidents."

RISK IS ALSO evaluated on marital status. Married men are considered less of an insurance risk than single men based on the difference in responsibilities and attitude. Also, drivers living in Chicago pay higher premiums than drivers living in the suburbs or less populated areas.

Faetz said there are many factors used to determine a driver's risk to the insurance company and it's difficult to make one blanket statement on why a person's insurance application is rejected or his premium is higher than his friend's rate.

The increases in insurance claims, inflation and the ways in which cars are built today are all factors in the rising cost of automobile insurance. And by screening policy applications and weeding out the "bad risk driver," the insurance company hopes to help defer its own costs as well as those to its policy holders.

"WE ALL NEED TO take a good look, a closer evaluation of the insurance business. Insurance was devised to protect the policy holder at no better or worse than before his accident," Faetz said.

She's 'Obligated' to Volunteer Projects

by SANDRA BROWNING

"There's something beautiful about doing something because you want to and not because you have to," the woman said.

And there's something beautiful about Esther Rabchuk's dedication to volunteer work. This dedication has led her to the executive director's chair of the Volunteer Service Bureau of Northwest Cook County.

"I considered my volunteer work worthy of an obligation," Mrs. Rabchuk says, explaining her decision to take the director's job.

As head of the bureau, Mrs. Rabchuk works with placing volunteers who register at the bureau's office at Hersey High School, Arlington Heights. She also works with various agencies, including schools and hospitals, in finding needed volunteers.

AS THE MATCHMAKER between agencies and volunteers, the bureau can offer a different assignment for a volunteer who finds he isn't quite suited for a particular job.

Although at present the bureau is actively placing volunteers in Dist. 214, 25, 23, 21 and 57, Mrs. Rabchuk is planning to expand the program to include all school districts in the Northwest suburbs. Mrs. Rabchuk said school districts interested in starting a volunteer program may contact the office, 392-6051.

The school program is the strongest in Dist. 25, Arlington Heights, where many of the individual schools have a school coordinator who serves as the liaison with the staff and the volunteer bureau. The coordinator isolates the specific needs for volunteers in the school and then can contact the main bureau office to find someone to fill the request.

MOST OF THE people who serve as coordinators trained for their jobs by attending a nine-week training session held at Arlington High School last fall.

The volunteers used in schools and other agencies "are not just another pair of hands," Mrs. Rabchuk stressed. She said the bureau is the most pleased with enrichment programs.

Enrichment programs include activities planned to supplement regular classroom instruction. One woman has shown slides and given a talk on the Middle East to supplement textbook material.

A RETIRED MAN is sharing his extra time and helping boys with woodworking. A music teacher is helping a child learn to play the piano to increase his finger dexterity. Hopefully, this will help him with his problems in handwriting.

The list of possibilities is endless. Special speakers have been brought in to teach children more about the space program and tutors work individually with children.

Mrs. Rabchuk observed a child may have a problem with a specific subject or have a general lack of interest in school. Often, a special volunteer helps with an outside project or activity which provides the spark to awaken an interest in school. "It's not particularly the activity, it's the person who makes the difference," she said.

TOO OFTEN, PEOPLE think they can't do anything and then we find they have talents or hobbies that we can use," she said. At present, the bureau is seeking an expert on the Revolutionary War to speak to elementary school children who are studying that period of history.

Sometimes people with hobbies of stamp collecting or decoupage are just what the agency needs. Sometimes it's just someone who has time to spend to visit residents of an old people's home serving as a friendly visitor.

A volunteer bureau to serve as a clearing house was first talked about in late 1968 and the first official office opened at Arlington High School in May of 1969. Mrs. Dennis Moore served as executive director for the bureau until the end of last month when she was forced to resign because her husband was transferred to Minnesota.

MRS. RABCHUK TOOK over the director's job the beginning of this month. She resigned as president of the American Association of University Women (AAUW) because "I knew I wouldn't be able to handle them both," she said.

Other activities Mrs. Rabchuk has been involved with include the Friends of the Arlington Heights Library, PTA, Dist. 25 nominating caucus committee and church groups.

With her new five-day-a-week job, Mrs. Rabchuk finds she spends more evenings at home with her husband, Alexander. The family which includes four children resides at 115 S. Donald, Arlington Heights.

MRS. RABCHUK says she has found an outlet for her desire for community involvement during the day as the volunteer bureau director and thus has more of her night time free.

The new job is challenging and Mrs. Rabchuk finds it is meaningful because "through community involvement, we will all benefit."

THE APPOINTMENT book may look empty but the days are full for the woman whose "avocation is people." Mrs. Esther Rabchuk was recently

Contract Police Hearing Upcoming

The finance committee of the Cook County Board is expected to set a public hearing soon to review possibility of offering contract police to unincorporated areas.

While expressing fear of complications in offering contract police, Jerome Huppert, finance committee chairman, said Monday he realizes the urgency for a county board decision before April 14 annual township meetings. Huppert said notices of the hearing will be sent to officials when the date is set.

Wheeling Township has indicated a desire to participate in an attractive contract police program, according to Major Anthony Yucevicius, Cook County Sheriff's Police deputy for staff services.

Following Monday's county board meeting, Yucevicius repeated his desire for the sheriff's police to provide extra patrolmen to townships for the cost of men's salaries.

HUPPERT SAID HE has reservations about the constitutionality of the bill passed in the last Illinois General Assembly that authorizes contract police. He noted that Cook County States Atty. Edward Hanrahan, in commenting on possibility of offering extra patrol, was vague on the role the county's advisory committee HELP would play in working out the program.

HELP designates the number of employees permitted in fee offices and the Sheriff's Police is a fee office, Huppert said, indicating HELP may have to authorize contracts.

Huppert further pointed out the state bill requires the county to contract to provide extra police, which in Cook County, would be for the autonomous sheriff's office.

Commissioner Floyd Fulle said townships interested in the police proposal will have to budget for it in April. Aware of possible delays of a decision, Fulle said if townships levy a tax for police purposes, the tax could be abated if the service is not available.

Yucevicius said the sheriff's office could provide men in four months time after a contract is signed. Providing the request is for 50 or less additional men, there would be no problems, he added.

HE SAID THAT the department has 317 men on the force, with only 170 actually involved in patrol. The sheriff's office would assume costs of backup support and command troops if townships paid patrolmen's salaries, he said.

The major said townships are waiting to see contract proposals before deciding on whether to go into the contract police program. The county board must determine the proposals contained in the contract, he added.

Measles Program OK'd By Dist. 59

A Rubella immunization program was approved by the District 59 Board of Education after a heart-rending appeal by Alice Hufton, district nursing supervisor.

"The whole purpose of the program is to prevent occurrence of some defects in birth from a possible epidemic expected this year or next. We have not had a major epidemic since 1965. We are dealing with something very tangible. The evidence from the 1965 epidemic can be seen in the special education classrooms right now," she said.

The services of the nurses club and the doctors will be free, but a $2 cost for the vaccine will be asked. There will be no cost to the district.

A tentative schedule has been set up for immunization during school hours in the elementary schools April 26 to May 1. Mrs. Hufton explained that the threat is not to the school child but to pregnant mothers who might come in contact with them. She added that the program would not be held in the junior high schools because doctors will not immunize girls of child-bearing age.

In other action, the board approved a revised 1970-71 school calendar with classes opening September 8 as opposed to the original calendar which was identical to District 214's with an opening date of August 31. In the superintendent's report, it was announced Harry Peterson, District 59 board member had taken out a nominating petition for the April 11 election. Peterson is the second board member to take out a petition for reelection in the April vote. The other board member to get a petition is Paul Neuhauser, running for the two-year seat. Al Dominico, the third board member whose term will expire in April has announced he will not run.

Friday is the last day for filing petitions.

Smiley Seeks Dist. 59 Post

Jerry Smiley, 1156 Cheltenham Lane in Elk Grove Village, has become the eighth announced candidate for a seat on the School Dist. 59 board of education.

On Friday he announced that he plans to file the necessary nominating petitions this week.

Smiley is the second candidate to seek the lone two-year seat. Paul Neuhauser, the incumbent, filed his petition Feb. 25. All the other candidates have filed for the other three openings which are three-year terms.

Smiley is a staff industrial engineer for Continental Can Co. located in Centex Industrial Park.

There are several reasons why Smiley is seeking a board seat. He said he has a desire to contribute something to the area in which he lives. He will have two of his four children attending Dist. 59 schools this fall.

Secondly, he said he was concerned with the relatively small number of candidates who had filed for the election, especially the two-year term since the incumbent was running unopposed.

He said his background in education and industry had given him the tools to cope with some of education's most pressing problems.

ALL-GIRL COLOR GUARD, The Hi-Lifers, of Glenview, Ill., perform a drill during the Drum and Bugle Corps and Color Guard Contest in Jane Adams Junior High in Schaumburg Saturday. Units

from Illinois, Iowa, and Wisconsin participated in the competition. Exhibitions of marching precision were also given by the Guardsmen Drum and Bugle Corps and the Guardsmen Cadets, located in the Northwest suburbs. The Guardsmen practice at Helen Keller Junior High.

Tollway Interchange Clears Hurdle

The Northwest Tollway-Arlington Heights Road interchange cleared another paper hurdle Monday when the Cook County Board agreed to negotiate an easement on forest preserve district property for a cloverleaf.

Acting as a forest preserve district board, county commissioners agreed to give up 10.2 acres of land at the southwest corner of the two major roadways intersection between Arlington Heights and Elk Grove Village.

The Illinois Toll Highway Commission

awarded Feb. 26 a construction contract for an on-off interchange to the Tollway. Work has been delayed until the commission holds title to all land needed in four quadrants necessary for a cloverleaf.

THE $1,149,963 CONTRACT will provide a half interchange accommodating all traffic to and from Chicago. No date has been set for another two ramps to accommodate traffic to the west.

Arthur Janura, superintendent of the Cook County Forest Preserve District, recommended granting the easement

Monday, stating the commission had first asked for 12 acres. He noted his office had once recommended the entire interchange be put on private property east of Arlington Heights Road but was talked out of this because of the design necessity to turn left across Arlington Heights Road.

The Toll Highway Commission is negotiating for a total 35 acres on land around the intersection. Acquisition is expected by the end of this month and the tollway ramps are expected to be completed by late December.

Of all the parcels the commission is bargaining for, the forest preserve district, with its hard nosed policy of refusing to give up land even for public purposes, had the commission most worried.

COOK COUNTY Commissioner Floyd Fulle told the county board Monday that to refuse to give up the land would nullify the entire interchange. He said the connections are vital for traffic flow in the fast-growing northwest suburban area.

Forest Preserve District attorneys are to negotiate the price for relinquishing the land for the Tollway. Money from this sale will be used to buy comparable acreage elsewhere, County Board Pres. George Dunne said.

The Arlington Heights Road toll access will primarily benefit Arlington Heights and Elk Grove Village drivers who must now drive out of the way for tollway access. An interchange will also benefit Northwest suburban industries that rely on Chicago labor.

UP, UP AND AWAY to spread the good will and friendship of the Camp Fire organization during its 60th anniversary week are 500 helium-filled balloons bearing the names of local Camp Fire girls. Sunday the girls met at Deer Grove to release their balloons into the air, hoping they would travel many miles before coming down with the messages attached.

Camp Fire Girls Have Anniversary

Camp Fire girls in Palatine and Rolling Meadows are celebrating the 60th anniversary of the organization's founding with 600,000 girls from around the world.

The Kayati District of Palatine, Rolling Meadows, Barrington and Lake Zurich began Camp Fire Week with church services Sunday, March 15, and the release of 600 helium-filled balloons at Deer Grove Sunday afternoon.

Each balloon carried the name of one local Camp Fire girl to spread good will and friendship where ever the balloons land.

CAMP FIRE GIRLS were founded in 1910 by the Gulick family, using the camp fire as a source of thought and tranquility. Outdoor activities are mingled with home activities with Indian symbols stressed in the activities.

The triangular Camp Fire girls symbol represents the ideals of work, health and love, expressed in the watch word "We-He-Lo." For 60 years, the organization has provided an opportunity for girls from 7-18 to enjoy activities with their age groups.

PEP's Big Business

PEP's fight against pollution took a turn into the business world this week with help from State Rep. Eugene Schlickman, R-Arlington Heights.

Schlickman has offered to sign over the voting rights for his Commonwealth Edison stock to the anti-pollution group.

The stock includes 133 shares, according to a spokesman from the legislator's office.

PEP (Pollution and Environmental Problems) began its pollution fight about a month ago in Palatine when a public seminar was held which drew more than 300 persons from the entire Northwest suburban area.

ANTI-POLLUTION forces throughout the Chicago metropolitan area are collecting Com Ed voting proxies for use at the utility company's annual meeting in April, according to Schlickman.

"They want to force the company's management to step up its plans to convert to lower-sulphur fuels and reduce air pollution throughout the area," he said.

"PEP's vice-chairman, Russ Strandberg, said, 'We're thankful for the recognition and encouragement given us by the stock offer.'"

"Maybe this will point the way for other stockholders and other business leaders," he added.

Strandberg said the group's votes will be in the best interests of improving the environment.

AFTER ATTENDING PEP's first public meeting, Schlickman said he was impressed with the group's enthusiasm.

"Palatine should be proud that its citizens have taken the lead in this anti-pollution effort," he said.

He explained that he could have signed over his proxies to one of the Chicago-based anti-pollution groups.

"But it needs to be brought home that pollution anywhere in the metropolitan area affects us all. I think this can best be done by groups working at the grassroots level," he said.

Schlickman said he did not see his moves as an action against Commonwealth Edison.

"I AM PART owner in Commonwealth Edison as one of its shareholders. In a private enterprise economy, all of us who are part owners in a company share responsibility for the company's policies. I accept this and I am taking this step to see that my views are effectively expressed at the company's annual meeting," he explained.

Strandberg cited the legislator's action as "a good example of how local organizations can find a variety of methods to fight pollution."

Collect Food For Breadbasket Plan

Hunger Week is being sponsored this week by the Immanuel Lutheran Church in Palatine to collect breakfast foods for Operation Breadbasket, the Southern Christian Leadership Conference's breakfast program in the poverty-stricken areas of Chicago.

Breakfast cereals, sugar, dried or canned milk, paper plates and cups, canned juices, pancake mix, coffee and canned foods are staples the parish is collecting. Palatine and area residents are encouraged to deliver food items to the church, 205 N. Bothwell from 9 to 5 p.m. and 7 to 10 p.m. through Saturday, March 21. Information about the project is available at the church office.

Operation Breadbasket estimates there are 36,000 hungry families in Chicago and 25,000 in the surrounding areas.

Plan Measles Program

A decision is expected today on who will be responsible for the German measles immunization program in the northwest suburban area this spring.

State officials will attend a meeting at the Cook County Public Health Department to discuss details and financing of the project. The Health Department has told Northwest Community Hospital that a firm decision should be made during the conference.

With the prospect of a measles epidemic this spring, the hospital had made plans with school districts in the area to immunize 36,000 children in late April. By making the children immune, it is hoped that expectant mothers will no longer catch the disease.

WHEN A WOMAN has German measles early in pregnancy, there is a good chance that her child will be born with a severe birth defect. Cost to parents for the injection, which will be done at the schools, was projected at $2.

After preliminary plans were made, the Health Department learned that the state may make funds available for a similar immunization project.

Hospital officials hope to learn today whether state funding is a certainty and what date would be set for the immunizations. If the county-state program does not materialize, Northwest Community will continue to make plans for the late April injections.

Development Is Approved

Construction of a 110-acre development including a YMCA building along Northwest Highway in Palatine Township is slated to begin June 1, a spokesman for L. F. Draper and Associates, Inc., said yesterday.

The Cook County Board of Commissioners approved yesterday three zoning changes that will allow construction to begin.

A spokesman for the local developer said the next step is to have engineers finish their final drawings and then let bids on the project. The estimated cost is between $15 and $18 million and the project will take three to four years to complete.

The county board reclassified about 16 acres of land about 250 feet north of Baldwin road and on the east side of Park Avenue, if it were extended, from single-family residence to a general service district. This will allow construction of a shopping center, gas station and a YMCA.

The Countryside YMCA has an option to buy a 10 acre site in the development.

THE BOARD ALSO approved a special use classification for a planned development on about 85 acres located at the southeast corner of Dundee Road and Coolidge Avenue for apartments and a change from a single family residence classification to a general residence classification on the same land.

The proposed development includes 1,000 apartments. The buildings are slated to be no higher than three stories and to be built at a rate of 12 units per acre.

The shopping center is planned for 13 acres, with a dinner playhouse comparable to Chicago's Ivanhoe Theatre.

A LARGE RECREATION area with tennis courts and an indoor-outdoor swimming pool is also planned.

The village has agreed to extend water and sewer lines to the development. The cost is to be borne by the Draper firm which will be reimbursed as other property owners connect to the water and sewer systems.

The development is expected to annex to the village when the boundaries are contiguous. Now the village boundary is about a mile east of the project at the Smith-Baldwin intersection. It has been estimated that the annexation will take place by 1971.

HERMAN HERTOG, executive director of the Countryside YMCA, said the ground breaking on the new Y will depend on a membership drive beginning April 1.

The Y, he said, now has 900 members and has set a goal of 2,000 members. If another 1,100 members join, he said, then the ground breaking ceremonies can proceed on schedule and take place by March, 1971. The scheduled completion date is May 9, 1972.

Hertog said the Y would not have a building program until there was a "clear demonstration" of support from the community. The least that was needed, he said, was a base of 2,000 people committed to supporting the Y's operating budget.

THE FASTEST any Y has moved from starting to a building has been eight years, he said, and Palatine is trying to do it in four. Normally, he said, it takes 15 or 20 years to construct a building. The Y felt, that the people of the community did not want to wait, he added.

Hertog said the costs of a building have not yet been determined. If the membership drive is successful, he said, then an architect can be chosen and preliminary plans can be drawn.

Youths, 17, Face Marijuana Counts

Two 17-year-old boys were arrested on charges of possessing drugs Saturday night by Palatine police in the parking lot of The Outpost, a teenage gathering spot at 724 E. Northwest Highway.

Philip J. Gray of Libertyville, a Palatine High School dropout, was charged with two counts of possessing marijuana, three counts of possessing a dangerous drug, LSD, and two counts of selling a dangerous drug, LSD. Gray is being held in the Palatine police lockup. Bond is set at $20,500.

The other youth, Daniel D. Daly of 90 W. Baldwin, Palatine, was charged with possession of narcotics and mutilation of the American flag. He was released after posting $1,300 bond.

Both are scheduled to appear in the Arlington Heights branch of Circuit Court April 3.

Police also picked up two 17-year-old Arlington Heights girls with Gray and Daly. The girls were released in their parents' custody and no charges were placed against them. Police declined to reveal their identities.

About three weeks ago, police said they received information that Gray was selling marijuana and LSD in the area.

He was then put under surveillance.

The drug activity, police said, centered around the Jack-In-The-Box Drive-Thru Restaurant at Northwest Highway and Palatine Road.

When Gray was arrested, he was in possession of four pieces of LSD impregnated paper and more than an ounce of marijuana. He was hiding these items, identified by the state Crime Laboratory as LSD and marijuana, in his sock. Several marijuana cigarettes were also found in his car, police said.

Police Chief Robert Centner said the LSD was "high quality" and is the first time such quality drugs were found in the area.

Daly was arrested on the flag charge, because he was wearing a vest made out of an American flag, police said.

Gray faces two to 10 years in jail for the sale of drugs if convicted and one to five years for each count of possession.

Gray, a citizen of Great Britain, may face deportation proceedings if convicted on the drug charges.

Chief Centner commended the work of Officer Richard Sikorski, Lt. Frank Ortiz and Detective Sgt. Walter for their work on the case.

Low Voter Turnout Has Been Forecast

Polls will be open until 6 p.m. today for Illinois Republicans to nominate a United States Senate candidate and for Democrats in the Northwest suburbs to select a congressional candidate and local township committeemen.

A low vote turnout is forecast for the primary, due primarily to the lack of competition on the Republican side of the ballot.

Only one GOP race exists in this area as local candidates for state office and for township committeemen positions are unchallenged.

THE MAIN EVENT is between Sen. Ralph T. Smith and William Rentschler, the opponents for the GOP Senate nomination.

Smith was appointed to the position by Gov. Richard Ogilvie last fall following the death of Sen. Everett M. Dirksen.

Rentschler, who disagreed with Ogilvie's choice last fall, is the only Republican who chose to challenge Smith although perennial candidate Lar "America First" Daly is on the ballot.

The winner of the Smith-Rentschler fight will oppose Democrat Adlai E. Stevenson III in the general election in November.

Locally, the only contested races are on the Democratic side of the ballot.

OF FOREMOST interest is the race between State Rep. Edward Warman, D-Skokie, and Prof. Curtis MacDougall of Northwestern University for the Democratic nomination for Congress. This is the second time around for Warman, who was defeated last fall by Republican Philip M. Crane in the special election called to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of Donald Rumsfeld.

Crane beat Warman by 20,000 votes in a low turnout election and the winner of today's primary gets the questionable honor of taking on Crane in the fall.

Another district-wide race for Democrats pits Raymond Krier of Niles Township against Lynn Williams of New Trier Township for the post of Democratic state central committeeman.

WILLIAMS IS AN anti-machine, anti-Mayor Daley candidate while Krier, the incumbent, is an admitted supporter of the Chicago mayor and his way of running the party in Cook County.

There is a "mini" Daley supporter vs anti-Daley candidate battle in Palatine Township where Committeeman Peter Gerling is being challenged by Richard Mugalian.

Two other township committeeman races where the incumbents are heavy favorites are in Wheeling Township, where Committeeman James L. McCabe is challenged by Herman Koenenman, and in Schaumburg Township, where Committeeman John F. Morrissey is being tested by Charles DePaul.

THE COMMITTEEMAN terms are all for four years.

Voters today must declare a party preference and may not change their party unless they have not participated in a primary election within the past two years.

"There's something beautiful about doing something because you want to and not because you have to," the woman said.

And there's something beautiful about Esther Rabchuk's dedication to volunteer work. This dedication has led her to the executive director's chair of the Volunteer Service Bureau of Northwest Cook County.

"I considered my volunteer work worthy of an obligation," Mrs. Rabchuk says, explaining her decision to take the director's job.

As head of the bureau, Mrs. Rabchuk works with placing volunteers who register at the bureau's office at Hersey High School, Arlington Heights. She also works with various agencies, including schools and hospitals, in finding needed volunteers.

AS THE MATCHMAKER between agencies and volunteers, the bureau can offer a different assignment for a volunteer who finds he isn't quite suited for a particular job.

Although at present the bureau is actively placing volunteers in Dists. 214, 25, 23, 21 and 57, Mrs. Rabchuk is planning to expand the program to include all school districts in the Northwest suburbs. Mrs. Rabchuk said school districts interested in starting a volunteer program may contact the office, 392-0061.

The school program is the strongest in Dist. 25, Arlington Heights, where many of the individual schools have a school coordinator who serves as the liaison with the staff and the volunteer bureau. The coordinator isolates the specific needs for volunteers in the school and then can contact the main bureau office to find someone to fill the request.

MOST OF THE people who serve as coordinators trained for their jobs by attending a nine-week training session held at Arlington High School last fall.

The volunteers used in schools and other agencies "are not just another pair of hands," Mrs. Rabchuk stressed. She said the bureau is the most pleased with enrichment programs.

Enrichment programs include activities planned to supplement regular classroom instruction. One woman has shown slides and given a talk on the Middle East to supplement textbook material.

A RETIRED MAN is sharing his extra time and helping boys with woodworking. A music teacher is helping a child learn to play the piano to increase his finger dexterity. Hopefully, this will help him with his problems in handwriting.

The list of possibilities is endless. Special speakers have been brought in to teach children more about the space program and tutors work individually with children.

Mrs. Rabchuk observed a child may have a problem with a specific subject or have a general lack of interest in school. Often, a special volunteer helps with an outside project or activity which provides the spark to awaken an interest in school. "It's not particularly the activity, it's the person who makes the difference," she said.

TOO OFTEN, PEOPLE think they can't do anything and then we find they have talents or hobbies that we can use," she said. At present, the bureau is seeking an expert on the Revolutionary War to speak to elementary school children who are studying that period of history.

Sometimes people with hobbies of stamp collecting or decoupage are just what the agency needs. Sometimes it's just someone who has time to spend to visit residents of an old people's home serving as a friendly visitor.

A volunteer bureau to serve as a clearing house was first talked about in late 1968 and the first official office opened at Arlington High School in May of 1969. Mrs. Dennis Moore served as executive director for the bureau until the end of last month when she was forced to resign because her husband was transferred to Minnesota.

MRS. RABCHUK TOOK over the director's job the beginning of this month. She resigned as president of the American Association of University Women (AAUW) because "I knew I wouldn't be able to handle them both," she said.

Other activities Mrs. Rabchuk has been involved with include the Friends of the Arlington Heights Library, PTA, Dist. 25 nominating caucus committee and church groups.

With her new five-day-a-week job, Mrs. Rabchuk finds she spends more evenings at home with her husband, Alexander. The family which includes four children resides at 115 S. Donald, Arlington Heights.

MRS. RABCHUK says she has found an outlet for her desire for community involvement during the day as the volunteer bureau director and thus has more of her night time free.

Park Dist. Plans Feminique Trip

On Wednesday, April 8, the Palatine Park District will sponsor a Feminique trip to the Pheasant Run Playhouse for lunch and a performance of "The Owl and the Pussycat," starring James Drury.

A bus will leave the park district office, 262 E. Palatine Road, at 11 a.m., allowing about one hour to shop at Pheasant Run before lunch at 1 p.m. The lunch menu provides five choices: poultry, seafood, salad and two beef lunches.

The play begins at 2:30 p.m., with the bus returning to the district office at approximately 6 p.m. Cost of the trip is $8.95. Anyone interested in making the trip must register at the park office by April 1.

Chierico Asks Board Resignations

Richard Chierico, twice defeated candidate for school board elections, asked the entire Dist. 211 board of education to submit their resignations "in the interest of the taxpayers and the community" at last Thursday's board meeting.

Chierico, who has picked up petitions for the upcoming school election, requested to appear before the board last week to discuss the board minutes of Feb. 12 and 26.

His major criticism of the minutes was their brevity. He said that important remarks made by William Odahowski on Feb. 12 and significant portions of his own remarks of Feb. 26 were omitted from the minutes.

In answering Chierico's complaint about board minutes, John O'Dell, administrative assistant to the superintendent, documented the board's privilege to keep their minutes concise.

O'DELL POINTED out several supporting reasons for brief board minutes in the Illinois School Code, "Actions in Brief," a booklet printed by the Illinois Association of School Boards, and "The Courts and the Public Schools," a textbook which cited several court decisions supporting the method of recording the minutes similar to Dist. 211's.

Chierico then asked what would happen if a concerned citizen wanted to find out something which transpired at a board meeting by reading past minutes.

Board member James Humphrey said that if any person was that interested he could have simply attended the meeting he is inquiring about, and if that was not feasible a phone call to any of the board members would suffice.

FOLLOWING Humphrey's comments, Chierico said, "In addition to my other remarks, and the March 11, 1970 published criticism by former assistant superintendent Thomas Maguire, and in the best interest of the taxpayers and the community, and to prevent further public embarrassment to the educators and students of Dist. 211, I recommend the entire board submit their resignations before the next school board election, April 11, 1970."

Roselle Road Project Gets Approved

Roselle Road, from Golf Road in Schaumburg Township north to Baldwin Road in Palatine Township, will be resurfaced and widened soon.

The Cook County board of commissioners Monday approved the project. Work is scheduled to begin in six to eight weeks.

The lanes will be widened to 11 feet and gutters and gutter outlets will be included in the work. The dip south of the Northwest Tollway in Schaumburg Township will be eliminated.

The intersection of Palatine Road with Roselle Road will be widened to four lanes. All intersecting minor street returns will be reconstructed. Steel plate beam guard rails will be placed at approaches to culverts.

THE CONTRACT was awarded to the Arcole Midwest Corporation and Rock Road Construction Co. and Allied Asphalt Paving Co. as a joint venture on a low bid of $399,863.

The contract is subject to the approval of the Department of Public Works and Buildings, division of highways, state of Illinois.

The resurfacing project is part of the 1970 Cook County Highway Department's budget. Motor Fuel Tax monies refunded from the state will finance the project.

The five miles of improvement will go past the west edge of Harper Junior College and along the eastern edge of Inverness. Major roads it intersects include Hillcrest Boulevard in Hoffman Estates, Algonquin Road and Palatine Road.

Huddleston Seeks Post

James Huddleston

James Huddleston, Rolling Meadows alderman, is seeking election to the Cook County Board of School Trustees in today's election.

Huddleston, one of 12 candidates running for 3 openings, is an inspector with the State Highway Department.

In deciding to run for the county office, Huddleston says there is no representation on the board from the northwest area. The board's sole duty is to hear petitions from citizens and boards of education on school boundary lines. Only one person from a Congressional Township District can serve on the board.

LAST YEAR the seven-member non-partisan board heard 10 petitions. One which is being filed this spring is from a group of Rolling Meadows residents seeking to detach from Dist. 211 and join Dist. 214 so their high school students can attend the high school being built in Rolling Meadows by Dist. 214.

Huddleston and his wife Verna live at 2305 Pulla St. in Rolling Meadows with their three children.

He attended Chicago YMCA Junior College and Northwestern University. The 39-year-old alderman studied through the Insurance Institute courses in business law, real estate appraisal and real estate law.

412 participated in the jamboree. Square dancing, a fashion show of dresses the girls made, and a drama presentation were highlights of the jamboree.

Dispute Wages...But Schools Are Needed

(Editor's Note: In this, the last in a three-part series on the current dispute over school sites in the Lake County portion of Buffalo Grove, the parties involved in the controversy offer their solutions to the problem.)

by SUE CARSON

The school site problem eventually will be solved. Everyone agrees on that.

But as to how it will be solved and what will happen to Kildeer School Dist. 96 in the meantime, the responses are varied.

Last month Dist. 96 condemned 15 acres of land in the Lake County part of Buffalo Grove's Strathmore subdivision. District officials hope to build a 1,500-pupil school on the site, which is owned by Levitt and Sons Inc., builders of Strathmore.

Dist. 96 Supt. William Hitzeman and the school board have predicted that approximately 2,000 to 2,500 Strathmore children eventually must be accommodated by the district.

LEVITT OFFICIALS feel the figure will be no higher than about 1,250 children. They feel two 700-pupil schools in Buffalo Grove would be adequate.

One fact is virtually certain: Split shifts lie in the immediate future for the district.

Construction has begun on the district's second school, a 700-pupil facility, on Checker Drive along Essington Lane in Buffalo Grove. However, it will not be completed until December, 1970, or January, 1971, necessitating split shifts next fall at Kildeer School in Long Grove, the lone school in the district.

But the 700-pupil school will only postpone the problem of overcrowding, say district officials. As for a solution, school officials have decided to condemn 15 acres of land in the village for a 1,500-pupil school.

"I FEEL THE JURY will see that the school board has acted in good faith," Hitzeman said. "It is difficult to believe that a jury would decide the land is worth $25,000 an acre, as Levitt claims. I feel it is worth between $3,000 and $5,000 an acre, and the district could easily pay this."

Edmunds also feels the district will be awarded "a fair price for the land."

He said that the district would have no trouble constructing the 1,500-pupil school, since it is 33rd on the list of school districts in the state and thus eligible for loans from the Illinois School Building Commission. (ISBC).

"Hopefully, we'll get the loan this fall. Bids on the third school should be let this summer and it will be occupied in September, 1971," he predicted.

Arthur Gingold, regional manager for Levitt, holds different opinions on the outcome of the condemnation suit. He feels the court will decide the land is worth considerably more than $3,000 an acre. He doesn't believe the district could afford to pay a court-determined price.

"FROM A CORPORATE standpoint, I'd like to see the condemnation suit go to court. But I think the school district would fare better if it was settled out of court," Gingold said.

Gingold offered two solutions to the problem. "Either Levitt and the school district should agree on an equitable price for the 15 acres or the school board should realize that alternative school sites do exist."

Don Thompson, Buffalo Grove village president, is also pessimistic that the district will be able to purchase the condemned land.

"THEY'LL BE DEAD if they lose that suit, which is quite possible," Thompson said. "And even if they could get the land, they still don't have any money to build the school. If it turns out that they can't buy the land they'll come back to us for one of the two public land sites available."

Thompson was referring to a 5.6 acre site at Arlington Heights and Checker roads and a 14-acre site adjacent to the Buffalo Grove sewage treatment plant.

Steve Havens, president of the Strathmore Homeowners Association (SHA), admits he doesn't know what the outcome is likely to be, or whether a 1,500-pupil school is actually needed in the area.

"How can Thompson and the village board tell the school district they don't need that third school? They (the district) should know the situation," Havens said.

The SHA recently conducted a survey of homes in Lake County Strathmore. Their figures show that considerably more school children will be produced from the development than Levitt has predicted. The SHA found an average number of 1.7 children in each home; Levitt's figure was 1.2.

"I don't know where the discrepancy is," Havens said. "Somewhere somebody's figures are all fussed up."

"I do know that enough furor has been raised up here about school sites that this situation shouldn't arise again," he concluded.

Camp Plan Is Prepared

With spring around the corner, the Palatine Park District is busy making preparations to get their resident camp program under way.

Held at Camp Reinberg, all Palatine area children will have the chance to enjoy the outdoors during four, two-week camping sessions.

The first period will be held from June 29 to July 10, which will be followed by a session from July 13 to July 24. The third and fourth session will be held, respectively, from July 27 to Aug. 7, and Aug. 10 to Aug. 21.

LOCATED NEAR Deer Grove, this camp is open to boys and girls ages 8 through 12. Cost for the 12-day outing is $90, which includes room and board, linens, insurance and all program supplies.

Presently there is room for 8 boys and 8 girls in each session. Applications for the program will be available at the Community Park office building, 282 E. Palatine Road beginning Monday, April 6.

Applications, which will be accepted on a first come first serve basis, may be returned with a $35 deposit after April 15.

UP, UP AND AWAY to spread the good will and friendship of the Camp Fire organization during its 60th anniversary week are 500 helium-filled balloons bearing the names of local Camp Fire girls. Sunday the girls met at Deer Grove to release their balloons into the air, hoping they would travel many miles before coming down with the messages attached.

PEP's Big Business

PEP's fight against pollution took a turn into the business world this week with help from State Rep. Eugene Schlickman, R-Arlington Heights.

Schlickman has offered to sign over the voting rights for his Commonwealth Edison stock to the anti-pollution group.

The stock includes 133 shares, according to a spokesman from the legislator's office.

PEP (Pollution and Environmental Problems) began its pollution fight about a month ago in Palatine when a public seminar was held which drew more than 300 persons from the entire Northwest suburban area.

ANTI-POLLUTION forces throughout the Chicago metropolitan area are collecting Com Ed voting proxies for use at the utility company's annual meeting in April, according to Schlickman.

"They want to force the company's management to step up its plans to convert to lower-sulphur fuels and reduce air pollution throughout the area," he said.

"PEP's vice-chairman, Russ Strandberg, said, 'We're thankful for the recognition and encouragement given us by the stock offer.'"

"Maybe this will point the way for other stockholders and other business leaders," he added.

Strandberg said the group's votes will be in the best interests of improving the environment.

AFTER ATTENDING PEP's first public meeting, Schlickman said he was impressed with the group's enthusiasm.

"Palatine should be proud that its citizens have taken the lead in this anti-pollution effort," he said.

He explained that he could have signed over his proxies to one of the Chicago-based anti-pollution groups.

"But it needs to be brought home that pollution anywhere in the metropolitan area affects us all. I think this can best be done by groups working at the grassroots level," he said.

Schlickman said he did not see his moves as an action against Commonwealth Edison.

"I AM PART owner in Commonwealth Edison as one of its shareholders. In a private enterprise economy, all of us who are part owners in a company share responsibility for the company's policies. I accept this and I am taking this step to see that my views are effectively expressed at the company's annual meeting," he explained.

Strandberg cited the legislator's action as "a good example of how local organizations can find a variety of methods to fight pollution."

Plan Measles Program

A decision is expected today on who will be responsible for the German measles immunization program in the northwest suburban area this spring.

State officials will attend a meeting at the Cook County Public Health Department to discuss details and financing of the project. The Health Department has told Northwest Community Hospital that a firm decision should be made during the conference.

With the prospect of a measles epidemic this spring, the hospital had made plans with school districts in the area to immunize 50,000 children in late April. By making the children immune, it is hoped that expectant mothers will no longer catch the disease.

WHEN A WOMAN has German measles early in pregnancy, there is a good chance that her child will be born with a severe birth defect. Cost to parents for the injection, which will be done at the schools, was projected at $2.

After preliminary plans were made, the Health Department learned that the state may make funds available for a similar immunization project.

Hospital officials hope to learn today whether state funding is a certainty and what date would be set for the immunizations. If the county-state program does not materialize, Northwest Community will continue to make plans for the late April injections.

Development Is Approved

Construction of a 110-acre development including a YMCA building along Northwest Highway in Palatine Township is slated to begin June 1, a spokesman for L. F. Draper and Associates, Inc., said yesterday.

The Cook County Board of Commissioners approved yesterday three zoning changes that will allow construction to begin.

A spokesman for the local developer said the next step is to have engineers finish their final drawings and then let bids on the project. The estimated cost is between $15 and $18 million and the project will take three to four years to complete.

The county board reclassified about 16 acres of land about 250 feet north of Baldwin road and on the east side of Park Avenue, if it were extended, from single-family residence to a general service district. This will allow construction of a shopping center, gas station and a YMCA.

The Countryside YMCA has an option to buy a 10-acre site in the development.

THE BOARD ALSO approved a special use classification for a planned development on about 85 acres located at the southeast corner of Dundee Road and Coolidge Avenue for apartments and a change from a single family residence classification to a general residence classification on the same land.

The proposed development includes 1,000 apartments. The buildings are slated to be no higher than three stories and to be built at a rate of 12 units per acre.

The majority of the apartment buildings will contain one-bedroom units and rents will range between $170 and $250 with some of the two-bedroom units designed as luxury apartments.

The shopping center is planned for 13 acres, with a dinner playhouse comparable to Chicago's Ivanhoe Theatre.

A LARGE RECREATION area with tennis courts and an indoor-outdoor swimming pool is also planned.

The village has agreed to extend water and sewer lines to the development. The cost is to be borne by the Draper firm which will be reimbursed as other property owners connect to the water and sewer systems.

The development is expected to annex to the village when the boundaries are contiguous. Now the village boundary is about a mile east of the project at the Smith-Baldwin intersection. It has been estimated that the annexation will take place by 1971.

HERMAN HERTOG, executive director of the Countryside YMCA, said the ground breaking on the new Y will depend on a membership drive beginning April 1.

The Y, he said, now has 900 members and has set a goal of 2,000 members. If another 1,100 members join, he said, then the ground breaking ceremonies can proceed on schedule and take place by March, 1971. The scheduled completion date is May 9, 1972.

Hertog said the Y would not have a building program until there was a "clear demonstration" of support from the community. The least that was needed, he said, was a base of 2,000 people committed to supporting the Y's operating budget.

THE FASTEST any Y has moved from starting to a building has been eight years, he said, and Palatine is trying to do it in four. Normally, he said, it takes 15 or 20 years to construct a building. The Y felt that the people of the community did not want to wait, he added.

Hertog said the costs of a building have not yet been determined. If the membership drive is successful, he said, then an architect can be chosen and preliminary plans can be drawn.

Camp Fire Girls

Have Anniversary

Camp Fire girls in Palatine and Rolling Meadows are celebrating the 60th anniversary of the organization's founding with 600,000 girls from around the world.

The Kayati District of Palatine, Rolling Meadows, Barrington and Lake Zurich began Camp Fire Week with church services Sunday, March 15, and the release of 500 helium-filled balloons at Deer Grove Sunday afternoon.

Each balloon carried the name of one local Camp Fire girl to spread good will and friendship where ever the balloons land.

CAMP FIRE GIRLS were founded in 1910 by the Gulick family, using the camp fire as a source of thought and tranquility. Outdoor activities are mingled with home activities with Indian symbols stressed in the activities.

The triangular Camp Fire girls symbol represents the ideals of work, health and love, expressed in the watch word We-He-Lo. For 60 years, the organization has provided an opportunity for girls from 7-18 to enjoy activities with their age groups.

Tickets on Sale For Celebration

Tickets for the Crystal Ball, the City of Rolling Meadows' 15th anniversary dinner-dance May 9, are on sale for Rolling Meadows residents at city hall and from anniversary chairman Chester Vandy in the Coach Lite shops on Kirchoff Road.

The dinner-dance, scheduled for the Mid-American and Futurities Rooms at Arlington Park Race Track, will feature long-time Chicago band master Dick Jurgens, who is returning to the state on a special tour.

Tables of 10 are available on a first come, first serve basis, Vandy said.

A cocktail hour will proceed a roast prime rib eye dinner at 8 p.m. Jurgens and his song bird Janet Evans will appear on stage at 9 p.m.

Cost of the tickets is $25 per couple.

Low Voter Turnout Has Been Forecast

Polls will be open until 6 p.m. today for Illinois Republicans to nominate a United States Senate candidate and for Democrats in the Northwest suburbs to select a congressional candidate and local township committeemen.

A low vote turnout is forecast for the primary, due primarily to the lack of competition on the Republican side of the ballot.

Only one GOP race exists in this area as local candidates for state office and for township committeemen positions are unchallenged.

THE MAIN EVENT is between Sen. Ralph T. Smith and William Reutenschler, the opponents for the GOP Senate nomination.

Smith was appointed to the position by Gov. Richard Ogilvie last fall following the death of Sen. Everett M. Dirksen.

Reutenschler, who disagreed with Ogilvie's choice last fall, is the only Re-

Crane beat Warman by 20,000 votes in a low turnout election and the winner of today's primary gets the questionable honor of taking on Crane in the fall.

Another district-wide race for Democrats pits Raymond Krier of Niles Township against Lynn Williams of New Trier Township for the post of Democratic state central committeeman.

WILLIAMS IS AN anti-machine, anti-Mayor Daley candidate while Krier, the incumbent, is an admitted supporter of the Chicago mayor and his way of running the party in Cook County.

There is a "mini" Daley supporter vs. anti-Daley candidate battle in Palatine Township where Committeeman Peter Gerling is being challenged by Richard Mugalian.

Two other township committeeman races where the incumbents are heavy favorites are in Wheeling Township, where Committeeman James L. McCabe is challenged by Herman Koeneman, and in Schaumburg Township, where Committeeman John F. Morrissey is being tested by Charles DePaul.

THE COMMITTEEMAN terms are all for four years.

Voters today must declare a party preference and may not change their party unless they have not participated in a primary election within the past two years.

'Woman of Year' Award is Planned

A Rolling Meadows woman will be named "Woman of the year" in the city at the Crystal Anniversary Ball May 9.

During the month of March, the Rolling Meadows Junior Women's Club is asking residents to submit by letter the name and qualifications of the choice. Deadline for the contest is April 1.

Only entries submitted by persons other than the nominee will be accepted and nominees must be residents of Rolling Meadows.

Entry blanks are available through Rolling Meadows merchants. The award will be presented at the anniversary ball in the Mid-American and Futurities Rooms at Arlington Park Race Track.

Organizations or individuals wishing to support a candidate should submit their letters to "Contest," 3803 Bluebird Lane, Rolling Meadows.

She's 'Obligated' to Volunteer Projects

THE APPOINTMENT book may look empty but the days are full for the woman whose "avocation is people." Mrs. Esther Rabchuk was recently

by SANDRA BROWNING

"There's something beautiful about doing something because you want to and not because you have to," the woman said.

And there's something beautiful about Esther Rabchuk's dedication to volunteer work. This dedication has led her to the executive director's chair of the Volunteer Service Bureau of Northwest Cook County.

"I considered my volunteer work worthy of an obligation," Mrs. Rabchuk says, explaining her decision to take the director's job.

As head of the bureau, Mrs. Rabchuk works with placing volunteers who register at the bureau's office at Hersey High School, Arlington Heights. She also works with various agencies, including schools and hospitals, in finding needed volunteers.

AS THE MATCHMAKER between agencies and volunteers, the bureau can offer a different assignment for a volunteer who finds he isn't quite suited for a particular job.

Although at present the bureau is actively placing volunteers in Dist. 214, 25, 23, 21 and 57, Mrs. Rabchuk is planning to expand the program to include all school districts in the Northwest suburbs. Mrs. Rabchuk said school districts interested in starting a volunteer program may contact the office, 392-9051.

The school program is the strongest in Dist. 25, Arlington Heights, where many of the individual schools have a school coordinator who serves as the liaison with the staff and the volunteer bureau. The coordinator isolates the specific needs for volunteers in the school and then can contact the main bureau office to find someone to fill the request.

MOST OF THE people who serve as coordinators trained for their jobs by attending a nine-week training session held at Arlington High School last fall.

The volunteers used in schools and other agencies "are not just another pair of hands," Mrs. Rabchuk stressed. She said the bureau is the most pleased with enrichment programs.

Enrichment programs include activities planned to supplement regular classroom instruction. One woman has shown slides and given a talk on the Middle East to supplement textbook material.

A RETIRED MAN is sharing his extra time and helping boys with woodworking. A music teacher is helping a child learn to play the piano to increase his finger dexterity. Hopefully, this will help him with his problems in handwriting.

The list of possibilities is endless. Special speakers have been brought in to teach children more about the space program and tutors work individually with children.

Mrs. Rabchuk observed a child may have a problem with a specific subject or have a general lack of interest in school. Often, a special volunteer helps with an outside project or activity which provides the spark to awaken an interest in school. "It's not particularly the activity, it's the person who makes the difference," she said.

TOO OFTEN, PEOPLE think they can't do anything and then we find they have talents or hobbies that we can use," she said. At present, the bureau is seeking an expert on the Revolutionary War to speak to elementary school children who are studying that period of history.

Sometimes people with hobbies of stamp collecting or decoupage are just what the agency needs. Sometimes it's just someone who has time to spend to visit residents of an old people's home serving as a friendly visitor.

A volunteer bureau to serve as a clearing house was first talked about in late 1968 and the first official office opened at Arlington High School in May of 1969. Mrs. Dennis Moore served as executive director for the bureau until the end of last month when she was forced to resign because her husband was transferred to Minnesota.

MRS. RABCHUK TOOK over the director's job the beginning of this month. She resigned as president of the American Association of University Women (AAUW) because "I knew I wouldn't be able to handle them both," she said.

Other activities Mrs. Rabchuk has been involved with include the Friends of the Arlington Heights Library, PTA, Dist. 25 nominating caucus committee and church groups.

With her new five-day-a-week job, Mrs. Rabchuk finds she spends more evenings at home with her husband, Alexander. The family which includes four children resides at 115 S. Donald, Arlington Heights.

MRS. RABCHUK says she has found an outlet for her desire for community involvement during the day as the volunteer bureau director and thus has more of her night time free.

Park Dist. Plans Feminine Trip

On Wednesday, April 8, the Palatine Park District will sponsor a Feminine trip to the Pheasant Run Playhouse for lunch and a performance of "The Owl and the Pussycat," starring James Drury.

A bus will leave the park district office, 262 E. Palatine Road, at 11 a.m., allowing about one hour to shop at Pheasant Run before lunch at 1 p.m. The lunch menu provides five choices: poultry, seafood, salad and two beef lunches.

The play begins at 2:30 p.m., with the bus returning to the district office at approximately 6 p.m. Cost of the trip is $8.95. Anyone interested in making the trip must register at the park office by April 1.

Chierico Asks Board Resignations

Richard Chierico, twice defeated candidate for school board elections, asked the entire Dist. 211 board of education to submit their resignations "in the interest of the taxpayers and the community" at last Thursday's board meeting.

Chierico, who has picked up petitions for the upcoming school election, requested to appear before the board last week to discuss the board minutes of Feb. 12 and 26.

His major criticism of the minutes was their brevity. He said that important remarks made by William Odahowski on Feb. 12 and significant portions of his own remarks of Feb. 26 were omitted from the minutes.

In answering Chierico's complaint about board minutes, John O'Dell, administrative assistant to the superintendent, documented the board's privilege to keep their minutes concise.

O'DELL POINTED out several supporting reasons for brief board minutes in the Illinois School Code, "Actions in Brief," a booklet printed by the Illinois Association of School Boards, and "The Courts and the Public Schools," a textbook which cited several court decisions supporting the method of recording the minutes similar to Dist. 211's.

Chierico then asked what would happen if a concerned citizen wanted to find out something which transpired at a board meeting by reading past minutes.

Board member James Humphrey said that if any person was that interested he could have simply attended the meeting

he is inquiring about, and if that was not feasible a phone call to any of the board members would suffice.

FOLLOWING Humphrey's comments, Chierico said, "In addition to my other remarks, and the March 11, 1970 published criticism by former assistant superintendent Thomas Maguire, and in the best interest of the taxpayers and the community, and to prevent further public embarrassment to the educators and students of Dist. 211, I recommend the entire board submit their resignations before the next school board election, April 11, 1970."

Although the board took no formal action on Chierico's remarks, Humphrey said, "I have tried to answer these wild charges time and again as a board member and resident."

"This board has done all it can possibly do to set the record straight. And after three years of hearing Chierico cry wolf and there is no wolf, you get tired of it and disgusted with it," Humphrey said.

Board member Robert Creek added, "The fact that Chierico has been defeated twice for elections bears out the sufficiency of his statements tonight."

Roselle Road Project Gets Approved

Roselle Road, from Golf Road in Schaumburg Township north to Baldwin Road in Palatine Township, will be resurfaced and widened soon.

The Cook County board of commissioners Monday approved the project. Work is scheduled to begin in six to eight weeks.

The lanes will be widened to 11 feet and gutters and gutter outlets will be included in the work. The dip south of the Northwest Tollway in Schaumburg Township will be eliminated.

The intersection of Palatine Road with Roselle Road will be widened to four lanes. All intersecting minor street returns will be reconstructed. Steel plate beam guard rails will be placed at approaches to culverts.

THE CONTRACT was awarded to the Arcole Midwest Corporation and Rock Road Construction Co. and Allied Asphalt Paving Co. as a joint venture on a low bid of $339,863.

The contract is subject to the approval of the Department of Public Works and Buildings, division of highways, state of Illinois.

The resurfacing project is part of the 1970 Cook County Highway Department's budget. Motor Fuel Tax monies refunded from the state will finance the project.

Talent Show, Election Set

A talent show and election of officers for the 1970-71 school year will be the program of the Cardinal Drive PTA meeting tonight at 7:30 in the school.

The talent show, with Lisa Anckorn as mistress of ceremonies, will feature a Jewish dance by Julie Cantwell, Margie Howell, Bobby Majikes, Terry Marinac, Dawn Johnson, Peggy Bellavia, Chris Korbal, Debbie Kedroski, Nancy Gross-lich and Denise Walker; dancing by Laura Fahn and Brenda Vance; piano solos, Carmen Clickner, Jean Young, Lori Licht and Margie Sheppard; organ solos, Ann Drexler, Marion Kasubjak, Karen Kwasniak, Valerie Severin and Debbie Kurelik; guitar duet by Greg Wentz and Clay Clickner; flute solo, Stanley Schubert; cornet, Don Ewald; clarinet, Roy Miller; violin, Vickie Shull; songs, Raymond Brachko, Steve Moran and Tim Slove.

JIM VERNALA WILL sing a song written by himself. John Hanson will recite his original poem, and skits will be performed by David Sechrist, Mickey Horcher, Tim Kuecker, Tim Horcher, Vanessa Kellerman and Marilyn Hedrick.

Paula Ericson and Barbara Nelson will perform with batons and gymnastics demonstrations will be given by Geof Marinac, Greg Graetz, Tim Swift, Mark Pastor, Scott Roberts, Dave Sellards, Dan Mate and Mark Miner.

For the finale, the PTA board will perform a skit and song.

Wrestlers Are Paced By Dick Crewerious

Wrestlers from the Rolling Meadows Park District won several important matches in the Deerfield Park District tournament last week.

Pacing the Rolling Meadows squad was Dick Crewerious who pinned three men on his way to capturing first place in 90 pound weight class.

Mike Oswald and Stan Stach each placed second while Tom Piccolo and Dick Whitfield placed third and fourth.

Scott Schroeder and Terry Conroy won first places in their opening matches but lost their next matches. Entrants losing opening rounds were Mike Roberts and Scott Rudd.

On March 19 the Rolling Meadows wrestlers will meet the St. Colette team to conclude an 11 meet schedule. Coaches Carl Couve and Mike Reynolds have entered their team in the annual VFW tournament at Hersey High School on Saturday, March 21.

Huddleston Seeks Post

James Huddleston

James Huddleston, Rolling Meadows alderman, is seeking election to the Cook County Board of School Trustees in today's election.

Huddleston, one of 12 candidates running for 3 openings, is an inspector with the State Highway Department.

In deciding to run for the county office, Huddleston says there is no representation on the board from the northwest area. The board's sole duty is to hear petitions from citizens and boards of education on school boundary lines. Only one person from a Congressional Township District can serve on the board.

LAST YEAR the seven-member non-partisan board heard 10 petitions. One which is being filed this spring is from a group of Rolling Meadows residents seeking to detach from Dist. 211 and join Dist. 214 so their high school students can attend the high school being built in Rolling Meadows by Dist. 214.

Huddleston and his wife Verna live at 2305 Fuller St. in Rolling Meadows with their three children.

He attended Chicago YMCA Junior College and Northwestern University. The 29-year-old alderman studied through the Insurance Institute courses in business law, real estate appraisal and real estate law.

LISA MENAS, left, and Mrs. Dean Thomas, both of 412 participated in the jamboree. Square dancing, a Mount Prospect, weave baskets during a "Mini-Jamb" fashion show of dresses the girls made, and a drama held at Lincoln Junior High School Saturday. More than 400 junior Girl Scouts from service units 410, 411 and presentation were highlights of the jamboree.
